INDUSTRIES INDORSE PRICE PROBE

U. S. To Protect Free Greece, Johnson Says

U. N. Council Votes To Seat Indonesia

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 12 (AP) — The United States today pledged action to protect Greece against what the American delegation described as efforts of Communist bands supported by Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia to set up a totalitarian regime in Athens.

United States Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson told the United Nations Security Council that "the government of the United States will not sit idly by while the territorial integrity and political independence of a member of the United Nations are challenged."

Declaring that the United States was ready to join with other countries to protect Greece "within the provisions of the Charter," Johnson said the United States was prepared, is necessary, to go outside the council for action.

Citicizes Soviet Veto

"We do not consider that our obligations or the obligations of the United Nations are ended because the Soviet Union sees fit to use her veto to block constructive proposals (for a Greek border watch) desired by nine out of 11 members of the Security Council. It becomes all too clear that the veto is being used in defense of the aggressions of Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria.

"It is the view of the United States government that Greece is in grave peril.

"This peril results from the guerrilla warfare being waged against the Greek government by Communist-led bands actively supported by Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia and by the Communist Party of Greece. It is perfectly clear that the governments of the three northern countries are working in close conjunction with the Greek communists with a common objective: The establishment in Greece of a minority totalitarian government which would be subservient to the Communist-controlled countries."

After three hours of debate this afternoon, the council voted 8 to 3 —with Britain, Belgium and France in the minority—to invite a representative of the Indonesian republic to the table for discussions on the Indonesian case. Former Premier Sutan Sjahrir was here to represent the East Indies republic.

Dutch Opposed Invitation

The Netherlands, represented as a non-member of the council, also opposed the invitation on the grounds that Indonesia was not a sovereign state. The ballot was on a procedural question and thus not subject to veto by Britain or France.

The council decided to meet again Thursday afternoon on the Indonesian question and will hear Sjahrir then. Tomorrow delegates will continue debate on the Egyptian complaint against Britain.

Johnson left open the question of exactly how the United States would proceed in the event of a continued council deadlock. He said:

"The continued failure of the Security Council to take effective action in this case because of the Soviet veto cannot in the opinion of the United States government preclude individual or collective action by states willing to act, so long as they act in accordance with the general purposes and principles of the Charter."

MAGISTRATE CHANGES LUCK OF MAN WHO TOOK WALK THROUGH TUNNEL

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12, (AP)—A bearded, soot-covered man, who gave the name of John Smith and said he was "sort of from Schuylkill Haven, Pa.," walked with Lady Luck through a mile-long railroad tunnel today.

Smith said he managed to sidestep five trains in the dimly-lighted cavern. He was straddling a third rail when he came out. A railroad policeman said contact with the rail would have killed him.

"Up to now you are the luckiest man I know," Magistrate Preston A. Uairo told Smith when he appeared on a charge of trespassing. "But your luck is about to change. You're fined $25 and costs."

Ports Notified To Be On Alert For Meyer

Ferguson Declares Probe Will Resume

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP) —All ports were alerted to bar party-giving John W. Meyer from leaving the country today as Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) announced the Howard Hughes hearing definitely will resume in the fall.

Hughes took off for California, meanwhile, disclaiming any knowledge of the whereabouts of his portly public relations man whose expense vouchers for girls and liquor figured in the inquiry into his war plane contracts, and Democrats cut loose with fresh criticism of Republicans over the affair.

Frank Dow, acting commissioner of customs, notified collectors at all ports to stop Meyer if he should try to leave and to take up his passport. Dow explained it was "just a precautionary measure" and that he had no definite knowledge that Meyer was headed abroad.

Meyer disappeared when the subpoena under which he had testified expired last week. The senators' inability to find him again was a factor in the recess of the hearing which came about abruptly yesterday.

Hughes Says "I'll Be Back"

Hughes smilingly promised the crowd at the airport that "I'll be back" if the inquiry is resumed November 17 as scheduled—and Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) promised it will be.

Ferguson, chairman of the Senate War Investigating Subcommittee which recessed its hearings suddenly yesterday after two stormy weeks, told newsmen that "we are going to try the case right in the committee room beginning Nov. 17."

He made this remark in declining to comment on Hughes' statement that he had been "vindicated" by the break-off of the hearings. Ferguson declared he does not intend to carry on a press or radio campaign.

Hughes had explained a radio invitation to "the millions of men and women who helped pull me through this fight" to see him off at the airport "and shake my hand or let me shake theirs." About 100 showed up, many seeking autographs. As the lanky multi-millionaire signed them good naturedly, a group of bystanders jokingly shouted:

"Hey, that's a blank check."

Hughes told newsmen that "the people and the press treated me more fairly than I had any right to hope."

Echoes Of Hearing

With Hughes at least temporarily fading out of the capital picture, echoes of the sensational hearing showed little sign of diminishing.

Major developments included:

1. Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) issued a statement entitled "Unexpected Benefits of the Brewster Blowup" in which he predicted that tightened laws against lobbying will result from the sudden ending of the Hughes probe.

2. Sen. Murray (D-Mont) called for a Senate investigation of investigations and told newsmen that the Hughes inquiry was "just another example of efforts to smear every witness who takes the stand."

3. At his home in Maine, Sen. Brewster, Republican chairman of the full Senate War Investigating Committee, commented tartly that Murray "is trying to stop the War Investigating Commitee again."

British, U. S., Yugos Sign Trade Pact

Will Help To Build German Economy

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 12 —(AP)—British and American negotiators, seeking to build up the economy of Western Germany, have signed a long-range $100,000,000 trade agreement with Yugoslavia, it was announced tonight.

This was the third agreement which the British and Americans had made in the last month with countries in the Russian sphere of influence — the others being with Czechoslovakia and Finland.

The pacts are being entered into in behalf of the British and American occupation zones of Germany.

Pact Signed Monday Night

Yugoslavia's intended purchases from Western Germany during the next four years, including capital goods ranging from light textile works to blast furnaces, were used in computing the value of the pact, which was signed last night.

Don D. Humphrey, head of the American delegation, said Yugoslav purchases might be lowered somewhat because of the type of materials the Yugoslavs wish to sell to the Germans in return.

The Yugoslavs had proposed that the bulk of their exports to Germany be expensive foodstuffs such as canned meats, pork and fats, but Humphrey said the Germans could not afford these items.

Subsequently the Yugoslavs submitted a list of other items they were ready to sell to the Germans including hardwood, antimony, copper, magnecite, mica, pyrite and some chrome ore.

No Specific Sums Mentioned

"Actually there are no specific amounts mentioned in the agreement," Humphrey said, "but the Yugoslavs have declared a desire to buy $100,000,000 worth of machinery for use in their five-year plan. We have simply agreed to the framework through which individual contracts can be made with private German enterprise."

The British and American negotiators came to Belgrade at the invitation of the Yugoslav government and concluded the agreement after discussions were in progress for less than a week.

7 Die In Brazil Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 12. (AP)—All seven members of the crew of a B-25 were killed when the Brazilian Air Forces bomber crashed near the San Baritiba Mountains about 90 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro, the Galeao Air Base said tonight.

NO ADMITTANCE—A girl in a bathing suit, identifying herself as Millicent Naylor, 27, former classmate of George Gollum at Los Angeles City College, hurries from the door to the courtroom at Santa Ana, Calif., where Gollum is on trial for murder in the Overell yacht deaths case. Red-faced deputies repulsed her when she tried to crash the locked courtroom yesterday when arguments over admissability of love letters Gollum exchanged with Louise Overell were being heard.

Hirshberg Guilty Of Striking Two Other Prisoners

Navy Vet Acquitted On Other Charges

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—A Navy court-martial today convicted 29-year-old Harold E. Hirshberg, 11-year Navy veteran, of striking two fellow prisoners in Japanese prison camps but acquitted him on seven other specifications involving more serious charges.

Hirshberg, a chief signalman and the first World War Two enlisted man to be tried on charges of maltreating fellow prisoners in Japaneses camps, remained rigidly at attention while the verdict was read and betrayed no emotion.

Faces Dishonorable Discharge

He faces possible dishonorable discharge, a prison term on each of the two specifications, and possible reduction in rank to seaman first class. Navy officers said the maximum prison term on each charge would be six months in peacetime but could be more since the alleged offenses occurred during the war. The trial lasted three weeks.

The penalties fixed by the court will not be made public pending a review by Rear Adm. Monroe Kelly, commander of the Third Naval District, and then by Rear Adm. Archibald Colclough, Navy Judge Advocate General.

If Colclough so decides, the Secretary of the Navy may make a final review of the verdict.

Acquitted On "Informer" Charge

However, he was acquitted on charges that he reported to Japanese guards the escape plans of three prisoners, resulting in the brutal torture death of one of the trio, Army Pvt. George Garrett, Waco, Tex., at the hands of the Japanese guards.

Hirshberg, who served as a section leader for American prisoners at various camps in the Philippines, was denounced by the prosecution

Fliers On World Flight Put Down In Greenland

NEW YORK, (Wednesday), Aug. 13. (AP)—William Strohmeier, flight manager for two ex-Army fliers making a leisurely world flight in a pair of light planes, announced early today that the pilots had landed in Greenland.

The pilots, Clifford V. Evans, 26, Washington, D. C., and George Truman, 39, Los Angeles, took off from Goose Bay, Labrador, shortly before noon (Eastern Daylight Time) yesterday.

Paraquay Rebels Reported Fleeing

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 12 (AP)—A high official Paraguayan source in Buenos Aires said he was notified tonight that insurgent forces had been "destroyed" around Asuncion and that remnants of rebel units were fleeing toward Piquete Cue and Villeta, north of the Paraguayan capital.

The source did not indicate whether the rebel forces mentioned in the message he receivd from Asuncion constituted the entire rebel army which has surrounded the city during the past several days.

Loyalist troops, the source said he was informed, "tenaciously pursued" the retreating rebels. Villeta is 12 miles northwest of Asuncion on the Paraguay River and Piquete Cue is 16 miles northeast.

An earlier official announcement from the Paraguayan government said a relief column of loyalist troops from the north had reached a point only 12 miles from Asuncion.

Insurgent attacks on Asuncion itself were continuous and "increasingly violent," the government said in its communique made public by the Paraguayan Embassy in Buenos Aires.

Paraguayans sympathetic with the insurgents claimed earlier that rebel forces had forced their way into the center of Asuncion.

Some refugees arriving at Glorinda, Argentina, reported that President Higinio Morinigo's forces in the capital were preparing strong points on the upper floors of the Bank of Paraguay and the Ministries of Finance and Public Works in anticipation of a possible rebel break-through into the city.

Ex-Butcher Says He Killed Bride

DETROIT, Aug. 12. (AP)—Prosecutor James M. McNally said tonight that Harry Treaki, 50, machinist and former butcher and chef, had admitted the dismemberment slaying of his 20-year-old bride, Jean.

The prosecutor declared Treakl, in contrast to previous statements, took full responsibility for Jean's death, asserting he killed her in their dingy, one-room apartment and dismembered the body there.

Heretofore, McNally said, Treaki had attempted to involve others but admitted tonight in a formal statement he was solely responsible, acting in anger over her "chasing around" with other men. He called her a "no-good woman," McNally said.

Various parts of Jean's body were found in nearby alley rubbish heaps Sunday. Police centered suspicion on Treaki after having claimed to have found blood spots in his room.

McNally said Treaki told of striking Jean over the head twice with the handle of a meat cleaver as he finished cleaning chicken for their dinner at the apartment.

Then, McNally said, the middle-aged husband described how he stabbed the young woman with a beer can opener and, using his experience as a butcher, dissected her body with a small knife on the linoleum floor.

The prosecutor said a murder charge would be brought.

Strip Mining Record

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 12 (AP)—State Mines Department officials estimated today that West Virginia's 1947 strip mine production may exceed 18,000,000 tons and surpass by almost 5,000,000 tons the previous record amount of coal from that source turned out last year.

Girl, 24, Who Eloped With Youth, 16, Changes Mind; Mother "Intervenes"

DAYTON, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—Miss Dolly Cox, 24-year-old Tennessee redhead who ran off with a 16-year-old youth for whom she professed undying love, changed her mind today a few hours after a deputy sheriff reported the boy's mother spat in her face and pulled her hair.

Deputy George Glander said Mrs. Effie Sirakides, mother of Louis Kotronis, with whom Miss Cox eloped August 5, ran up as the Greeneville, Tenn., mother of a three-year-old daughter approached entrance to the Juvenile Court building today.

The older woman roughed Miss Cox, spitting in her face and yanking her red tresses, Glander said. Dolly made no effort to protect herself and Glander said he separated the women.

Subsequently, Dolly told Judge Frank W. Nicholas, of Montgomery County Domestic Relations Court, she had decided to return to Greeneville and not again see her Dayton boy friend.

Judge Nicholas, after a hearing on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, passed a one-year suspended jail sentence on the young woman and fined her $50 and costs.

As he passed sentence, Judge Nicholas said:

"We don't want you in Dayton."

Army Planes Collide; Four Persons Perish

Two Craft Plummet To Earth In Flames

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 12 (AP) —Four persons were killed tonight when an Army A-26 bomber and an advanced trainer collided in the air and plummeted to the ground in widely-separated areas.

A Grenier Army Air Field official said the bomber, carrying three Army personnel, was en route from Andrews Field Maryland, and was within one mile of Grenier, its destination when it collided.

He said the second plane, out of the Bedford Army airport on a routine training flight, carried only the pilot.

The Army Public Relations officer said "all men in the planes were killed."

Eyewitnesses said the tail of the trainer was sheared off and that it lost a wing before it crashed to the ground.

The bomber—the same type flown around the world in record time by William P. Odom—was less than a mile from Grenier Field when it collided.

The trainer narrowly missed several homes in a residential section and crashed into a garage, setting it afire. The heavier ship came to the ground near busy route 101, which crosses the state.

Both planes caught fire in the air after the collision.

Grenier officials said the A-26 is part of its 66th Fighter Wing.

Identification of the victims was withheld until notification of next of kin.

The planes hit the ground about three miles apart, one of them in a residential section of South Manchester, and the bomber in adjoining Bedford across the Merrimack River near the Manchester Country Club.

House Of Lords Votes To Approve Atlee Measure

"Dictatorial" Bill Passed By Commons

LONDON, Aug. 12 — (AP) — The House of Lords approved by voice vote tonight on second decisive reading the Attlee bill giving the Labor government almost unlimited powers in dealing with Britain's economic crisis.

The Lords' action on the bill, bitterly assailed by the Conservative opposition as a dictatorial measure, came scarcely 12 hours after the House of Commons sitting throughot the night voted final approval out the night voted final approval in preparation for recessing tomorrow until October 30.

The vote in the House of Commons was 178 to 63. Many of the members had gone home exhausted when the vote was taken.

Bill Vigorously Denounced

Members of the House of Lords denounced the bill vigorously before bowing to the action in the House of Commons. Before consenting to approval, the Marquess of Salisbury, opposition leader, said the Conservatives would press for a special meeting of the House of Lords in three weeks—during the summer recess—to consider any action the government might take under its "crisis powers."

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison has already ruled out any scheduled session of the House of Commons during the recess, while leaving open the possibility of recalling both houses in the event of an emergency.

Sitting by themselves the House of Lords would have little if any control over government action, but Lord Salisbury said the Lords could at least decide whether such an action "is in our view in the interests of the courty or not."

Lords To Consider Amendments

The Conservative motion for a special session is to be presented before the adjournment tomorrow, when the Lords will consider possible amendments to the crisis bill before giving it final passage.

Specifically the bill gives the government wide powers to direct the economy so that the "whole resources of the community are available for use, and are used, in the manner best calculated to serve the interests of the community."

Gasoline Price Hike For Maryland Indicated

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP) — A half-cent a gallon increase on gasoline and other oil products was indicated today for Maryland, the District of Columbia, New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia and the Carolinas.

Similar increases recently were announced for the New England states and the midwest.

Sun Oil Company first raised fuel oil prices half a cent in the mid-Atlantic area on July 31 and Gulf Oil followed last Thursday.

Socony-Vacuum announced in New York today like increases would become effective throughout the area tomorrow.

Top Foreign Policy Team To Go To Rio

Marshall, Vandenberg Will Take Off Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—This country's top foreign policy team flies to Rio de Janeiro tomorrow to write an Historic Hemisphere defense treaty and perhaps a new chapter in bipartisan cooperation.

Secretary of State Marshall and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) are to take off together tomorrow morning for the first major international meeting the senator has attended since Marshall succeeded James F. Byrnes as secretary.

With them in the original presidential plane called "The Sacred Cow" will go Warren R. Austin, American representative to the United Nations and former Republican senator from Vermont.

Ministers To Meet

The conference of the hemisphere foreign ministers convening Friday will afford Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, an opportunity to extend GOP co-operation with and participation in administration foreign policy to the inter-American sphere.

This co-operation has been emphasized previously in the European field. Some Republicans in Congress have complained that the administration had not fully consulted with them on foreign affairs elsewhere.

Both Vandenberg and Austin are well-known in Latin America. Austin, a former member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, helped write the Act of Chapultepec in Mexico City in 1945.

That document contemplated the treaty to be conceived at Rio de Janeiro. Originally, the conference was scheduled for October, 1945, but was delayed twice by United States refusal to participate in any military treaty with Argentina until the Argentines acted against Nazis in their country.

Truman To Visit Brazil

President Truman, himself a symbol of the United States "good neighbor" after his visit to Mexico last March, will join the United States delegation in Brazil at the end of the conference.

Mr. Truman is expected to address a final session of the meeting —probably early in September The White House announced today that Mrs. Truman and Margaret will accomapny the President on his official visit to Brazil.

Diplomats expect the conference to last about three weeks. A dispatch from Rio today reported optimism among delegates already there and predictions of swift success in writing the treaty.

Clark Orders Investigation As Costs Soar

Gloves-Off Inquiry; CIO Urges Controls

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 — (AP) — A gloves-off investigation to find out whether "conspiracies" are responsible for high prices of food, clothing and shelter was ordered today by Attorney General Clark, with jail threatened for monopolists.

Spokesmen for those industries said in New York that their respective records are unblemished, that they welcome the rooting out of evils elsewhere. There were denials of conspiracies and a tendency to blame price troubles on supplies and on higher costs of labor and raw materials, plus world shortages.

As the Attorney General opened an offensive against the high cost of living which the government figures officially at an all-time peak:

1. The CIO Full Employment Committee urged that Congress be summoned into special session to restore price controls and wheel prices back to about where they were when it put OPA out of commission. If prices keep going up, the committee said, so will wage demands.

2. Congressional subcommittees were set up to look into price increases in the East and Midwest. Another will be named later to see what is happening in the Far West.

Jail Sentences, Not Fines

Clark handed over to the Justice Department's anti-trust division the job of determining whether there are any conspiracies to "maintain or to increase present prices" in the food, clothing and housing fields.

A department statement, reflecting a "get tough" attitude of officials at the top, promised criminal prosecutions for violators. Jail sentences—not just fines—will be asked for individual violators because Clark says a "new and more vigorous approach" toward the problem of soaring prices is in order.

The department will ask "maximum fines" for any guilty corporations.

The Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics' calculations of price increases are not strictly up to date. Late last month the bureau reported that in June the prices of things consumers buy averaged 18 per cent over June of 1946 and 59 per cent above August, 1939.

Compared with a 1935-1939 average of 100, the bureau's June index went up to a new top of 157. That was 0.6 per cent over the previous high set last March.

Not only was the Justice Department concerned at the trend.

Emil Rieve, chairman of the CIO Full Employment Committee, told a news conference that if Congress does not come back to combat price boosts, President Truman should call a meeting of industrial, labor and farm leaders to work out a voluntary plan for cutting prices.

Unions Would Co-operate

He said he thinks this can be done in some industries. And he predicted unions probably would make "what concessions are necessary" to help the nation's economy.

But Rieve preferred a law to clamp controls on prices once more, and to allow the President to bring back rationing. He did not suggest restoration of wage ceilings.

Before it adjourned, Congress assigned to a Senate-House Committee on the Economic Report the job of looking into living costs. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) is chairman.

A subcommittee under Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) was appointed today to study prices in the eastern states. Rep. Bender (R-Ohio) will direct another which will operate in the midwest.

Who Will Replace Drew Pearson!

Drew Pearson, author of the Washington Merry-Go-Round column, leaves on his vacation today — and also leaves his readers in suspense. He says that during his absence, the column will be written by "the best reporter in Washington, an old hand at calling the tunes on the Washington Merry-Go-Round." Aside from this hint, he leaves his readers up in the air as to who will write the column.

Tomorrow read The Cumberland News to see who "the best reporter in Washington" is. We happen to be in on the secret and feel certain you will not be disappointed.

"King Of Strikebreakers," Reputed To Have Earned $10,000,000, Dies

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP) —Pearl L. Bergoff, 73, whose activities as "King of the Strikebreakers" brought him a reputed $10,000,000 in more than 20 years of bloody labor battles, died last night.

Bergoff started his strike-breaking career in 1907 against New York longshoremen, and led armed thugs against workers in approximately 300 strikes.

Fifty-four deaths occurred during his strike-breaking campaigns, including 16 men, women and children killed in less than two months in the Philadelphia transit strike of 1910.

In 1934 he said he had 10,000 men employed in San Francisco "breaking a longshoremen's strike" and the same year he was charged in court by employes with receiving $14,500 for activities at a Georgia plant during a textile strike. He went into semi-retirement in 1937 and last year Bergoff finally gave up his career with these words:

"I swear to God, if I had my life to live over, with my organizing ability, I'd be another John L. Lewis."

U. S. To Protect Free Greece, Johnson Says

U. N. Council Votes To Seat Indonesia

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 12 (AP) — The United States today pledged action to protect Greece against what the American delegation described as efforts of Communist bands supported by Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia to set up a totalitarian regime in Athens.

United States Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson told the United Nations Security Council that "the government of the United States will not sit idly by while the territorial integrity and political independence of a member of the United Nations are challenged."

The council decided to meet again Thursday afternoon on the Indonesian question and will hear Sjahrir then. Tomorrow delegates will continue debate on the Egyptian complaint against Britain.

Johnson left open the question of exactly how the United States would proceed in the event of a continued council deadlock. He said:

"The continued failure of the Security Council to take effective action in this case because of the Soviet veto cannot in the opinion of the United States government preclude individual or collective action by states willing to act, so long as they act in accordance with the general purposes and principles of the Charter."

Ferguson, chairman of the Senate War Investigating Subcommittee which recessed its hearings suddenly yesterday after two stormy weeks, told newsmen that "we are going to try the case right in the committee room beginning Nov. 17."

He made this remark in declining to comment on Hughes' statement that he had been "vindicated" by the break-off of the hearings. Ferguson declared he does not intend to carry on a press or radio campaign.

Hughes had explained a radio invitation to "the millions of men and women who helped pull me through this fight" to see him off at the airport "and shake my hand or let me shake theirs." About 100 showed up, many seeking autographs. As the lanky multi-millionaire signed them good naturedly, a group of bystanders jokingly shouted:

"Hey, that's a blank check."

Hughes told newsmen that "the people and the press treated me more fairly than I had any right to hope."

Echoes Of Hearing

With Hughes at least temporarily fading out of the capital picture, echoes of the sensational hearing showed little sign of diminishing.

Major developments included:

1. Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) issued a statement entitled "Unexpected Benefits of the Brewster Blowup" in which he predicted that tightened laws against lobbying will result from the sudden ending of the Hughes probe.

2. Sen. Murray (D-Mont) called for a Senate investigation of investigations and told newsmen that the Hughes inquiry was "just another example of efforts to smear every witness who takes the stand."

3. At his home in Maine, Sen. Brewster, Republican chairman of the full Senate War Investigating Committee, commented tartly that Murray "is trying to stop the War Investigating Commitee again."

British, U. S., Yugos Sign Trade Pact

Will Help To Build German Economy

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 12 —(AP)—British and American negotiators, seeking to build up the economy of Western Germany, have signed a long-range $100,000,000 trade agreement with Yugoslavia, it was announced tonight.

This was the third agreement which the British and Americans had made in the last month with countries in the Russian sphere of influence — the others being with Czechoslovakia and Finland.

The pacts are being entered into in behalf of the British and American occupation zones of Germany.

Pact Signed Monday Night

Yugoslavia's intended purchases from Western Germany during the next four years, including capital goods ranging from light textile works to blast furnaces, were used in computing the value of the pact, which was signed last night.

Don D. Humphrey, head of the American delegation, said Yugoslav purchases might be lowered somewhat because of the type of materials the Yugoslavs wish to sell to the Germans in return.

The Yugoslavs had proposed that the bulk of their exports to Germany be expensive foodstuffs such as canned meats, pork and fats, but Humphrey said the Germans could not afford these items.

Subsequently the Yugoslavs submitted a list of other items they were ready to sell to the Germans including hardwood, antimony, copper, magnecite, mica, pyrite and some chrome ore.

No Specific Sums Mentioned

"Actually there are no specific amounts mentioned in the agreement," Humphrey said, "but the Yugoslavs have declared a desire to buy $100,000,000 worth of machinery for use in their five-year plan. We have simply agreed to the framework through which individual contracts can be made with private German enterprise."

The British and American negotiators came to Belgrade at the invitation of the Yugoslav government and concluded the agreement after discussions were in progress for less than a week.

7 Die In Brazil Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 12. (AP)—All seven members of the crew of a B-25 were killed when the Brazilian Air Forces bomber crashed near the San Baritiba Mountains about 90 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro, the Galeao Air Base said tonight.

NO ADMITTANCE— A girl in a bathing suit, identifying herself as Millicent Naylor, 27, former classmate of George Gollum at Los Angeles City College, hurries from the door to the courtroom at Santa Ana, Calif., where Gollum is on trial for murder in the Overell yacht deaths case. Red-faced deputies repulsed her when she tried to crash the locked courtroom yesterday when arguments over admissability of love letters Gollum exchanged with Louise Overell were being heard.

Hirshberg Guilty Of Striking Two Other Prisoners

Navy Vet Acquitted On Other Charges

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP)—A Navy court-martial today convicted 29-year-old Harold E. Hirshberg, 11-year Navy veteran, of striking two fellow prisoners in Japanese prison camps but acquitted him on seven other specifications involving more serious charges.

Hirshberg, a chief signalman and the first World War Two enlisted man to be tried on charges of maltreating fellow prisoners in Japaneses camps, remained rigidly at attention while the verdict was read and betrayed no emotion.

Faces Dishonorable Discharge

He faces possible dishonorable discharge, a prison term on each of the two specifications, and possible reduction in rank to seaman first class. Navy officers said the maximum prison term on each charge would be six months in peacetime but could be more since the alleged offenses occurred during the war. The trial lasted three weeks.

The penalties fixed by the court will not be made public pending a review by Rear Adm. Monroe Kelly, commander of the Third Naval District, and then by Rear Adm. Archibald Colclough, Navy Judge Advocate General.

If Colclough so decides, the Secretary of the Navy may make a final review of the verdict.

Acquitted On "Informer" Charge

However, he was acquitted on charges that he reported to Japanese guards the escape plans of three prisoners, resulting in the brutal torture death of one of the trio, Army Pvt. George Garrett, Waco, Tex., at the hands of the Japanese guards.

Hirshberg, who served as a section leader for American prisoners at various camps in the Philippines, was denounced by the prosecution

Ex-Butcher Says He Killed Bride

DETROIT, Aug. 12. (AP)—Prosecutor James M. McNally said tonight that Harry Treaki, 50, machinist and former butcher and chef, had admitted the dismemberment slaying of his 20-year-old bride, Jean.

The prosecutor declared Treaki, in contrast to previous statements, took full responsiolility for Jean's death, asserting he killed her in their dingy, one-room apartment and dismembered the body there.

Heretofore, McNally said, Treaki had attempted to involve others but admitted tonight in a formal statement he was solely responsible, acting in anger over her "chasing around" with other men. He called her a "no-good woman," McNally said.

Various parts of Jean's body were found in nearby alley rubbish heaps Sunday. Police centered suspicion on Treaki after having claimed to have found blood spots in his room.

McNally said Treaki told of striking Jean over the head twice with the handle of a meat cleaver as he finished cleaning chicken for their dinner at the apartment.

Then, McNally said, the middle-aged husband described how he stabbed the young woman with a beer can opener and, using his experience as a butcher, dissected her body with a small knife on the linoleum floor.

The prosecutor said a murder charge would be brought.

Strip Mining Record

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 12 (AP)—State Mines Department officials estimated today that West Virginia's 1947 strip mine production may exceed 18,000,000 tons and surpass by almost 5,000,000 tons the previous record amount of coal from that source turned out last year.

Fliers On World Flight Put Down In Greenland

NEW YORK, (Wednesday), Aug. 13. (AP)—William Strohmeier, flight manager for two ex-Army fliers making a leisurely world flight in a pair of light planes, announced early today that the pilots had landed in Greenland.

The pilots, Clifford V. Evans, 26, Washington, D. C., and George Truman, 39, Los Angeles, took off from Goose Bay, Labrador, shortly before noon (Eastern Daylight Time) yesterday.

Paraquay Rebels Reported Fleeing

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 12 (AP)—A high official Paraguayan source in Buenos Aires said he was notified tonight that insurgent forces had been "destroyed" around Asuncion and that remnants of rebel units were fleeing toward Piquete Cue and Villeta, north of the Paraguayan capital.

The source did not indicate whether the rebel forces mentioned in the message he receivd from Asuncion constituted the entire rebel army which has surrounded the city during the past several days.

Loyalist troops, the source said he was informed, "tenaciously pursued" the retreating rebels. Villeta is 12 miles northwest of Asuncion on the Paraguay River and Piquete Cue is 16 miles northeast.

An earlier official announcement from the Paraguayan government said a relief column of loyalist troops from the north had reached a point only 12 miles from Asuncion.

Insurgent attacks on Asuncion itself were continuous and "increasingly violent," the government said in its communique made public by the Paraguayan Embassy in Buenos Aires.

Paraguayans sympathetic with the insurgents claimed earlier that rebel forces had forced their way into the center of Asuncion.

Some refugees arriving at Glorinda, Argentina, reported that President Higinio Morinigo's forces in the capital were preparing strong points on the upper floors of the Bank of Paraguay and the Ministries of Finance and Public Works in anticipation of a possible rebel break-through into the city.

DAYTON, O., Aug. 12 (AP)—Miss Dolly Cox, 24-year-old Tennessee redhead who ran off with a 16-year-old youth for whom she professed undying love, changed her mind today a few hours after a deputy sheriff reported the boy's mother spat in her face and pulled her hair.

Deputy George Glander said Mrs. Effie Sirakides, mother of Louis Kotronis, with whom Miss Cox eloped August 5, ran up as the Greeneville, Tenn., mother of a three-year-old daughter approached entrance to the Juvenile Court building today.

The older woman roughed Miss Cox, spitting in her face and yanking her red tresses, Glander said. Dolly made no effort to protect herself and Glander said he separated the women.

Subsequently, Dolly told Judge Frank W. Nicholas, of Montgomery County Domestic Relations Court, she had decided to return to Greeneville and not again see her Dayton boy friend.

Judge Nicholas, after a hearing on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, passed a one-year suspended jail sentence on the young woman and fined her $50 and costs.

As he passed sentence, Judge Nicholas said:

Army Planes Collide; Four Persons Perish

Two Craft Plummet To Earth In Flames

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 12 (AP) —Four persons were killed tonight when an Army A-26 bomber and an advanced trainer collided in the air and plummeted to the ground in widely-separated areas.

A Grenier Army Air Field official said the bomber, carrying three Army personnel, was en route from Andrews Field Maryland, and was within one mile of Grenier, its destination when it collided.

He said the second plane, out of the Bedford Army airport on a routine training flight, carried only the pilot.

The Army Public Relations officer said "all men in the planes were killed."

Eyewitnesses said the tail of the trainer was sheared off and that it lost a wing before it crashed to the ground.

The bomber—the same type flown around the world in record time by William P. Odom—was less than a mile from Grenier Field when it collided.

The trainer narrowly missed several homes in a residential section and crashed into a garage, setting it afire. The heavier ship came to the ground near busy route 101, which crosses the state.

Both planes caught fire in the air after the collision.

Grenier officials said the A-26 is part of its 66th Fighter Wing.

Identification of the victims was withheld until notification of next of kin.

The planes hit the ground about three miles apart, one of them in a residential section of South Manchester, and the bomber in adjoining Bedford across the Merrimack River near the Manchester Country Club.

House Of Lords Votes To Approve Atlee Measure

"Dictatorial" Bill Passed By Commons

LONDON, Aug. 12 — (AP) — The House of Lords approved by voice vote tonight on second decisive reading the Attlee bill giving the Labor government almost unlimited powers in dealing with Britain's economic crisis.

The Lords' action on the bill, bitterly assailed by the Conservative opposition as a dictatorial measure, came scarcely 12 hours after the House of Commons sitting throughot the night voted final approval out the night voted final approval in preparation for recessing tomorrow until October 30.

The vote in the House of Commons was 178 to 63. Many of the members had gone home exhausted when the vote was taken.

Bill Vigorously Denounced

Members of the House of Lords denounced the bill vigorously before bowing to the action in the House of Commons. Before consenting to approval, the Marquess of Salisbury, opposition leader, said the Conservatives would press for a special meeting of the House of Lords in three weeks—during the summer recess—to consider any action the government might take under its "crisis powers."

Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison has already ruled out any scheduled session of the House of Commons during the recess, while leaving open the possibility of recalling both houses in the event of an emergency.

Sitting by themselves the House of Lords would have little if any control over government action, but Lord Salisbury said the Lords could at least decide whether such an action "is in our view in the interests of the courty or not."

Lords To Consider Amendments

The Conservative motion for a special session is to be presented before the adjournment tomorrow, when the Lords will consider possible amendments to the crisis bill before giving it final passage.

Specifically the bill gives the government wide powers to direct the economy so that the "whole resources of the community are available for use, and are used, in the manner best calculated to serve the interests of the community."

Gasoline Price Hike For Maryland Indicated

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP) — A half-cent a gallon increase on gasoline and other oil products was indicated today for Maryland, the District of Columbia, New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia and the Carolinas.

Similar increases recently were announced for the New England states and the midwest.

Sun Oil Company first raised fuel oil prices half a cent in the mid-Atlantic area on July 31 and Gulf Oil followed last Thursday.

Socony-Vacuum announced in New York today like increases would become effective throughout the area tomorrow.

Top Foreign Policy Team To Go To Rio

Marshall, Vandenberg Will Take Off Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 (AP)—This country's top foreign policy team flies to Rio de Janeiro tomorrow to write an Historic Hemisphere defense treaty and perhaps a new chapter in bipartisan cooperation.

Secretary of State Marshall and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) are to take off together tomorrow morning for the first major international meeting the senator has attended since Marshall succeeded James F. Byrnes as secretary.

With them in the original presidential plane called "The Sacred Cow" will go Warren R. Austin, American representative to the United Nations and former Republican senator from Vermont.

Ministers To Meet

The conference of the hemisphere foreign ministers convening Friday will afford Vandenberg, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, an opportunity to extend GOP co-operation with and participation in administration foreign policy to the inter-American sphere.

This co-operation has been emphasized previously in the European field. Some Republicans in Congress have complained that the administration had not fully consulted with them on foreign affairs elsewhere.

Both Vandenberg and Austin are well-known in Latin America. Austin, a former member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, helped write the Act of Chapultepec in Mexico City in 1945.

That document contemplated the treaty to be conceived at Rio de Janeiro. Originally, the conference was scheduled for October, 1945, but was delayed twice by United States refusal to participate in any military treaty with Argentina until the Argentines acted against Nazis in their country.

Truman To Visit Brazil

President Truman, himself a symbol of the United States "good neighbor" after his visit to Mexico last March, will join the United States delegation in Brazil at the end of the conference.

Mr. Truman is expected to address a final session of the meeting —probably early in September The White House announced today that Mrs. Truman and Margaret will accomapny the President on his official visit to Brazil.

Diplomats expect the conference to last about three weeks. A dispatch from Rio today reported optimism among delegates already there and predictions of swift success in writing the treaty.

Clark Orders Investigation As Costs Soar

Gloves-Off Inquiry; CIO Urges Controls

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 — (AP) — A gloves-off investigation to find out whether "conspiracies" are responsible for high prices of food, clothing and shelter was ordered today by Attorney General Clark, with jail threatened for monopolists.

Spokesmen for those industries said in New York that their respective records are unblemished, that they welcome the rooting out of evils elsewhere. There were denials of conspiracies and a tendency to blame price troubles on supplies and on higher costs of labor and raw materials, plus world shortages.

As the Attorney General opened an offensive against the high cost of living which the government figures officially at an all-time peak:

1. The CIO Full Employment Committee urged that Congress be summoned into special session to restore price controls and wheel prices back to about where they were when it put OPA out of commission. If prices keep going up, the committee said, so will wage demands.

2. Congressional subcommittees were set up to look into price increases in the East and Midwest. Another will be named later to see what is happening in the Far West.

Jail Sentences, Not Fines

Clark handed over to the Justice Department's anti-trust division the job of determining whether there are any conspiracies to "maintain or to increase present prices" in the food, clothing and housing fields.

A department statement, reflecting a "get tough" attitude of officials at the top, promised criminal prosecutions for violators. Jail sentences—not just fines—will be asked for individual violators because Clark says a "new and more vigorous approach" toward the problem of soaring prices is in order.

The department will ask "maximum fines" for any guilty corporations.

The Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics' calculations of price increases are not strictly up to date. Late last month the bureau reported that in June the prices of things consumers buy averaged 16 per cent over June of 1946 and 59 per cent above August, 1939.

Compared with a 1935-1939 average of 100, the bureau's June index went up to a new top of 157. That was 0.6 per cent over the previous high set last March.

Not only was the Justice Department concerned at the trend.

Emil Rieve, chairman of the CIO Full Employment Committee, told a news conference that if Congress does not come back to combat price boosts, President Truman should call a meeting of industrial, labor and farm leaders to work out a voluntary plan for cutting prices.

Unions Would Co-operate

He said he thinks this can be done in some industries. And he predicted unions probably would make "what concessions are necessary" to help the nation's economy.

But Rieve preferred a law to clamp controls on prices once more, and to allow the President to bring back rationing. He did not suggest restoration of wage ceilings.

Before it adjourned, Congress assigned to a Senate-House Committee on the Economic Report the job of looking into living costs. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) is chairman.

A subcommittee under Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) was appointed today to study prices in the eastern states. Rep. Bender (R-Ohio) will direct another which will operate in the midwest.

Who Will Replace Drew Pearson?

Drew Pearson, author of the Washington Merry-Go-Round column, leaves on his vacation today — and also leaves his readers in suspense. He says that during his absence, the column will be written by "the best reporter in Washington, an old hand at calling the tunes on the Washington Merry-Go-Round." Aside from this hint, he leaves his readers up in the air as to who will write the column.

Tomorrow read The Cumberland News to see who "the best reporter in Washington" is. We happen to be in on the secret and feel certain you will not be disappointed.

"King Of Strikebreakers," Reputed To Have Earned $10,000,000, Dies

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP) —Pearl L. Bergoff, 73, whose activities as "King of the Strikebreakers" brought him a reputed $10,000,000 in more than 20 years of bloody labor battles, died last night.

Bergoff started his strike-breaking career in 1907 against New York longshoremen, and led armed thugs against workers in approximately 300 strikes.

Fifty-four deaths occurred during his strike-breaking campaigns, including 16 men, women and children killed in less than two months in the Philadelphia transit strike of 1910.

In 1934 he said he had 10,000 men employed in San Francisco "breaking a longshoremen's strike" and the same year he was charged in court by employes with receiving $14,500 for activities at a Georgia plant during a textile strike. He went into semi-retirement in 1937 and last year Bergoff finally gave up his career with these words:

"I swear to God, if I had my life to live over, with my organizing ability, I'd be another John L. Lewis."

Prince Involved In Jewel Theft Case Fears Reds

Afraid He'll Fall Into Russian Hands

BERLIN, Aug. 12 — (AP) — Prince Ferdinand von Schoenaich-Carolath, stepson of the late Kaiser Wilhelm II, of Germany, expressed fear tonight that German police investigating his report that $500,000 in royal jewels had disappeared would turn him over to the Russians.

The United States Army's Criminal Investigation Division washed its hands yesterday of the case of the missing gems, which belonged to the Prince's mother, Princess Hermime, who died last week.

"With the case in the hands of the German police," the Prince said in an interview, "I am afraid that any hour they may come to take me away for questioning.

"I am afraid they would take me to police headquarters at the Alexander Platz in the Russian sector of the city and there hand me over to the Russians. I am considering going to the British government to seek assurances that they will forbid the German police to take me out of the British sector."

Prince Denies Taking Gems

Prince Ferdinand said O. R. Carlucci, Bloomfield, N. J., head of the United States Army's Criminal Investigation Division, had accused him of taking the jewels before reporting their disappearance. The gems had been in the Prince's custody.

"I indignantly deny this," Ferdinand said. "I don't know who took them, but I know I didn't."

(Carlucci never told newsmen the Prince was responsible for the disappearance of the royal jewels, but declared the case was a "dizzy merry-go-round of family intrigue.")

Terming his experience while the United States Army was investigating the case an "ordeal," the Prince repeated earlier complaints that his questioning had been harsh and resembled "Gestapo methods."

Carlucci, commenting on the complaint, said:

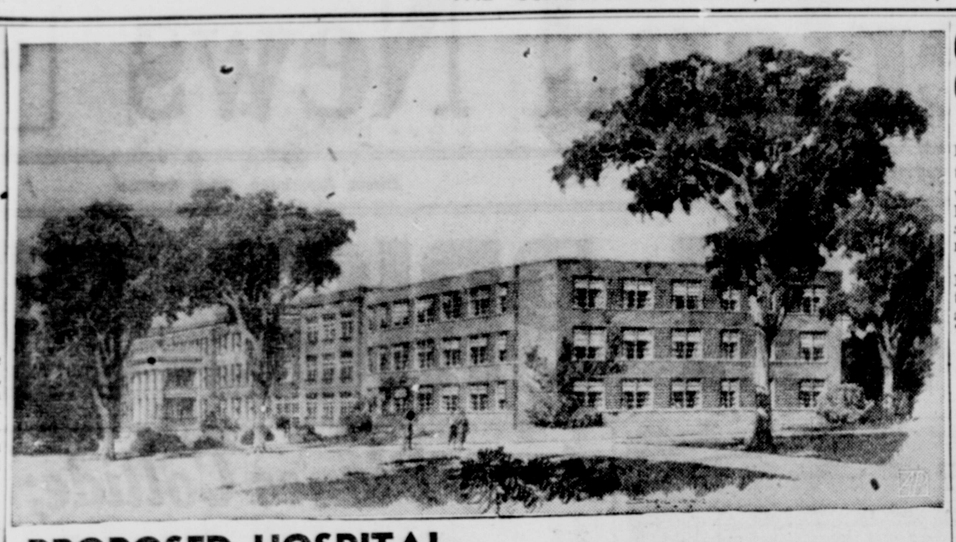

"What does he mean, Gestapo? Why, that Prince had it good here. Ask him how he liked the sandwiches and coffee we served him under interrogation. Why, as long as that coffee pot was boiling and our cigarets lasted he didn't want to leave our place."

Subjected To "Truth Serum"

The Prince admitted that he "felt safer" under American investigation than under the German police, but said he still was suffering ill effects from an injection of truth serum to which he said the Army subjected him in an early phase of the probe.

The slender, 34-year-old Prince dismissed as "nonsense" Carlucci's statement that Princess Hermine might have met death by foul play "at the hands of persons who were after her wealth." She died last Thursday in the Russian zone of Germany and a doctor's report said she succumbed to a heart ailment.

Ferdinand said his mother's funeral would be held Friday in Potsdam in the Russian zone and that the body later would be removed to Doorn, the Netherlands, where the Kaiser is buried.

PROPOSED HOSPITAL—This is an architect's drawing of how the Greater Frederick Memorial Hospital will appear after it is enlarged to provide for an additional 50 to 55 beds. Six hundred thousand dollars in public subscriptions are being sought to finance the building of the projected three-story north wing (right foreground) and to remodel parts of the existing structure.

Cleric Faces Charge Of Attempted Rape

DOERUN, Ga., Aug. 12. (AP) — A Baptist clergyman charged with attempting to rape a 12-year-old girl was taken from the city jail here last night to the Colquitt County seat at Moultrie when a group of men gathered at the building.

Colquitt County Sheriff T. V. Beard said about 25 men were in the group outside the Doerun jail and they were "right excited." The crowd made no attempt to storm the jail or to harm the clergyman as he was taken from the jail building by the sheriff's son.

Beard identified the clergyman as Rev. J. C. Embree, pastor of the Baptist Church here. He said a warrant charging "attempted rape" was sworn out by the girl's father.

Nearly one-half of the matches consumed in England before the war were imported.

Estimates reveal that patrons of public eating places waste 60 per cent of the foot served them.

BERLIN, Aug. 12 — (AP) — Prince Ferdinand von Schoenaich-Carolath, stepson of the late Kaiser Wilhelm II, of Germany, expressed fear tonight that German police investigating his report that $500,000 in royal jewels had disappeared would turn him over to the Russians.

The United States Army's Criminal Investigation Division washed its hands yesterday of the case of the missing gems, which belonged to the Prince's mother, Princess Hermime, who died last week.

"With the case in the hands of the German police," the Prince said in an interview, "I am afraid that any hour they may come to take me away for questioning.

"I am afraid they would take me to police headquarters at the Alexander Platz in the Russian sector of the city and there hand me over to the Russians. I am considering going to the British government to seek assurances that they will forbid the German police to take me out of the British sector."

Prince Denies Taking Gems

Prince Ferdinand said O. R. Carlucci, Bloomfield, N. J., head of the United States Army's Criminal Investigation Division, had accused him of taking the jewels before reporting their disappearance. The gems had been in the Prince's custody.

"I indignantly deny this," Ferdinand said. "I don't know who took them, but I know I didn't."

(Carlucci never told newsmen the Prince was responsible for the disappearance of the royal jewels, but declared the case was a "dizzy merry-go-round of family intrigue.")

Terming his experience while the United States Army was investigating the case an "ordeal," the Prince repeated earlier complaints that his questioning had been harsh and resembled "Gestapo methods."

Carlucci, commenting on the complaint, said:

"What does he mean, Gestapo? Why, that Prince had it good here. Ask him how he liked the sandwiches and coffee we served him under interrogation. Why, as long as that coffee pot was boiling and our cigarets lasted he didn't want to leave our place."

Subjected To "Truth Serum"

The Prince admitted that he "felt safer" under American investigation than under the German police, but said he still was suffering ill effects from an injection of truth serum to which he said the Army subjected him in an early phase of the probe.

The slender, 34-year-old Prince dismissed as "nonsense" Carlucci's statement that Princess Hermine might have met death by foul play "at the hands of persons who were after her wealth." She died last Thursday in the Russian zone of Germany and a doctor's report said she succumbed to a heart ailment.

Ferdinand said his mother's funeral would be held Friday in Potsdam in the Russian zone and that the body later would be removed to Doorn, the Netherlands, where the Kaiser is buried.

PROPOSED HOSPITAL—This is an architect's drawing of how the Greater Frederick Memorial Hospital will appear after it is enlarged to provide for an additional 50 to 55 beds. Six hundred thousand dollars in public subscriptions are being sought to finance the building of the projected three-story north wing (right foreground) and to remodel parts of the existing structure.

Cleric Faces Charge Of Attempted Rape

DOERUN, Ga., Aug. 12. (AP) — A Baptist clergyman charged with attempting to rape a 12-year-old girl was taken from the city jail here last night to the Colquitt County seat at Moultrie when a group of men gathered at the building.

Colquitt County Sheriff T. V. Beard said about 25 men were in the group outside the Doerun jail and they were "right excited." The crowd made no attempt to storm the jail or to harm the clergyman as he was taken from the jail building by the sheriff's son.

Beard identified the clergyman as Rev. J. C. Embree, pastor of the Baptist Church here. He said a warrant charging "attempted rape" was sworn out by the girl's father.

Estimates reveal that patrons of public eating places waste 60 per cent of the foot served them.

STRAWS IN WIND

BROADWAY

By DANTON WALKER

"That stuff the Senatorial committee is digging up may be news to the public, but it's old hat to most of us around the clubs. I guess people are just beginning to find out what Henry Luce meant when he called it a 'Broadway-Hollywood war.' But you mark my words, no matter what they dig up, it isn't going to change people's minds about the Roosevelts, not by that much. You either like the Roosevelts or you don't like 'em, and to those who do like 'em the Roosevelts can do no wrong, let's face it. Not on Broadway and in Hollywood, at least. If that committee could prove that one of 'em was a stowaway in the first Jap plane that bombed Pearl Harbor people would say "So what? We had to get into the war, didn't we? . . . The Roosevelts always did believe in 'doin' what comes natchully,' and I think that's what most people like about them, but they don't like to be criticized for it. In other words, they want to live like ordinary people. After people move into the White House they aren't just ordinary people.

Eleanor Roosevelt

"I guess the Roosevelts didn't do much nite-clubbing before they moved into the White House but they sure made up for it after. I can't see anything wrong about that, either. But when F.D.R. got to be President he let it be known that he didn't want the 'extra-curricular activities' of his family reported in the columns, and going to hot spots might be called extra-curricular. I remember seeing young Franklin nite after nite hopping around La Conga and in the old Kit Kat after hours, around 5 a. m. Even Mrs. R. got around to places like Cafe Society Uptown and some of the small Greenwich Village spots, but a press agent who tried to get in a story about it got smacked down. . . . Most all the Washington big shots, like Leon Henderson and Donald Nelson, spent a lot of time in the clubs and didn't mind posing for the photogs at the Stork or El Morocco. But when things started getting tough during the war and it didn't look so good for big shots to go pub-crawling, sometimes with dames they weren't married to, they declared a priority on flashlight bulbs so we couldn't take their pictures.

"People always wondered how the columns got hold of so much inside stuff during the war. Well, I can tell you because I was on the feeding end. Most of the Washington big shots liked to see their names in print, and one of 'em had a high-powered public relations man who had three or four Broadway press agents working for him. That's where they were smart. They would use the columns to spread rumors to see how the public reacted to something. Then they would deny the rumors or confirm 'em, if the reaction was satisfactory. . . . I had a friend who had a brother in the War Department, a big shot. He lived in New York and would come home weekends to see the family. He used to tell the folks at the dinner table about invasion plans, etc., and the brother would retail it to me. I gave one of the columnists a hot story and he printed it, figuring if that many people knew about it it couldn't be so much of a secret. Next day the Military Intelligence was on his neck and after that they tapped his wires to see where he was getting his stuff, not knowing it was coming out of their own offices down in Washington.

"Press agents had a lot more to do with the war than most people suspect. Even Pearl Harbor wasn't such a surprise to us around the clubs. We knew something was going to happen, we didn't know just what. The tension was terrific. Next day after Pearl Harbor I ran into a movie press agent on Broadway and I said 'What do you think?' He answered, 'I am greatly relieved.' I guess everybody knew something was going to happen except those dopes in Honolulu who were out partying the nite before. That brings in the clubs again. Liquor and women and war—they always seem to go together."

Court's Ruling On Tax Exemptions Important One

One of the most important decisions to come from the Circuit Court for Allegany County was that handed down Monday holding that the County Commissioners had erred in granting exemptions to three major industries in the county, and ruling that that action on the part of the governing board of the taxpayers is invalid.

The decision was the outgrowth of a suit instituted by James H. Reed, and other taxpayers in which they questioned the right of the Commissioners to exempt the Kelly Springfield Tire Company from paying taxes on tools and machinery for a period equal to that having been granted the Celanese Corporation of America and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Under the agreement voted by the County Commissioners tools and machinery of those industries would have been tax-free until 1950, or thereabout.

Under the Court's ruling, the County Commissioners acted without authority by law. Not only does the decision erase the order passed this year granting the Kelly company exemption but it invalidates the gratuity privileges given the two other corporations.

The Court's decision closes the door to any individual concern seeking exemptions from taxes on either building, tools or machinery in that the Judges have ruled that the County Commissioners cannot discriminate in giving such exemptions, and that if one industry, or two or three are granted such exemptions all industries in the county must be given similar grants.

It is unthinkable that the County Commissioners would consider for a minute such an action which would wipe from the books millions of dollars in taxes.

The Court's decision will result in restoring to the tax books of the county $212,918.93 annually. The Kelly Springfield Tire Company will now pay approximately $10,409.18 yearly; Celanese Corporation of America, $147,855.14, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company $54,654.61.

This will result in easing considerably the financial burden of the county government and, all things being equal, should alone bring a reduction in the tax rate to property owners throughout the county of approximately 22 cents on each $100 of the assessed value of a property. Had these taxes been taken into account when the 1947-48 levy was compiled they would have permitted the County Commissioners to have lowered the tax rate to $1.50 instead of to $1.72—a total of 27 cents instead of 5 cents.

The situations which brought about the litigation had been a heated controversial issue for weeks before the County Commissioners, who were split two to one on the question of granting an exemption to the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, acted. Like this newspaper, Commissioner James Holmes protested the granting of the exemption. Mr. Holmes sought to bring to an end the exemption practice, and by voting against the Kelly request, as he had done a year previous, had hoped to establish a rule for future cases.

Only a year ago he had been successful in having the Kelly request denied. Since then the complexion of the Board changed, and Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, who had championed the Kelly request in 1946, supported a renewal of the proposal this year. He was aided in this by Commissioner William H. Lemmert.

In its decision, the Court commented that "the exhibits show that the Commissioner (Mr. Holmes) voting against the Kelly exemption had previously voted for the current Celanese and Paper Company exemptions. Also one of the Commissioners voting for the Kelly exemption was at the time an employe of the Kelly. (But in view of the Court's decision as to the other law in the case, it is not necessary to pass on the right of an employee to vote for an exemption to its employer.")

This might be interpreted as indicating that the Commissioner (in this case, Mr. Wilkinson) should have disqualified himself from voting on the request of his employer, and failing to do so risked the possibility of the action being voided by the Court.

It is very clear that the Court, comprised of Chief Judge William A. Huster, Associate Judge George Henderson and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, gave careful and considerate study to the many statutes dealing with the issue, and that the ruling in which all concurred was based on facts of law cannot be disputed.

It is a decision that will meet with the approval of every taxpayer of the county.

That College Decision

What good is a college education? Where shall I go? Which course of study shall I pursue? Those are some of the questions that thousands of recent high school graduates are asking themselves at this time of the year.

Many know definitely what they expect to get from college. Some want special training so that they can become successful lawyers or doctors; others want to be engineers, architects or chemists. Some will pursue agricultural studies or the profession of journalism.

However, thousands of graduates have not decided about their courses of study. These boys and girls do not feel the urge of a special calling. Probably, parents will select the college and choose the curriculum.

Some of this uncertainty of mind must be blamed on the educational system of our country. Although it is the finest in the world, frequently it does not develop initiative or stimulate self expression.

The encouragement of hobbies and of individual interests in special kinds of study might awaken dormant enthusiasms in these "uncertain" students.

There are so many fields of specialized activity today and so much to be done, that boys and girls need not worry about what they "can do," but what they "shall do."

Success Formula

At 17, Harry S. Sterling got a job as a farm hand. The farmer who hired him said that he was "the dumbest farm hand I ever had, because he did nothing but work."

Today, at 35, Harry Sterling ownes 1442 acres of Iowa farm land, a grain elevator and a lumber yard. He is worth at least $250,000.

There must still be something in that saying that "All work and no play makes jack."

LIVING AT ALTITUDE

ONLY a small percentage of the population of the world lives in mountainous regions and the higher the ranges go, the fewer the inhabitants become. This is true especially in altitudes over 6,000 feet. There are many obvious reasons for this situation including accessibility, food, and climate.

Also, a possibility exists that we have a natural fear of such places. We enjoy gazing at these natural skyscrapers but may recall the many legends associated with attempts to scale them and are satisfied with life at a lower level. Nevertheless, they offer much to the vacationist who longs for the cool clear air, pack trips, camping, and the swift trout streams. The lodges and ranches are usually located in valleys where the scenery is beautiful rather than rugged.

There is another reason why the majestic peaks are revered but not always preferred. The average visitor is unaccustomed to the altitude and may not feel his best after ascending a mile or more. Many feel drowsy and lazy, which is not exactly a drawback since rest is part of the vacation. Others develop unusual patterns of breathing, loss of appetite, headache, or a reduced capacity for mental and physical work. The reactions differ in each individual but mountain sickness will affect almost every one if he goes high enough.

The atmospheric pressure and oxygen content are much less than at sea level. By breathing more rapidly, more air will filter thru the lungs; thus the newcomer receives an adequate quantity. The pulse rate increases also, to assure delivery of this gas to the tissues. This compensatory mechanism works automatically but at extreme elevations it is not sufficient. In order to carry on, supplementary oxygen would be necessary. Fortunately, mountains are not this high and the extra equipment is needed only at elevations attained by airplanes and balloons.

The system is obviously upset by the changed environment; consequently it is difficult to exercise in these circumstances. Labored breathing follows a lack of oxygen; nosebleed, a decrease in tension. This is particularly true when the function of the heart, lungs, or blood vessels is disturbed.

But those who live in mountainous areas for some time become acclimatized by manufacturing more red blood corpuscles. The hemoglobin, which carries oxygen to the tissues, is augmented also. As the blood containing more coloring matter passes thru the lungs, it is capable of taking the required oxygen from the air. When this occurs, the individual does not have to breathe faster and the pulse may return to its former rate.

In one district on the Chili-Bolivia border, which has an altitude of 15,000 to 17,000 feet, mines are being operated by the natives who work hard without developing symptoms. They can even play soccer without discomfort. Studies show that these people possess two-fifths more hemoglobin than they would if they lived at sea level.

This is a moot question. Longevity is to a great extent, inherited. Little People To Make Democracy Live; Senate Group To Investigate Man Who Switched From Making Baby's Waterproof Pants To Making Rubber Liferafts

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—As of the close of business today, this columnist is going to permit a little more peace and quiet in the life of Washington—at least as far as this typewriter is concerned.

Instead of being a problem to Senators, I will be a problem to my wife during that annual period of sunburn, siestas and mental stagnation—the American vacation.

In my absence this column will be written by an old hand at the game. For a good many years, he called the tunes on the Merry-Go-Round. Maybe you've already guessed who he is. But if you haven't you'll have to wait until tomorrow to get his name.

All I'm going to tell you is that he is the best reporter in Washington. And I predict he will be so good that nobody will care much whether I come back or keep on vacationing. In fact, some people will be delighted.

Meanwhile, and before I close up the typewriter, here are a few things I would like to get out my system.

Making Democracy Live — The longer I live, the more I find that a whale of a lot of little people in this country are quietly going about the business of helping their fellowmen and making democracy live. A lot of times we don't know anything about them, and I'm going to try to tell more about them in the future. Meanwhile, here are a few I've run into lately. . . . Lyman Lantz, Garret W. Mc Enerney and the California Commission on living War Memorials are doing a fine job inspiring war monuments which recall the ideals for which we fought, rather than the weapons with which we fought. . . . Another hero without headlines is R. M. Davis, the West Virginia coal operator, who has been inspiring the people of his state to think about ways of winning the peace. Davis began life as a street-car conductor, never went to college, but started a statewide contest on a department of peace which made people think about how we can head off another war. . . . Near Philadelphia, an American Legion committee headed by Clarence D. Bell has just done a fine job investigating real estate operators and how some of them have abused veterans. They found that veterans sometimes were persuaded to sign blank agrements, sometimes didn't get back their down payments, and sometimes the same plot of ground was sold to several veterans. . . . Two young vets who have done a lot for freedom of the press lately are John W. Perry, Jr., and Farewell Perry of the Perry newspapers. They have shown how a special typewriter can be used to print small weekly or daily newspapers, thus bolstering what has been the backbone of press freedom—independent newspapers.

Correction—Before I get away, I want to correct something which may have done an injustice to a lady who has been working hard for this country—a Chinese physician, Dr. Margaret Chung. Some weeks ago federal authorities informed me that Dr. Chung had sailed for Europe with Virginia Hill, the girl friend of the late Bugsy Siegel. I now find, however, that Dr. Chung sailed instead for Honolulu, where incidentally, she has a fine job among men in the armed services. . . . Also Billy Wilkerson formerly associated with Siegel in the Flamingo Hotel at Las Vegas, who sailed for Europe about the same time as Virginia Hill, informs me that he broke with Siegel a long time ago. His trip was to attend a motion-picture convention in Belgium. . . . One more point. From a recent column on Pan American Airways wire-pulling, some people got the impression that Clarence Young, a former Pan Am official now on the Civil Aeronautics Board, was in the pocket of his former bosses. As a matter of fact, Col. Young calls the shots exactly as he sees them. I consider him a fairminded public servant. . . . Speaking of fairness, one thing the Senate committee glossed over about Elliott Roosevelt was that he flew 89 combat missions over enemy territory, using an unarmed reconnaissance plane, helpless before enemy attack. His outfit suffered 90 per cent casualties—the reason Elliott urged Howard Hughes to design a faster plane. Elliott has plenty of faults, but one of them is not cowardice.

Things to watch for—Abe Spanel, a little guy who during the war switched from making baby's waterproof pants to make rubber liferafts, is among the next to be crucified by the Brewster committee. Spanel wrote some inspiring editorials during the war, had them published as paid ads in the newspapers, even got permission from the Treasury Department to deduct these from war contract expenses. However, the Senate committee seems to think this was wrong. . . . Things in the State Department aren't as happy as appears on the surface. One assistant secretary of state has only been able to see his chief, Secretary of State Marshall, once in three months. Some other top diplomats are in the same boat. When they can't get policy set by the man at the helm, they have trouble steering the right policy course. . . . The constitution may have to be amended to make the president commander-in-chief of the air force. At present the constitution merely makes him commander of the Army, Navy and the Militia of the separate states. Now with unification, the air force is no longer under the Army, and the President technically is not its commander. . . . Incidentally, the air force may need a little commanding, because the air boys are acting high, wide and handsome when it comes to raiding other branches of the service. For instance, partroopers, who fight on land, have always been part of the ground forces. Now the air boys want to take them over. The air boys have also taken the design for rockets away from army ordnance. . . . Reminds you of 1914 when the coast artillery wanted to take submarines from the navy because the coast artillery was charged with the defense of the coasts, and subs in those days could only cruise a few miles out to sea.

All of which proves that Washington bickering remains about the same, whether in 1914 or 1947, and will probably continue about the same when I get back to Washington in September.

Labor Inviting Real Competition In Defying Ban On Election Fund

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—The first clear-cut violation of the federal law which prohibits "expenditures" by labor unions and corporations in connection with congressional and presidential elections appears to have been recorded by the Connecticut Federation of Labor, which is reported to have inserted paid advertisements in Connecticut newspapers advocating the defeat of certain members of Congress.

The theory under which some of the labor-union leaders are proceeding is that Congress has no constitutional right to regulate how expenditures shall be made in connection with federal elections.

If this theory is upheld, it means, of course, that corporations as well as labor unions may hereafter spend millions of dollars to influence the outcome of a federal election and that Congress is powerless to pass any remedial legislation.

Corporations May Welcome It

The labor-union effort to test the law probably will be welcomed by many corporations, which for years have felt they were unduly discriminated against in being prohibited from using paid advertising space or from distributing printed literature urging the election or defeat of particular candidates in federal elections.

For, if the Supreme Court of the United States says that the provision of the Taft-Hartley law regulating campaign expenditures is unconstitutional, then it means corporations, too, would be at liberty to spend unlimited sums in connection with elections.

Past decisions of the Supreme Court in a number of cases have affirmed the constitutional power of Congress to regulate expenditurs in connection with an election. The power has not been as clear with respect to primary elections as it has been with final elections. It may well be that the courts would draw a distinction, in which case expenditures on primaries might go unregulated.

But congress has been up against this before and in connection with huge expenditures in primaries in Michigan and Wisconsin. While there was no legislation on the statute books, Congress assumed the right to bar from a seat those who had spent excessive amounts.

If an excessive amount were spent by a labor union to elect members of Congress, it would not be necessary for a specific provision of the statute to cover that contingency so long as both Houses of Congress retain the constitutional power to make their own rules of admission.

It could well happen that members of Congress elected through labor-union support, in defiance of the provisions governing expenditures, would not have their court tests completed by the time it would be necessary for each house to act on the eligibility of newly elected members. Thus, well-meaning supporters who defy the Taft-Hartley law's provisions on campaign expenditures might be doing a disservice to their friends by engaging in apparent law violations.

But there is no certainty, of course, that the Taft-Hartley law's sections on campaign expenditures will be ruled unconstitutional by the courts. Many laymen, however, not familiar with the reasoning used by the Supreme Court in upholding laws regulating campaign contributions have jumped to the conclusion that the Taft-Hartley law's provisions interfere with the rights of free speech and freedom of assembly.

Constitutional Laws Justified

As a matter of fact, constitutional rights have always been qualified by the courts. The power to regulate elections could be in certain respects a limitation on the right to freedom of speech and the press. So also is the law of libel. So also is the law prohibiting newspapers from printing lottery numbers. So also is the law against printing obscene matter.

The theory behind the constitutional power to regulate elections is that the right of congress to protect the people against undue restraints and undue influence, particularly through the use of excessive amounts of money, is within the regulatory power of congress because freedom of elections is more important than an unlimited right of expenditure.

It would seem incredible that Congress would be held to be without any means of protecting the people against the use of slush funds concentrated on a particular congressman who votes his convictions and who is himself limited as to the amounts he can spend. The labor-union lawyers probably know better but are using the court-test idea on campaign expenditures as a means of propaganda and publicity in fighting the Taft-Hartley law itself.

Probing Congressional Groups Should Take Lesson From Courts

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

"Liar" is being hurled across the headlines by Senators and citizens. Glamour girls, paid $100 an evening to "entertain" public officials, will be on review before a Senate committee. Some years ago, to make a farce of a serious investigation, a midget was placed on the lap of J. P. Morgan at a Congressional hearing.

Nothing discredits Congress, as an institution, more than the way it permits its committees to function. When the House or Senate meet, there proceedings are conducted with dignity. No personalities are tolerated. No one may interrupt a speaker without his consent. Only one person talks at a time. No one calls another a liar. It is "The Gentleman from Indiana" or "The Junior Senator from Texas."

Too Often 3-Ring Circus

But when a Congressional committee holds public hearings, what does the country witness? Too often it is a three ring circus with sideshow barkers and strip-teasers to entertain the crowd. Members of the committee shout at each other. Witnesses are smeared, reputations dragged in the dust to make a Roman holiday to serve some political purpose. Worst of all, committee members indict citizens in advance by sensational charges given to the press. Men are often thus convicted in the public mind in advance of hearings. Charges, often false, or half-true, may ruin or break the spirit of a man for life. As an example, recall the contemptible treatment back in 1934 of Dr. Wirt, Superintendent of Schools at Gary, Indiana, a gentleman of the highest character. Only one Congressman who engaged in that lynching bee ever was man enough to attempt to redress the wrong that was done. That man was Hon. John O'Connor, Chairman of the House Rules Committee himself later purged from public life by President Roosevelt.

There are very few notable exceptions to all this. A committee chairman of character can keep the hearings on a high plane. The House Sub-Committee on Petroleum became respected across the nation by reason of the southern courtesy of its chairman, Hon. William P. Cole. No snarling dog fights were tolerated in his presence. Mr. Truman, as chairman of the Senate Committee investigating the National Defense Program, conducted its hearings with dignity. All of the many reports of that committee were unanimous, an extraordinary proof of its fairness to both the government and the citizen.

But to rely on the lucky chance of a dignified and fair-minded chairman is not enough. House and Senate should adopt stringent rules for the government of their committees, as well as of themselves, when in session. Then committee members and witnesses could be called to account by anyone who believes in dignified government.

Should Prohibit Certain Charges

Sensational charges in advance of hearings should be prohibited. On the other hand, citizens who shout "liar" across the continent at committee members should be liable for contempt of Congress, for belittling it as an institution.

Congressional committees must often deal with shady and slippery characters from the political and economic underworld. It cannot be expected that these hearings be conducted with the formality of criminal trials. New avenues constantly open up as one witness tells the truth about another. Investigations branch off like the limbs of a tree. No rules should "hamstring" Congress as the "grand inquisator" of the nation. Nevertheless, our judicial system proves that truth can be ascertained and justice done in such a way that the courts retain the only asset that gives them value—the confidence of the people. Congress—please copy.

They are no Kings, though they possess the crown."

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

The Chosen Instrument

THE Hughes-Brewster controversy is not germane to the investigation of war contracts, but it does arise out of a quarrel which has engaged American airlines for several years. The differences have been so acute that it is not astonishing that Howard Hughes should have attempted to focus attention on them, perhaps to divert attention from his own investigation.

Competition is a fundamental economic process in the United States, but that is not so in most countries. In fact, most countries today, even those that regard themselves as capitalistic, withdraw certain industries from competition, particularly the means of communication. This principle has been applied to aviation in the international field by the selection of one company in each country to act as a "chosen instrument." Only such a company may engage in the international field. It enjoys a chartered monopoly.

Pan American has advocated that, as it pioneered in the foreign field, it became the "chosen instrument" of American aviation in the foreign field. At various times, it has proposed different combinations with other companies and finally what amounted to a cartel of all American companies.

The theory behind this was that if American aviation lines competed with each other, as well as with the rest of the world, this country would soon lose out in this field. It is estimated that about as high as 75 per cent of air travel originates in the United States, but the American companies cannot possibly hold any such proportion of the business.

An international Civil Aviation Conference was held at Chicago in 1944, at which practically all countries, except Soviet Russia, were represented. Adolf A. Berle, Jr., represented the United States and presided. A Five Freedoms of the Air declaration was adopted granting the contracting states these rights:

". . .(1) the privilege of flying across the territory of other contracting states without landing; (2) the privilege of landing for non-traffic purposes, (3) the privilege of putting down passengers, mail, and cargo taken on in the territory of the state whose nationality the aircraft possesses; (4) the privilege of taking on passengers, mail and cargo destined for the territory of the state whose nationality the aircraft possesses; and (5) the privilege of taking on passengers, mail, and cargo destined for the territory of any other contracting state and the privilege of putting down passengers, mail, and cargo coming from any such territory."

Under these Five Freedoms, foreign planes enjoy rights which foreign shops do not enjoy, as for instance, it is presumed that the fifth freedom might give the foreign plane the right to take and land passengers within the United States. At any rate, there was strong opposition to the entire business and nothing has come of this conference of a substantial character.

Nor has Pan American been selected as the "chosen instrument" of American aviation in the foreign field. American repugnance for monopoly prevented that. Most of our principal aviation companies have in one manner or another entered the foreign field. The question, of course is whether all of them will be able to keep up with their ambitions.

Aviation, as every new industry, attracts more aggressive personalities than is usual in the older and better established ones. Furthermore, while during war years there was lots of money in this field, it has not been doing too well since V-J Day. The vital question in this industry is how to make an airline self-sustaining without subsidies.

But there is another factor that is generally overlooked in peace time. The air has proved invaluable in the national defense during the war and will probably be even more important should we have to go to war again. It is essential to maintain strong civilian aviation, if we are to hold our lead in militarg aviation. It is necessary to provide experimental factories, air fields widely scattered, an effective nucleus of engineers, fliers and other experts. This requires government aid. The various companies vie with each other for this government aid.

Although none of this is germane to Senator Ferguson's investigation, it has done the country no harm to have had it explode. The more aviation is discussed openly, the stronger our country will be. The personalities themselves are trivial.

One Day At A Time

We are creatures of habit. Habit rules us—and often damages us in a tragic manner. There is one habit, however, that can serve only a great and good end. It is this: Live one day at a time. Sounds simple and easy. Few put it into practice.

The yesterdays are gone. Nothing can be done about them, excepting their lessons. The tomorrows aren't here, and when they do appear, they wil ltake care of themselves. But today, this day—live it. Enjoy it. Profit by it. It is an important link in the span of your life. Live it and it alone. Make it the one dominating habit of your life. One day at a time!

Each new day makeh the sum of the days that much shorter. So it is that each new day takes on an added importance and opportunity. This day shall never dawn again! How would we live it were it to be our very last day? We couldn't afford to clutter it up with worries, regrets, and misgivings. We would want it to be a clean, and useful day. Why not always live it as though it were to be our last day—and our best?

You cannot do two or three things at a time and do each efficiently. Nor can we treat our days as thought several, past and future, were being mixed with the one day that should be lived by itself and alone.

What a day it would be for us all if we could exclaim with Walt Whitmain: "Ah, the glory of the day's work, whether with hand or brain!" Making each day, not only lived as separate unit of life, but as something significant and special, something to be noted and praised.

You can almost see half a dozen days hanging upon the very faces of some people, and even carrying several under their arms! On the other hand, the free man, living that day of his, joyously and as though it were the only day of his life, shows triumph in his eyes and countenance, and in the spring of his step. You feel like following him to learn his secret—but that secret is simple—he's living but one day at a time!

Court's Ruling On Tax Exemptions Important One

One of the most important decisions to come from the Circuit Court for Allegany County was that handed down Monday holding that the County Commissioners had erred in granting exemptions to three major industries in the county, and ruling that that action on the part of the governing board of the taxpayers is invalid.

The decision was the outgrowth of a suit instituted by James H. Reed, and other taxpayers in which they questioned the right of the Commissioners to exempt the Kelly Springfield Tire Company from paying taxes on tools and machinery for a period equal to that having been granted the Celanese Corporation of America and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. Under the agreement voted by the County Commissioners tools and machinery of those industries would have been tax-free until 1950, or thereabout.

Under the Court's ruling, the County Commissioners acted without authority by law. Not only does the decision erase the order passed this year granting the Kelly company exemption but it invalidates the gratuity privileges given the two other corporations.

The Court's decision closes the door to any individual concern seeking exemptions from taxes on either building, tools or machinery in that the Judges have ruled that the County Commissioners cannot discriminate in giving such exemptions, and that if one industry, or two or three are granted such exemptions all industries in the county must be given similar grants.

It is unthinkable that the County Commissioners would consider for a minute such an action which would wipe from the books millions of dollars in taxes.

The Court's decision will result in restoring to the tax books of the county $212,918.93 annually. The Kelly Springfield Tire Company will now pay approximately $10,409.18 yearly; Celanese Corporation of America, $147,855.14, and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company $54,654.61.

This will result in easing considerably the financial burden of the county government and, all things being equal, should alone bring a reduction in the tax rate to property owners throughout the county of approximately 22 cents on each $100 of the assessed value of a property. Had these taxes been taken into account when the 1947-48 levy was compiled they would have permitted the County Commissioners to have lowered the tax rate to $1.50 instead of to $1.72—a total of 27 cents instead of 5 cents.

The situations which brought about the litigation had been a heated controversial issue for weeks before the County Commissioners, who were split two to one on the question of granting an exemption to the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, acted. Like this newspaper, Commissioner James Holmes protested the granting of the exemption. Mr. Holmes sought to bring to an end the exemption practice, and by voting against the Kelly request, as he had done a year previous, had hoped to establish a rule for future cases.

Only a year ago he had been successful in having the Kelly request denied. Since then the complexion of the Board changed, and Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, who had championed the Kelly request in 1946, supported a renewal of the proposal this year. He was aided in this by Commissioner William H. Lemmert.

In its decision, the Court commented that "the exhibits show that the Commissioner (Mr. Holmes) voting against the Kelly exemption had previously voted for the current Celanese and Paper Company exemptions. Also one of the Commissioners voting for the Kelly exemption was at the time an employe of the Kelly. (But in view of the Court's decision as to the other law in the case, it is not necessary to pass on the right of an employee to vote for an exemption to its employer.")

This might be interpreted as indicating that the Commissioner (in this case, Mr. Wilkinson) should have disqualified himself from voting on the request of his employer, and failing to do so risked the possibility of the action being voided by the Court.

It is very clear that the Court, comprised of Chief Judge William A. Huster, Associate Judge George Henderson and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish, gave careful and considerate study to the many statutes dealing with the issue, and that the ruling in which all concurred was based on facts of law cannot be disputed.

It is a decision that will meet with the approval of every taxpayer of the county.

That College Decision

What good is a college education? Where shall I go? Which course of study shall I pursue? Those are some of the questions that thousands of recent high school graduates are asking themselves at this time of the year.

Many know definitely what they expect to get from college. Some want special training so that they can become successful lawyers or doctors; others want to be engineers, architects or chemists. Some will pursue agricultural studies or the profession of journalism.

However, thousands of graduates have not decided about their courses of study. These boys and girls do not feel the urge of a special calling. Probably, parents will select the college and choose the curriculum.

Some of this uncertainty of mind must be blamed on the educational system of our country. Although it is the finest in the world, frequently it does not develop initiative or stimulate self expression.

The encouragement of hobbies and of individual interests in special kinds of study might awaken dormant enthusiasms in these "uncertain" students.

There are so many fields of specialized activity today and so much to be done, that boys and girls need not worry about what they "can do," but what they "shall do."

Success Formula

At 17, Harry S. Sterling got a job as a farm hand. The farmer who hired him said that he was "the dumbest farm hand I ever had, because he did nothing but work."

Today, at 35, Harry Sterling ownes 1442 acres of Iowa farm land, a grain elevator and a lumber yard. He is worth at least $250,000.

There must still be something in that saying that "All work and no play makes jack."

LIVING AT ALTITUDE

ONLY a small percentage of the population of the world lives in mountainous regions and the higher the ranges go, the fewer the inhabitants become. This is true especially in altitudes over 6,000 feet. There are many obvious reasons for this situation including accessibility, food, and climate.

Also, a possibility exists that we have a natural fear of such places. We enjoy gazing at these natural skyscrapers but may recall the many legends associated with attempts to scale them and are satisfied with life at a lower level. Nevertheless, they offer much to the vacationist who longs for the cool clear air, pack trips, camping, and the swift trout streams. The lodges and ranches are usually located in valleys where the scenery is beautiful rather than rugged.

There is another reason why the majestic peaks are revered but not always preferred. The average visitor is unaccustomed to the altitude and may not feel his best after ascending a mile or more. Many feel drowsy and lazy, which is not exactly a drawback since rest is part of the vacation. Others develop unusual patterns of breathing, loss of appetite, headache, or a reduced capacity for mental and physical work. The reactions differ in each individual but mountain sickness will affect almost every one if he goes high enough.

The atmospheric pressure and oxygen content are much less than at sea level. By breathing more rapidly, more air will filter thru the lungs; thus the newcomer receives an adequate quantity. The pulse rate increases also, to assure delivery of this gas to the tissues. This compensatory mechanism works automatically but at extreme elevations it is not sufficient. In order to carry on, supplementary oxygen would be necessary. Fortunately, mountains are not this high and the extra equipment is needed only at elevations attained by airplanes and balloons.

The system is obviously upset by the changed environment; consequently it is difficult to exercise in these circumstances. Labored breathing follows a lack of oxygen; nosebleed, a decrease in tension. This is particularly true when the function of the heart, lungs, or blood vessels is disturbed.

But those who live in mountainous areas for some time become acclimatized by manufacturing more red blood corpuscles. The hemoglobin, which carries oxygen to the tissues, is augmented also. As the blood containing more coloring matter passes thru the lungs, it is capable of taking the required oxygen from the air. When this occurs, the individual does not have to breathe faster and the pulse may return to its former rate.

In one district on the Chili-Bolivia border, which has an altitude of 15,000 to 17,000 feet, mines are being operated by the natives who work hard without developing symptoms. They can even play soccer without discomfort. Studies show that these people possess two-fifths more hemoglobin than they would if they lived at sea level.

They'll just stand around opening and closing windows. There's only one thing that will be annoying on this new train. You'll still have to tip the porters.

Maybe I'm old fashioned, but I think a bumpless train will be too confusing. Can you imagine sitting in the dining car and eating your own meal?

Little People To Make Democracy Live; Senate Group To Investigate Man Who Switched From Making Baby's Waterproof Pants To Making Rubber Liferafts

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—As of the close of business today, this columnist is going to permit a little more peace and quiet in the life of Washington—at least as far as this typewriter is concerned.

Instead of being a problem to Senators, I will be a problem to my wife during that annual period of sunburn, siestas and mental stagnation—the American vacation.

In my absence this column will be written by an old hand at the game. For a good many years, he called the tunes on the Merry-Go-Round. Maybe you've already guessed who he is. But if you haven't you'll have to wait until tomorrow to get his name.

All I'm going to tell you is that he is the best reporter in Washington. And I predict he will be so good that nobody will care much whether I come back or keep on vacationing. In fact, some people will be delighted.

Meanwhile, and before I close up the typewriter, here are a few things I would like to get out my system.

Making Democracy Live — The longer I live, the more I find that a whale of a lot of little people in this country are quietly going about the business of helping their fellowmen and making democracy live. A lot of times we don't know anything about them, and I'm going to try to tell more about them in the future. Meanwhile, here are a few I've run into lately. . . . Lyman Lantz, Garret W. Mc Enerney and the California Commission on living War Memorials are doing a fine job inspiring war monuments which recall the ideals for which we fought, rather than the weapons with which we fought. . . . Another hero without headlines is R. M. Davis, the West Virginia coal operator, who has been inspiring the people of his state to think about ways of winning the peace. Davis began life as a street-car conductor, never went to college, but started a statewide contest on a department of peace which made people think about how we can head off another war. . . . Near Philadelphia, an American Legion committee headed by Clarence D. Bell has just done a fine job investigating real estate operators and how some of them have abused veterans. They found that veterans sometimes were persuaded to sign blank agrements, sometimes didn't get back their down payments, and sometimes the same plot of ground was sold to several veterans. . . . Two young vets who have done a lot for freedom of the press lately are John W. Perry, Jr., and Farewell Perry of the Perry newspapers. They have shown how a special typewriter can be used to print small weekly or daily newspapers, thus bolstering what has been the backbone of press freedom—independent newspapers.

Correction—Before I get away, I want to correct something which may have done an injustice to a lady who has been working hard for this country—a Chinese physician, Dr. Margaret Chung. Some weeks ago federal authorities informed me that Dr. Chung had sailed for Europe with Virginia Hill, the girl friend of the late Bugsy Siegel. I now find, however, that Dr. Chung sailed instead for Honolulu, where incidentally, she has a fine job among men in the armed services. . . . Also Billy Wilkerson formerly associated with Siegel in the Flamingo Hotel at Las Vegas, who sailed for Europe about the same time as Virginia Hill, informs me that he broke with Siegel a long time ago. His trip was to attend a motion-picture convention in Belgium. . . . One more point. From a recent column on Pan American Airways wire-pulling, some people got the impression that Clarence Young, a former Pan Am official now on the Civil Aeronautics Board, was in the pocket of his former bosses. As a matter of fact, Col. Young calls the shots exactly as he sees them. I consider him a fairminded public servant. . . . Speaking of fairness, one thing the Senate committee glossed over about Elliott Roosevelt was that he flew 89 combat missions over enemy territory, using an unarmed reconnaissance plane, helpless before enemy attack. His outfit suffered 90 per cent casualties—the reason Elliott urged Howard Hughes to design a faster plane. Elliott has plenty of faults, but one of them is not cowardice.

Things to watch for—Abe Spanel, a little guy who during the war switched from making baby's waterproof pants to make rubber liferafts, is among the next to be crucified by the Brewster committee. Spanel wrote some inspiring editorials during the war, had them published as paid ads in the newspapers, even got permission from the Treasury Department to deduct these from war contract expenses. However, the Senate committee seems to think this was wrong. . . . Things in the State Department aren't as happy as appears on the surface. One assistant secretary of state has only been able to see his chief, Secretary of State Marshall, once in three months. Some other top diplomats are in the same boat. When they can't get policy set by the man at the helm, they have trouble steering the right policy course. . . . The constitution may have to be amended to make the president commander-in-chief of the air force. At present the constitution merely makes him commander of the Army, Navy and the Militia of the separate states. Now with unification, the air force is no longer under the Army, and the President technically is not its commander. . . . Incidentally, the air force may need a little commanding, because the air boys are acting high, wide and handsome when it comes to raiding other branches of the service. For instance, partroopers, who fight on land, have always been part of the ground forces. Now the air boys want to take them over. The air boys have also taken the design for rockets away from army ordnance. . . . Reminds you of 1914 when the coast artillery wanted to take submarines from the navy because the coast artillery was charged with the defense of the coasts, and subs in those days could only cruise a few miles out to sea.

All of which proves that Washington bickering remains about the same, whether in 1914 or 1947, and will probably continue about the same when I get back to Washington in September.

Labor Inviting Real Competition In Defying Ban On Election Fund

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—The first clear-cut violation of the federal law which prohibits "expenditures" by labor unions and corporations in connection with congressional and presidential elections appears to have been recorded by the Connecticut Federation of Labor, which is reported to have inserted paid advertisements in Connecticut newspapers advocating the defeat of certain members of Congress.

The theory under which some of the labor-union leaders are proceeding is that Congress has no constitutional right to regulate how expenditures shall be made in connection with federal elections.

If this theory is upheld, it means, of course, that corporations as well as labor unions may hereafter spend millions of dollars to influence the outcome of a federal election and that Congress is powerless to pass any remedial legislation.

Corporations May Welcome It

The labor-union effort to test the law probably will be welcomed by many corporations, which for years have felt they were unduly discriminated against in being prohibited from using paid advertising space or from distributing printed literature urging the election or defeat of particular candidates in federal elections.

For, if the Supreme Court of the United States says that the provision of the Taft-Hartley law regulating campaign expenditures is unconstitutional, then it means corporations, too, would be at liberty to spend unlimited sums in connection with elections.

Past decisions of the Supreme Court in a number of cases have affirmed the constitutional power of Congress to regulate expenditurs in connection with an election. The power has not been as clear with respect to primary elections as it has been with final elections. It may well be that the courts would draw a distinction, in which case expenditures on primaries might go unregulated.

But congress has been up against this before and in connection with huge expenditures in primaries in Michigan and Wisconsin. While there was no legislation on the statute books, Congress assumed the right to bar from a seat those who had spent excessive amounts.

If an excessive amount were spent by a labor union to elect members of Congress, it would not be necessary for a specific provision of the statute to cover that contingency so long as both Houses of Congress retain the constitutional power to make their own rules of admission.

It could well happen that members of Congress elected through labor-union support, in defiance of the provisions governing expenditures, would not have their court tests completed by the time it would be necessary for each house to act on the eligibility of newly elected members. Thus, well-meaning supporters who defy the Taft-Hartley law's provisions on campaign expenditures might be doing a disservice to their friends by engaging in apparent law violations.

But there is no certainty, of course, that the Taft-Hartley law's sections on campaign expenditures will be ruled unconstitutional by the courts. Many laymen, however, not familiar with the reasoning used by the Supreme Court in upholding laws regulating campaign contributions have jumped to the conclusion that the Taft-Hartley law's provisions interfere with the rights of free speech and freedom of assembly.

Constitutional Laws Justified

As a matter of fact, constitutional rights have always been qualified by the courts. The power to regulate elections could be in certain respects a limitation on the right to freedom of speech and the press. So also is the law of libel. So also is the law prohibiting newspapers from printing lottery numbers. So also is the law against printing obscene matter.

The theory behind the constitutional power to regulate elections is that the right of congress to protect the people against undue restraints and undue influence, particularly through the use of excessive amounts of money, is within the regulatory power of congress because freedom of elections is more important than an unlimited right of expenditure.

It would seem incredible that Congress would be held to be without any means of protecting the people against the use of slush funds concentrated on a particular congressman who votes his convictions and who is himself limited as to the amounts he can spend. The labor-union lawyers probably know better but are using the court-test idea on campaign expenditures as a means of propaganda and publicity in fighting the Taft-Hartley law itself.

Probing Congressional Groups Should Take Lesson From Courts

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

"Liar" is being hurled across the headlines by Senators and citizens. Glamour girls, paid $100 an evening to "entertain" public officials, will be on review before a Senate committee. Some years ago, to make a farce of a serious investigation, a midget was placed on the lap of J. P. Morgan at a Congressional hearing.

Nothing discredits Congress, as an institution, more than the way it permits its committees to function. When the House or Senate meet, there proceedings are conducted with dignity. No personalities are tolerated. No one may interrupt a speaker without his consent. Only one person talks at a time. No one calls another a liar. It is "The Gentleman from Indiana" or "The Junior Senator from Texas."

Too Often 3-Ring Circus

But when a Congressional committee holds public hearings, what does the country witness? Too often it is a three ring circus with sideshow barkers and strip-teasers to entertain the crowd. Members of the committee shout at each other. Witnesses are smeared, reputations dragged in the dust to make a Roman holiday to serve some political purpose. Worst of all, committee members indict citizens in advance by sensational charges given to the press. Men are often thus convicted in the public mind in advance of hearings. Charges, often false, or half-true, may ruin or break the spirit of a man for life. As an example, recall the contemptible treatment back in 1934 of Dr. Wirt, Superintendent of Schools at Gary, Indiana, a gentleman of the highest character. Only one Congressman who engaged in that lynching bee ever was man enough to attempt to redress the wrong that was done. That man was Hon. John O'Connor, Chairman of the House Rules Committee himself later purged from public life by President Roosevelt.

There are very few notable exceptions to all this. A committee chairman of character can keep the hearings on a high plane. The House Sub-Committee on Petroleum became respected across the nation by reason of the southern courtesy of its chairman, Hon. William P. Cole. No snarling dog fights were tolerated in his presence. Mr. Truman, as chairman of the Senate Committee investigating the National Defense Program, conducted its hearings with dignity. All of the many reports of that committee were unanimous, an extraordinary proof of its fairness to both the government and the citizen.

But to rely on the lucky chance of a dignified and fair-minded chairman is not enough. House and Senate should adopt stringent rules for the government of their committees, as well as of themselves, when in session. Then committee members and witnesses could be called to account by anyone who believes in dignified government.

Should Prohibit Certain Charges

Sensational charges in advance of hearings should be prohibited. On the other hand, citizens who shout "liar" across the continent at committee members should be liable for contempt of Congress, for belittling it as an institution.

Congressional committees must often deal with shady and slippery characters from the political and economic underworld. It cannot be expected that these hearings be conducted with the formality of criminal trials. New avenues constantly open up as one witness tells the truth about another. Investigations branch off like the limbs of a tree. No rules should "hamstring" Congress as the "grand inquisator" of the nation. Nevertheless, our judicial system proves that truth can be ascertained and justice done in such a way that the courts retain the only asset that gives them value—the confidence of the people. Congress—please copy.

"When Kings the sword of justice once lay down,

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

The Chosen Instrument

THE Hughes-Brewster controversy is not germane to the investigation of war contracts, but it does arise out of a quarrel which has engaged American airlines for several years. The differences have been so acute that it is not astonishing that Howard Hughes should have attempted to focus attention on them, perhaps to divert attention from his own investigation.

Competition is a fundamental economic process in the United States, but that is not so in most countries. In fact, most countries today, even those that regard themselves as capitalistic, withdraw certain industries from competition, particularly the means of communication. This principle has been applied to aviation in the international field by the selection of one company in each country to act as a "chosen instrument." Only such a company may engage in the international field. It enjoys a chartered monopoly.

Pan American has advocated that, as it pioneered in the foreign field, it became the "chosen instrument" of American aviation in the foreign field. At various times, it has proposed different combinations with other companies and finally what amounted to a cartel of all American companies.

The theory behind this was that if American aviation lines competed with each other, as well as with the rest of the world, this country would soon lose out in this field. It is estimated that about as high as 75 per cent of air travel originates in the United States, but the American companies cannot possibly hold any such proportion of the business.

An international Civil Aviation Conference was held at Chicago in 1944, at which practically all countries, except Soviet Russia, were represented. Adolf A. Berle, Jr., represented the United States and presided. A Five Freedoms of the Air declaration was adopted granting the contracting states these rights:

". . .(1) the privilege of flying across the territory of other contracting states without landing; (2) the privilege of landing for non-traffic purposes, (3) the privilege of putting down passengers, mail, and cargo taken on in the territory of the state whose nationality the aircraft possesses; (4) the privilege of taking on passengers, mail and cargo destined for the territory of the state whose nationality the aircraft possesses; and (5) the privilege of taking on passengers, mail, and cargo destined for the territory of any other contracting state and the privilege of putting down passengers, mail, and cargo coming from any such territory."

Under these Five Freedoms, foreign planes enjoy rights which foreign shops do not enjoy, as for instance, it is presumed that the fifth freedom might give the foreign plane the right to take and land passengers within the United States. At any rate, there was strong opposition to the entire business and nothing has come of this conference of a substantial character.

Nor has Pan American been selected as the "chosen instrument" of American aviation in the foreign field. American repugnance for monopoly prevented that. Most of our principal aviation companies have in one manner or another entered the foreign field. The question, of course is whether all of them will be able to keep up with their ambitions.

Aviation, as every new industry, attracts more aggressive personalities than is usual in the older and better established ones. Furthermore, while during war years there was lots of money in this field, it has not been doing too well since V-J Day. The vital question in this industry is how to make an airline self-sustaining without subsidies.

But there is another factor that is generally overlooked in peace time. The air has proved invaluable in the national defense during the war and will probably be even more important should we have to go to war again. It is essential to maintain strong civilian aviation, if we are to hold our lead in militarg aviation. It is necessary to provide experimental factories, air fields widely scattered, an effective nucleus of engineers, fliers and other experts. This requires government aid. The various companies vie with each other for this government aid.

Although none of this is germane to Senator Ferguson's investigation, it has done the country no harm to have had it explode. The more aviation is discussed openly, the stronger our country will be. The personalities themselves are trivial.

One Day At A Time

We are creatures of habit. Habit rules us—and often damages us in a tragic manner. There is one habit, however, that can serve only a great and good end. It is this: Live one day at a time. Sounds simple and easy. Few put it into practice.

The yesterdays are gone. Nothing can be done about them, excepting their lessons. The tomorrows aren't here, and when they do appear, they wil ltake care of themselves. But today, this day—live it. Enjoy it. Profit by it. It is an important link in the span of your life. Live it and it alone. Make it the one dominating habit of your life. One day at a time!

Each new day makeh the sum of the days that much shorter. So it is that each new day takes on an added importance and opportunity. This day shall never dawn again! How would we live it were it to be our very last day? We couldn't afford to clutter it up with worries, regrets, and misgivings. We would want it to be a clean, and useful day. Why not always live it as though it were to be our last day—and our best?

You cannot do two or three things at a time and do each efficiently. Nor can we treat our days as thought several, past and future, were being mixed with the one day that should be lived by itself and alone.

What a day it would be for us all if we could exclaim with Walt Whitmain: "Ah, the glory of the day's work, whether with hand or brain!" Making each day; not only lived as separate unit of life, but as something significant and special, something to be noted and praised.

You can almost see half a dozen days hanging upon the very faces of some people, and even carrying several under their arms! On the other hand, the free man, living that day of his, joyously and as though it were the only day of his life, shows triumph in his eyes and countenance, and in the spring of his step. You feel like following him to learn his secret—but that secret is simple—he's living but one day at a time!

Lays Eggs By The Pound

MULLENS, W. Va., (AP) — Little Donna Witzenrith got back her pet duck after a three-day confinement in the city pound.

Patrolman R. B. Cook said he "arrested" the duck, "Petsy," for her own safekeeping after several of Donna's neighbors had complained the duck was destroying their gardens.

Cook said Donna offered the two eggs Petsy laid while in the pound as payment of the fine, but authorities decided to forget the whole thing.

Ex-Social Security Official Arrested

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP) — A former Social Security official was ordered held in $1,000 bail today for federal grand jury action on a charge of divulging confidential information, and FBI agents announced the arrest of a second man who was charged with bribery.

Fred Hallford, special agent in charge of the Baltimore FBI Bureau, said Samuel C. Lipson, Brookline, Mass., was arrested today in his Boston office. He was alleged to be the man who induced Howard F. Quillin to give away the information.

Arraigned before United States Commissioner James K. Cullen, the 36-year-old Quillin admitted he had passed on confidential information and had received money from the other man as a sort of "gratuity."

The former head of the Social Security Board's information division here wept as he testified that at first he had refused to make his disclosures but had been induced to believe that no offense was involved.

McHenry Urges Farmers To Plant Thorn Wheat

Farmers in Allegany County are being urged by Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent, to consider planting Thorn wheat this fall, because of the increased yield per acre, possible with this particular crop.

McHenry said yesterday he has sent out about 100 letters to farmers of the county explaining the value of this particular wheat from a production standpoint.

He described it as a "smooth wheat, almost beardless, with a stronger straw, which will stand up better than any other variety."

The fact that it grows with a stronger straw, it is not easily knocked over by the wind and rain, and consequently more wheat is harvested. The increase will average, according to experiments, McHenry declared, five to seven additional bushels per acre.

Thorn wheat was developed several years ago at the Ohio Agricultural Experimental Station, and seeds can now be obtained from any old line seed house, and a couple of farmers in the county have Thorn wheat which can be used for seeds.

McHenry said farmers thinking now about planting wheat this fall, should give very careful consideration to this variety for increased yield.

County Board Discusses Sale Of Lots To Vets

Offer 30 Percent Cut In Appraisals

County Commissioners yesterday spent much of their regular session discussing the sale of 32 lots on Holland Street to veterans, and agreed that the lots can be sold for 30 per cent below the appraised figure.

At the request of the Commissioners, two local real estate men recently appraised the lots from $1,250 to $500 each, but when Byron Kight and two other representatives of veteran-applicants appeared before the Board, it was decided to place the selling price at 30 percent below appraisals.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., told the veterans the county has had an investment in the lots for a number of years, and also paid the city of Cumberland approximately $10,000 for paving, curb and sewer installation costs on the street. About 10 of the lots are better located and more desirable, he explained, than the others, which accounts for the different figures on appraised values.

Veterans Need Homes

Commissioner William H. Lemmert, himself a veteran, told the delegation the Board feels kindly to all veterans and realizes many veterans need homes. It is not the intention of the Commissioners to make money on the lots, but to realize from them, the actual investment, and at the same time, protect other taxpayers, he said.

Commissioner James Holmes also agreed that the Board should proceed with the sale of the lots to veterans who want to build homes, but suggested that some agreement be reached to present veterans from buying the land for speculative purposes. Preference should be given to veterans who will build homes on lots they purchase.

Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Board read the enabling act passed by the last General Assembly, which empowers the County Board to sell the lots to veterans of World War I and II who intend to build homes on them. If, after two months from the time the sale is announced, veterans have not purchased all the lots, then they can be sold to other persons by public sale or advertising, Wilson said.

Kight and his committee told the Board the veterans are not looking for "something for nothing" and expect to pay a fair price for lots.

He said if the cost of land is too high, many veterans will not be able to build at all.

William R. Carscaden, attorney for the Veterans Non-Profit Housing Corporation appeared before the Board and told the veterans' delegation he was probably responsible for the delay of the Board in making final sale of the lots in question. He said the Veterans Housing Group had taken the initiative to have an enabling bill passed, so the Commissioners could sell the lots, with the idea that the group would sponsor the construction of 25 or more low cost homes on the lots, exclusively for veterans.

Will Meet Thursday

Carscaden further explained the Housing Group now feels that since 60 individual veterans have applied for the 32 lots, the County Commissioners should make the sale.

He also stated the Housing Corporation has an experimental home under construction, to check the costs of a newly designed home. The house will be completed shortly and information and other facts as to costs and local building problems will be available to veterans interested.

A meeting of veterans who have made application for the lots will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at Kight's Funeral Home, Decatur Street, Kight said.

Boy, Playing Under Auto, Is Injured

A 4-year-old Glenwood Street boy, who police said was playing under a parked car, was injured last night at 7 o'clock when the driver, William A. Durst, Frostburg, pulled away from the curb, Detective Thomas J. See, said.

The youth, Arthur Sheetz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Sheetz, 911 Glenwood Street, was taken to Memorial Hospital by Durst, where his injuries were described as a lacerated lip and brush burns. He was admitted for observation.

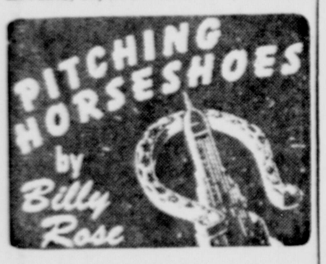

See said Durst parked the car in front of the Sheetz home while he called on a girl friend nearby, and when he came out the Sheetz youth was under the car. The boy cried out when the car passed over him, the detective said.

No charges were preferred against the driver, according to police.

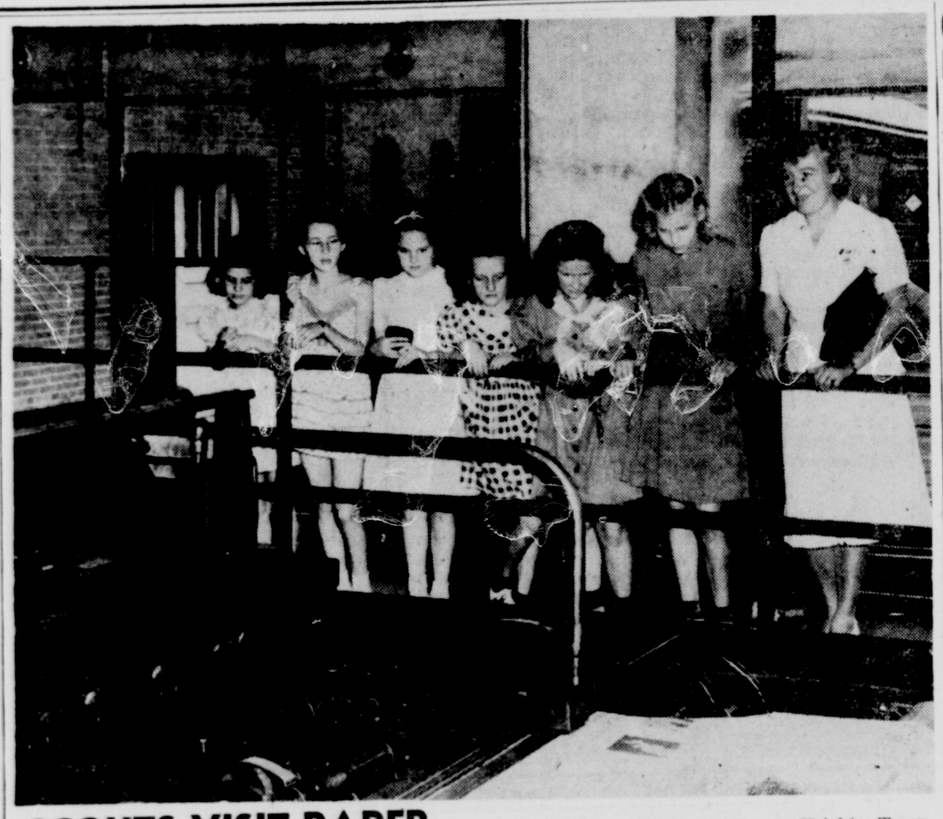

Cecil DeMoss, 34, Route 4, this city, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon for a laceration on a finger of the right hand. He said he was injured as he was cutting wood with an axe.

He was a native of Magnolia, W. Va., a son of the late James and Florence Rockwell Kesler. He had been a shovel operator for the Empire Construction Company, Baltimore, for about nine years.

Meyersdale Man Hurt While Cutting Wood

A Meyersdale, Pa., man was admitted yesterday to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, after he accidentally "split his left foot and lower leg in half" with an axe that he was using to cut wood, attaches said.

Identified as John Lyons, 24, attaches said his condition was "fairly good" early this morning.

Two Men Hurt

the shoulder of the road, ripped through a barbed wire fence and was wedged between a fence post and a telephone pole, officers said, adding that the front of the car was on top of the motorcycle and that Thompson and Shoemaker, who was listed as the operator, were pinned beneath both vehicles.

While rescuers lifted the wreckage so the injured men could be moved, an argument ensued between Collins and the rescuers, the former picking up a rock as if to strike one of them, Trooper Baker said. He added that Collins left the scene, however, went to his home about a quarter of a mile away, obtained two butcher knives and returned.

When the officer arrived at the scene a short time after the accident happened he said he saw Collins standing on the railroad tracks sharpening the knives on one of the rails. Collins picked up a stone and threw it at Baker and the crowd in general, according to the officer, but hit no one.

Fled Through Cornfield

As Baker started toward Collins, the latter turned and ran through a large cornfield where he threw one knife away and then ran down the canal towpath where the trooper caught up with him, after a chase of a quarter of a mile and ordered him to put down the second knife. Then he was handcuffed and brought to jail.

Baker said Elwood Rowley, Route 4, stood by to give him assistance should Collins have become unruly. Rowley's brother, William, stood on the above-ground-level railroad right of way and called out Collins' position during the chase through the cornfield.

Collins was said to be a veteran of World War II.

She is one of the many long-stemmed roses at Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe, where the most beautiful tall girls in the country are the talk of New York. Mr. Rose says he could use a few more six-footers and will pay the fare to those he thinks can qualify. "How's the weather up there, Penny?"

Another night blooming cereus was reported Monday night at the home of T. H. Dawson, 412 Goethe Street, and attracted considerable attention.

Dawson had the plant, under an electric light on his front porch until after midnight. There were four large flowers on it and four more buds broke open later, he explained.

Dawson said this is the fourth time his cereus has bloomed, explaining that it takes seven years for the plant to blossom, but then it blossoms each year thereafter.

Court Orders Signed In Divorce Actions

Four divorce suits were docketed yesterday in Circuit Court on two of which Chief Judge William A. Huster signed restraining orders against defendants.

Marian A. Naill seeks divorce from James Edward Naill and the Court ordered Naill to stay away from her parent's home, at Flintstone where the woman is residing. The couple married January 11, 1943 at Flintstone and separated August 9, 1947. They have two children and the Court ordered Naill to pay his wife $60 per month until the suit is settled.

Eva Messick Williams entered a bill of complaint against Robert Charles Williams who was ordered by the Court to stay away from the residence at 13 Harrison Street. The couple married September 14, 1946, at Winchester, Va.

Esther H. McKenna seeks divorce from John A. McKenna, 1317 Ramble Wood Road, Baltimore. In her suit she claims they were married April 26, 1943 in Baltimore and separated February 11, 1946. She also states that she has been a resident here for more than a year.

Suit was also docketed by Elizabeth G. Naill vs Charles E. Naill but no details were available as attorneys had removed papers from the Court House.

Driver Fined On Two Motor Counts

A young LaVale driver pleaded guilty to two motor charges in Trial Magistrates' Court yesterday preferred after he crashed into the rear of a car entering Park Heights at Narrows Park on Route 40 Monday.

Ivan Eugene Izzett entered guilty pleas for driving an automobile with inadequate brakes and for reckless driving. Magistrate Frank A. Perdew fined the youth $5.75 on the first count and $20.75 on the second charge.

State Trooper John Browning, who apprehended Izzett, said his machine crashed into the rear of a vehicle owned by Earl W. Conn, Park Heights, as the latter was waiting for traffic in the opposite lane to pass in order that he could enter the Park Heights road.

Harold McCullen Emerick, Route 1, Homewood Addition, was found guilty of failing to give the right-of-way at the intersection of Route 40 and Mt. Savage Road on Monday and was fined $3.45. Trooper Browning preferred the charges.

County Board Discusses Sale Of Lots To Vets

Offer 30 Percent Cut In Appraisals

County Commissioners yesterday spent much of their regular session discussing the sale of 32 lots on Holland Street to veterans, and agreed that the lots can be sold for 30 per cent below the appraised figure.

At the request of the Commissioners, two local real estate men recently appraised the lots from $1,250 to $500 each, but when Byron Kight and two other representatives of veteran-applicants appeared before the Board, it was decided to place the selling price at 30 percent below appraisals.

Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., told the veterans the county has had an investment in the lots for a number of years, and also paid the city of Cumberland approximately $10,000 for paving, curb and sewer installation costs on the street. About 10 of the lots are better located and more desirable, he explained, than the others, which accounts for the different figures on appraised values.

Veterans Need Homes

Commissioner William H. Lemmert, himself a veteran, told the delegation the Board feels kindly to all veterans and realizes many veterans need homes. It is not the intention of the Commissioners to make money on the lots, but to realize from them, the actual investment, and at the same time, protect other taxpayers, he said.

Commissioner James Holmes also agreed that the Board should proceed with the sale of the lots to veterans who want to build homes, but suggested that some agreement be reached to present veterans from buying the land for speculative purposes. Preference should be given to veterans who will build homes on lots they purchase.

Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Board read the enabling act passed by the last General Assembly, which empowers the County Board to sell the lots to veterans of World War I and II who intend to build homes on them. If, after two months from the time the sale is announced, veterans have not purchased all the lots, then they can be sold to other persons by public sale or advertising, Wilson said.

Kight and his committee told the Board the veterans are not looking for "something for nothing" and expect to pay a fair price for lots.

He said if the cost of land is too high, many veterans will not be able to build at all.

William R. Carscaden, attorney for the Veterans Non-Profit Housing Corporation appeared before the Board and told the veterans' delegation he was probably responsible for the delay of the Board in making final sale of the lots in question. He said the Veterans Housing Group had taken the initiative to have an enabling bill passed, so the Commissioners could sell the lots, with the idea that the group would sponsor the construction of 25 or more low cost homes on the lots, exclusively for veterans.

Will Meet Thursday

Carscaden further explained the Housing Group now feels that since 60 individual veterans have applied for the 32 lots, the County Commissioners should make the sale.

He also stated the Housing Corporation has an experimental home under construction, to check the costs of a newly designed home. The house will be completed shortly and information and other facts as to costs and local building problems will be available to veterans interested.

A meeting of veterans who have made application for the lots will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at Kight's Funeral Home, Decatur Street, Kight said.

Boy, Playing Under Auto, Is Injured

A 4-year-old Glenwood Street boy, who police said was playing under a parked car, was injured last night at 7 o'clock when the driver, William A. Durst, Frostburg, pulled away from the curb, Detective Thomas J. See, said.

The youth, Arthur Sheetz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Sheetz, 911 Glenwood Street, was taken to Memorial Hospital by Durst, where his injuries were described as a lacerated lip and brush burns. He was admitted for observation.

See said Durst parked the car in front of the Sheetz home while he called on a girl friend nearby, and when he came out the Sheetz youth was under the car. The boy cried out when the car passed over him, the detective said.

No charges were preferred against the driver, according to police.

Cecil DeMoss, 34, Route 4, this city, was treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon for a laceration on a finger of the right hand. He said he was injured as he was cutting wood with an axe.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Charles Martin, this city, with whom he resided, and four brothers, Jorn, Paw Paw, W. Va.; Ernest Kesler, this city; Ralph, Norwood, Pa., and Floyd Kesler, Magnolia.

Meyersdale Man Hurt While Cutting Wood

A Meyersdale, Pa., man was admitted yesterday to Miners Hospital, Frostburg, after he accidentally "split his left foot and lower leg in half" with an axe that he was using to cut wood, attaches said.

Identified as John Lyons, 24, attaches said his condition was "fairly good" early this morning.

Two Men Hurt

the shoulder of the road, ripped through a barbed wire fence and was wedged between a fence post and a telephone pole, officers said, adding that the front of the car was on top of the motorcycle and that Thompson and Shoemaker, who was listed as the operator, were pinned beneath both vehicles.

While rescuers lifted the wreckage so the injured men could be moved, an argument ensued between Collins and the rescuers, the former picking up a rock as if to strike one of them, Trooper Baker said. He added that Collins left the scene, however, went to his home about a quarter of a mile away, obtained two butcher knives and returned.

When the officer arrived at the scene a short time after the accident happened he said he saw Collins standing on the railroad tracks sharpening the knives on one of the rails. Collins picked up a stone and threw it at Baker and the crowd in general, according to the officer, but hit no one.

Fled Through Cornfield

As Baker started toward Collins, the latter turned and ran through a large cornfield where he threw one knife away and then ran down the canal towpath where the trooper caught up with him, after a chase of a quarter of a mile and ordered him to put down the second knife. Then he was handcuffed and brought to jail.

Baker said Elwood Rowley, Route 4, stood by to give him assistance should Collins have become unruly. Rowley's brother, William, stood on the above-ground-level railroad right of way and called out Collins' position during the chase through the cornfield.

Collins was said to be a veteran of World War II.

Court Orders Signed In Divorce Actions

Four divorce suits were docketed yesterday in Circuit Court on two of which Chief Judge William A. Huster signed restraining orders against defendants.

Marian A. Naill seeks divorce from James Edward Naill and the Court ordered Naill to stay away from her parent's home, at Flintstone where the woman is residing. The couple married January 11, 1943 at Flintstone and separated August 9, 1947. They have two children and the Court ordered Naill to pay his wife $60 per month until the suit is settled.

Eva Messick Williams entered a bill of complaint against Robert Charles Williams who was ordered by the Court to stay away from the residence at 13 Harrison Street. The couple married September 14, 1946, at Winchester, Va.

Esther H. McKenna seeks divorce from John A. McKenna, 1317 Ramble Wood Road, Baltimore. In her suit she claims they were married April 26, 1943 in Baltimore and separated February 11, 1946. She also states that she has been a resident here for more than a year.

Suit was also docketed by Elizabeth G. Naill vs Charles E. Naill but no details were available as attorneys had removed papers from the Court House.

Driver Fined On Two Motor Counts

A young LaVale driver pleaded guilty to two motor charges in Trial Magistrates' Court yesterday preferred after he crashed into the rear of a car entering Park Heights at Narrows Park on Route 40 Monday.

Ivan Eugene Izzett entered guilty pleas for driving an automobile with inadequate brakes and for reckless driving. Magistrate Frank A. Perdew fined the youth $5.75 on the first count and $20.75 on the second charge.

State Trooper John Browning, who apprehended Izzett, said his machine crashed into the rear of a vehicle owned by Earl W. Conn, Park Heights, as the latter was waiting for traffic in the opposite lane to pass in order that he could enter the Park Heights road.

Harold McCullen Emerick, Route 1, Homewood Addition, was found guilty of failing to give the right-of-way at the intersection of Route 40 and Mt. Savage Road on Monday and was fined $3.45. Trooper Browning preferred the charges.

Heavy Gunfire Set Off In Jerusalem By Mystery Shot

Parachute Flares Sent Up By British

JERUSALEM, Aug. 12 (AP)—One mysteriously fired shot stampeded Britain's security forces into half an hour of wild shooting tonight in which 500 rounds of small arms fire were spent without casualties.

Parachute flares were set off, red and white tracer bullets sliced across empty streets, and machine-gun and rifle bullets whined from police barricades and security zone gates when one shot was fired in the neighborhood of police headquarters.

A police officer who said he was an eyewitness said the shooting was set off when a policeman in the Trocadero Cafe dropped his gun and a bullet was accidentally fired through the window in the direction of police headquarters.

Private sources said one Jew was killed and three wounded near the Jaffa-Tel Aviv boundary by a band of brigands, described by a survivor as Arabs. He said 12 attackers assaulted a group of five Jews with knives.

Amid reports of Arab-Jewish strife, the Jerusalem Military Court sentenced to five years imprisonment one 28-year-old Arab, Vadia Issat Najar, of Jaffa, for possession of Jewish terrorist leaflets printed in Arabic.

Arabs blamed Jews and Jews blamed Arabs in the latest series of violent incidents in which seven persons have been killed and 14 wounded since Sunday night.

British Tax On American Films Will "Boomerang," Eric Johnston Declares

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 12—(AP)—Eric A. Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, said today in a statement the new British tax on American films would "boomerang on the British, who have a vigorously growing film industry capable of bringing millions of pounds of sterling back to England."

He said it was a sharp blow to expanding trade around the world."

Referring to British action in imposing a 75 per cent tax on the earnings of American films in Great Britain, Johnston said that "thoroughly aware of Great Britain's acute dollar shortage, the American motion picture industry made an offer to impound a substantial part of its earnings in Great Britain during this crisis."

"Our offer to responsible Cabinet officials," he said, "was met with confiscation.

"This confiscatory tax will boomerang on the British, who have a vigorously growing film industry capapble of bringing millions of pounds of sterling back to England," Johnston continued. "This tax could be the beginning of a chain reaction affecting all articles of commerce. Such a constant constriction of world trade will lead only o unemployment and lower standards of living for people everywhere."

Johnston asserted that "a way can be found out of our present difficulties to conserve British dollars without strangling trade." He said the American motion picture industry was "willing to co-operate in finding such a solution."

He said British films will earn $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 in America this year with the prospect that the figure will be considerably increased in 1948.

In Hollywood, meanwhile, sharply-curtailed employment in the American motion picture industry was predicted by studio labor leaders as the most likely consequence of the 75 per cent British tax on film imports.

Reaction of union officials interviewed by the Hollywood Citizen-News ranged from strong recommendations for United States governmental retaliation to the opinion that the tax will not be allowed o stand. The majority agree Hollywood unionists will find far less work in the studios.

Ways Of Boosting Ruhr Coal Output To Be Discussed

Anglo-American Talks Under Way

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—(AP)—The United States and Britain agreed today to consider all problems directly bearing upon increasing coal production in Germany's Ruhr Valley in an effort to fire Europe's recovery.

As the Anglo-American talks got under way, chiefs of both delegations gingerly sidestepped any commitment on possible socialization of the mines, but did not rule out the chance that such an ultimate step, as urged by Britain, would be considered.

Willard L. Thorp, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, told a news conference that no agenda for the meeting has been drafted at yet, but said that "any problem" which has a direct bearing on the Ruhr's production could be considered.

Strang Nods Agreement

Sitting at his side, Sir William Strang, advisor to the German Department in the British Foreign Office, nodded a pleased agreement. It was regarded as a concession to the British viewpoint that the talks could not be limited to mining techniques alone.

This would open the discussions to a number of problems related to stimulating the coal output. To grapple with these, the conference group is expected to divide into several subcommittees tomorrow to tackle specific problems. Seven conference rooms have been set apart for committee deliberations.

The subjects under consideration are likely to fall in these categories:

1. Food. Lack of an adequate diet for the miners has been held a major factor in keeping production down to its present level of about 225,000 tons a day, little more than half the prewar average. Thorp said no specific target has been set. "We want to get all we can," he declared.

2. Transportation. Already a major bottleneck because of wartime destruction and removal of rail equipment, this problem obviously would multiply in direct relation to increased production.

Management Problem

3. Management. This would involve policy decisions on such questions as giving Germans increased authority to operate the mines themselves, that of nationalization, and of providing expert technical advice.

4. Housing. With living accommodations already cramped, this problem, as in the case of food and transportation, is expected to become more acute if additional workers are brought in to spur production.

5. Finance. Requirements for new mining equipment and rolling stock, in themselves, will mean a heavy dollar outlay. In the light of Britain's economic plight at home this may lead to a British request for revision of the 50-50 economic agreement for sharing occupation costs in the Anglo-American zones in Germany.

DEATH PLANE— A Navy salvage ship's crane hoists up the experimental radar plane that crashed and sank off Bowery Bay, near LaGuardia Field, N. Y. The bodies of three of the five-man crew were recovered from the wreck 45 feet under water. The other two members of the crew freed themselves from the wreckage and were picked up by rescue launches.

Buchenwald Defendants Convicted By Tribunal

DACHAU, Germany, Aug. 12—(AP)—Frau Ilse Koch, red-haired widow of a former commandant of the Buchenwald concentration camp, and 30 other defendants were found guilty of war crimes today by an American military tribunal.

The verdict against the entire slate of defendants, all officials of the camp, ended a four-months trial. Sentences will be pronounced on Thursday.

Frau Koch, 41, who became pregnant while in prison, was accused of sending tattoed camp inmates to death chambers so she could use their skins for lamp shades and purses.

Midwest Kept Gasping By Hot August Blasts

(By The Associated Press)

Some of August's hottest blasts in nearly half century kept much of the Midwest gasping Tuesday in torrid weather which forecasters said would linger several more days in many sections.

A mass of cool air which started down from Canada brought relief to the Dakotas, Minnesota, Western Nebraska and the Northern Rocky Mountain states, but forecasters said it was virtually stalled and needed another boost from northwest winds to send it eastward

Such a boost, they added, may not materialize until Friday.

Alleged "Pretty Please" Slayer Pleads Guilty

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Aug. 12—(AP)—George R. Chapman, 37-year-old woodchopper, pleaded guilty today before Justice of the Peace W. C. Klein to a charge of murder in connection with the "pretty please" slaying of his wife.

Chapman, who was found asleep Sunday night beside the body of his dead wife in their one-room cabin 16 miles from here, was returned to the county jail to await action of the Potter County Court.

Deputy Sheriff Carl H. Butler who filed the charge, said Chapman made a statement admitting that he and Mrs. Chapman had been drinking and that he shot her after she refused to say "pretty please."

Fire Sweeps Refinery At Wichita Falls, Tex.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Aug. 12 (AP) — A fire flashed across the Panhandle Refinery here today, destroying warehouses, gas tanks, shops and an undetermined amount of gasoline and injured one man.

Firefighters battled the blaze nearly four hours and tonight only a few small fires, mostly in waste oil, still burned.

R. C. Stanford, Panhandle president, said that production would be resumed in about three days. He said the refinery proper was only slightly damaged.

Atom Bomb Problem Will Face Guardsmen

CAMP RITCHIE, Md., Aug. 12 (AP) — One unit of Maryland's National Guard will go into summer maneuvers next week pretending that an atom bomb has just wiped out Baltimore.

That's the problem which will confront the 110th Field Artillery Battalion. Lt. Col. J. Purley Cooper and his batteries from Pikesville, Westminster and Bel Air will have the mission of beating back a mythical enemy armored column which is supposed to land from Chesapeake Bay after the atom bombing.

The enemy armor is supposed to be heading for Pittsburgh. Col. Cooper's troops will emplace their guns along the Waynesboro Pike, north of here and just across the Pennsylvania state line. The maneuver starts Monday night.

Boy, 12, Admits Trying To Wreck B. And O. Train

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—A 12-year-old boy who tried to wreck a freight train "because I wanted to see what would happen to the engine," was turned over today to Frederick County probation authorities, Kenneth M. McGaha, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Police, reported.

McGaha said the boy admitted placing spikes and plates on the rails in front of a westbound freight yesterday. The railroad police officer said the only reason the train wasn't derailed was because it slowed down for a curve.

Woman, 63, Hacks Her Son To Death

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP) — Assistant District Attorney Emmet Lynch said tonight that a 63-year-old woman accused of hacking her son to death with an axe had signed a statement saying she had killed the man because she feared he would be sent to a mental institution.

Mrs. Bessie Grabo, who was arrested at Ellis Hospital on a first degree murder charge, also related that she tried to kill herself twice today after the death of her son, Lynch continued.

The body of her son, Burton, 41, was found this morning in Mrs. Grabo's house. The head, face and neck were slashed in 10 places.

A little earlier, the woman had been discovered sitting chin-deep in the Mohawk River, 10 miles from home. Her throat was cut, but not deeply.

Lynch said that the son had been released from a state mental institution three and a half years ago. Mrs. Grabo was brooding about this and also about her own imminent divorce, Lynch said her statement recounted. She told him she saw no alternative but to end her son's life and her own, Lynch said.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 12 (AP)—One mysteriously fired shot stampeded Britain's security forces into half an hour of wild shooting tonight in which 500 rounds of small arms fire were spent without casualties.

Parachute flares were set off, red and white tracer bullets sliced across empty streets, and machine-gun and rifle bullets whined from police barricades and security zone gates when one shot was fired in the neighborhood of police headquarters.

A police officer who said he was an eyewitness said the shooting was set off when a policeman in the Trocadero Cafe dropped his gun and a bullet was accidentally fired through the window in the direction of police headquarters.

Private sources said one Jew was killed and three wounded near the Jaffa-Tel Aviv boundary by a band of brigands, described by a survivor as Arabs. He said 12 attackers assaulted a group of five Jews with knives.

Amid reports of Arab-Jewish strife, the Jerusalem Military Court sentenced to five years imprisonment one 28-year-old Arab, Vadia Issat Najar, of Jaffa, for possession of Jewish terrorist leaflets printed in Arabic.

Arabs blamed Jews and Jews blamed Arabs in the latest series of violent incidents in which seven persons have been killed and 14 wounded since Sunday night.

Food For Germans

BERLIN, Aug. 12. (AP)—The American Military Government said today British and American taxpayers had paid nearly $200,000,000 since January 1 to help feed Germans in the British and American zones of Germany.

British Tax On American Films Will "Boomerang," Eric Johnston Declares

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 12—(AP)—Eric A. Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, said today in a statement the new British tax on American films would "boomerang on the British, who have a vigorously growing film industry capable of bringing millions of pounds of sterling back to England."

He said it was a sharp blow to expanding trade around the world."

Referring to British action in imposing a 75 per cent tax on the earnings of American films in Great Britain, Johnston said that "thoroughly aware of Great Britain's acute dollar shortage, the American motion picture industry made an offer to impound a substantial part of its earnings in Great Britain during this crisis."

"Our offer to responsible Cabinet officials," he said, "was met with confiscation.

"This confiscatory tax will boomerang on the British, who have a vigorously growing film industry capapble of bringing millions of pounds of sterling back to England," Johnston continued. "This tax could be the beginning of a chain reaction affecting all articles of commerce. Such a constant constriction of world trade will lead only o unemployment and lower standards of living for people everywhere."

Johnston asserted that "a way can be found out of our present difficulties to conserve British dollars without strangling trade." He said the American motion picture industry was "willing to co-operate in finding such a solution."

He said British films will earn $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 in America this year with the prospect that the figure will be considerably increased in 1948.

In Hollywood, meanwhile, sharply-curtailed employment in the American motion picture industry was predicted by studio labor leaders as the most likely consequence of the 75 per cent British tax on film imports.

Reaction of union officials interviewed by the Hollywood Citizen-News ranged from strong recommendations for United States governmental retaliation to the opinion that the tax will not be allowed o stand. The majority agree Hollywood unionists will find far less work in the studios.

Ways Of Boosting Ruhr Coal Output To Be Discussed

Anglo-American Talks Under Way

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12—(AP)—The United States and Britain agreed today to consider all problems directly bearing upon increasing coal production in Germany's Ruhr Valley in an effort to fire Europe's recovery.

As the Anglo-American talks got under way, chiefs of both delegations gingerly sidestepped any commitment on possible socialization of the mines, but did not rule out the chance that such an ultimate step, as urged by Britain, would be considered.

Willard L. Thorp, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, told a news conference that no agenda for the meeting has been drafted at yet, but said that "any problem" which has a direct bearing on the Ruhr's production could be considered.

Strang Nods Agreement

Sitting at his side, Sir William Strang, advisor to the German Department in the British Foreign Office, nodded a pleased agreement. It was regarded as a concession to the British viewpoint that the talks could not be limited to mining techniques alone.

This would open the discussions to a number of problems related to stimulating the coal output. To grapple with these, the conference group is expected to divide into several subcommittees tomorrow to tackle specific problems. Seven conference rooms have been set apart for committee deliberations.

The subjects under consideration are likely to fall in these categories:

1. Food. Lack of an adequate diet for the miners has been held a major factor in keeping production down to its present level of about 225,000 tons a day, little more than half the prewar average. Thorp said no specific target has been set. "We want to get all we can," he declared.

2. Transportation. Already a major bottleneck because of wartime destruction and removal of rail equipment, this problem obviously would multiply in direct relation to increased production.

Management Problem

3. Management. This would involve policy decisions on such questions as giving Germans increased authority to operate the mines themselves, that of nationalization, and of providing expert technical advice.

4. Housing. With living accommodations already cramped, this problem, as in the case of food and transportation, is expected to become more acute if additional workers are brought in to spur production.

5. Finance. Requirements for new mining equipment and rolling stock, in themselves, will mean a heavy dollar outlay. In the light of Britain's economic plight at home this may lead to a British request for revision of the 50-50 economic agreement for sharing occupation costs in the Anglo-American zones in Germany.

DEATH PLANE—A Navy salvage ship's crane hoists up the experimental radar plane that crashed and sank off Bowery Bay, near LaGuardia Field, N. Y. The bodies of three of the five-man crew were recovered from the wreck 45 feet under water. The other two members of the crew freed themselves from the wreckage and were picked up by rescue launches.

Buchenwald Defendants Convicted By Tribunal

DACHAU, Germany, Aug. 12—(AP)—Frau Ilse Koch, red-haired widow of a former commandant of the Buchenwald concentration camp, and 30 other defendants were found guilty of war crimes today by an American military tribunal.

The verdict against the entire slate of defendants, all officials of the camp, ended a four-months trial. Sentences will be pronounced on Thursday.

Frau Koch, 41, who became pregnant while in prison, was accused of sending tattoed camp inmates to death chambers so she could use their skins for lamp shades and purses.

Alleged Remark Is Denied By Lady Astor

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 (AP) —Lady Nancy Astor radioed from the liner Queen Mary today a denial that she had said she did not care how many Jews were killed in Palestine.

The remarks were attributed to her by ship reporters for the Associated Press and the New York Post who interviewed her aboard the liner last Friday. Reporters insisted today that she told them "you can quote me on that" after making the alleged remark.

Midwest Kept Gasping By Hot August Blasts

(By The Associated Press)

Some of August's hottest blasts in nearly half century kept much of the Midwest gasping Tuesday in torrid weather which forecasters said would linger several more days in many sections.

A mass of cool air which started down from Canada brought relief to the Dakotas, Minnesota, Western Nebraska and the Northern Rocky Mountain states, but forecasters said it was virtually stalled and needed another boost from northwest winds to send it eastward.

Such a boost, they added, may not materialize until Friday.

Alleged "Pretty Please" Slayer Pleads Guilty

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Aug. 12—(AP)—George R. Chapman, 37-year-old woodchopper, pleaded guilty today before Justice of the Peace W. C. Klein to a charge of murder in connection with the "pretty please" slaying of his wife.

Chapman, who was found asleep Sunday night beside the body of his dead wife in their one-room cabin 16 miles from here, was returned to the county jail to await action of the Potter County Court.

Deputy Sheriff Carl H. Butler who filed the charge, said Chapman made a statement admitting that he and Mrs. Chapman had been drinking and that he shot her after she refused to say "pretty please."

Fire Sweeps Refinery At Wichita Falls, Tex.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Aug. 12 (AP) — A fire flashed across the Panhandle Refinery here today, destroying warehouses, gas tanks, shops and an undetermined amount of gasoline and injured one man.

Firefighters battled the blaze nearly four hours and tonight only a few small fires, mostly in waste oil, still burned.

R. C. Stanford, Panhandle president, said that production would be resumed in about three days. He said the refinery proper was only slightly damaged.

Atom Bomb Problem Will Face Guardsmen

CAMP RITCHIE, Md., Aug. 12 (AP) — One unit of Maryland's National Guard will go into summer maneuvers next week pretending that an atom bomb has just wiped out Baltimore.

That's the problem which will confront the 110th Field Artillery Battalion. Lt. Col. J. Purley Cooper and his batteries from Pikesville, Westminster and Bel Air will have the mission of beating back a mythical enemy armored column which is supposed to land from Chesapeake Bay after the atom bombing.

The enemy armor is supposed to be heading for Pittsburgh. Col. Cooper's troops will emplace their guns along the Waynesboro Pike, north of here and just across the Pennsylvania state line. The maneuver starts Monday night.

Boy, 12, Admits Trying To Wreck B. And O. Train

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 12 (AP)—A 12-year-old boy who tried to wreck a freight train "because I wanted to see what would happen to the engine," was turned over today to Frederick County probation authorities, Kenneth M. McGaha, of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Police, reported.

McGaha said the boy admitted placing spikes and plates on the rails in front of a westbound freight yesterday. The railroad police officer said the only reason the train wasn't derailed was because it slowed down for a curve.

Woman, 63, Hacks Her Son To Death

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Aug. 12 (AP) — Assistant District Attorney Emmet Lynch said tonight that a 63-year-old woman accused of hacking her son to death with an axe had signed a statement saying she had killed the man because she feared he would be sent to a mental institution.

Mrs. Bessie Grabo, who was arrested at Ellis Hospital on a first degree murder charge, also related that she tried to kill herself twice today after the death of her son, Lynch continued.

The body of her son, Burton, 41, was found this morning in Mrs. Grabo's house. The head, face and neck were slashed in 10 places.

A little earlier, the woman had been discovered sitting chin-deep in the Mohawk River, 10 miles from home. Her throat was cut, but not deeply.

Lynch said that the son had been released from a state mental institution three and a half years ago. Mrs. Grabo was brooding about this and also about her own imminent divorce, Lynch said her statement recounted. She told him she saw no alternative but to end her son's life and her own, Lynch said.

Engineers Club Will Tour Ocean Mine

Members of the Cumberland Engineers Club will inspect one of the nation's oldest coal basins today when they make a tour through the Consolidated Fuel Company's Ocean Mine No. 1.

The inspection trip will begin following a dinner at Big Savage Inn scheduled for 6:30 p. m. During the tour the members expect to see coal production at first hand.

The Ocean mine is located in the basin where many believe the present bituminous coal industry of the nation had its beginning back in 1751, when the "Fry and Jefferson map" of Virginia explorers indicated "coal mines" near what is now Frostburg.

Development of the region began shortly after 1800 when the Sheetz Mine, located a mile and a half east of Frostburg was opened. During the 100 and some odd years that the basin has been operated approximately 160,000,000 tons of coal have been dug and shipped to all parts of the earth.

Lester Tingle, Ridgeley, forfeited $15 bond Monday when he failed to appear for a hearing on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge.

Anderson Case Dismissed

Charges were dismissed in Police Court yesterday against Woody Anderson, Maryland Avenue, when a prosecution witness, Helen Anderson, failed to appear. He was arrested Monday on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Marriage Is Not Advised When Mind Is In Divided State

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

When someone writes and says in effect: "I love this one, but on the other hand I think I love somebody else, too, and cannot make up my mind which of the two to marry," the answer is very simple. Don't get married at all. Certainly not while in such a divided state of mind.

One of the most characteristic things about being in love is that the loved one seems to fill the entire horizon. Or to put it another way, if a man is in love with a girl, he hasn't eyes for anybody else, and similarly, of course, in the case of a girl in love with a man. The person who keeps comparing two people, trying to make up his mind which of the two he is in love with, is simply not in love at all.

Besides being confused on this point, an ex-service man who writes me about his scrambled romances is confusing himself in another way also. He can't tell the difference between "familiarity" and "love," and I am not using the word "familiarity" in its vulgar sense, but merely to signify knowing someone over a long period of time.

In beginning his letter, he explains that the girl he left behind him when he went to war, expecting her to be waiting for him when he came home, married somebody else while he was away. In addition to this blow that met him when he returned, he had to spend all the money he had saved on getting his parents out of financial difficulties.

In the course of time, he met his former girl friend, and the two of them decided they were still in love with each other and she should get a divorce, for which, apparently, she started proceedings. He then went on to say:

"While waiting for her divorce, I found out that she was having relations with another man, and then I knew that I was jilted again. After that, I didn't care what happened any more for a while.

"Now I have met a very nice girl whom I love very much and we are going to marry. I have just discovered, however, that she is of another religious belief and she wants me to change to hers. I know I would never be able to do this because my parents would object. And, besides, deep in my heart I still love the first girl who wants to come back to me. I know she would make me a good wife because there is no religious difference between us and we get along wonderfully together. But after the way she jilted me, could I ever trust her again.?

"On the other hand, the second girl loves me, too, and I know she would never do anything to hurt me. I want to get a new car, but if I married, I couldn't afford it. I would like to know which of these girls I should marry—or should I get the new car and start all over again and try to fall in love once more, which I know will take years, if ever?"

It seems almost incredible that this young man could have got himself so completely confused as not to be able to realize that if he is hesitating between getting married to anybody at all and buying a new car, he is not very eager to get married. It seems incredible, also, that he would consider marrying a girl who had given him the kind of deal he describes. And since he is convinced that he could never change his religion for the second girl, it is hard to understand why he keeps on thinking about marrying her.

As I indicated in the first place, if a man has difficulty making up his mind which of two girls he loves, he doesn't love either. As I also said, there is a great difference between familiarity—that is, being used to a person and being in love with her. Having known the girl, who behaved so badly toward him, for a long time, and having no doubt dreamed so much while in the army about their future life together, he became emotionally accustomed to thinking of her as his wife, and so it was easy to return again and again to that pattern of thought.

To put it somewhat crudely, I advise this young man definitely to choose the new car instead of a wife at this time. It is highly probable that it will not be as long as he thinks it will before he finds a girl who will divert his thoughts from either of the other two.

Marriage Is Not Advised When Mind Is In Divided State

Maryland Game Group Explains Lake Boat Law

The Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, in reply to comment on the manner of law enforcement by the state game wardens at Deep Creek Lake, has issued the following statement regarding the new boat law at the lake.

The Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission submits the following statement regarding the new boat regulations on Deep Creek Lake, Garrett County:

The 1947 Legislature enacted a law regulating all boats on Deep Creek Lake by licensing power boats, compelling all boats to carry a number one life preserver for each passenger, etc. Senator Lawrence M. Fraley of Garrett County introduced this Act in the Legislature and Delegate Ronald E. McIntire assisted in its passage.

The enforcement of this law is absolutely under the jurisdiction of the Game and Inland Fish Commission. The Commission purchased a new patrol boat and assigned a very competent warden to take charge of enforcing the regulations as of June 1st, 1947.

Twenty-five hundred copies of the new regulations were printed and distributed as widely as possible about the Lake in the short time allowed after they were received in May. For four weeks the wardens in charge spent most of their time advising interested persons of the laws and during the four weeks made but five (5) arrests.

Many lives have been lost on Deep Creek Lake during the past ten years. Only last year there were several lives lost. Most of these lives could have been saved had the boats been equipped with life preservers or operated efficiently. Our wardens are instructed to see that the life preservers are carried and that the boats are not operated in a reckless manner.

700 Boats Licensed

To date nearly 700 boats have been licensed of which 476 are power boats. The task of getting this new law operating the first year has been a difficult one. The wardens have worked hard and long hours and during the first ten weeks of operation only 22 arrests were made, 19 for not carrying life preservers and three for lack of licenses. The wardens could have made many, many more arrests had they been strict but to date have only made them on the most flagrant cases. Certainly 22 arrests in 10 weeks covering the policing of approximately 700 boats does not look as though the wardens have been bearing down very hard.

For some unknown reason, the Oakland Republican has objected to the enforcement of this law and made various statements regarding same.

The first editorial stated that people were being arrested for "all sorts of violations." However, arrests have been made for two distinct offenses, viz., 19 for failure to carry the required life preserver and three for failing to get license on the boats. The same paper charged that the wardens were using "Gestapo" methods, are ill mannered, overbearing, use no discretion, or judgment, and lack proper courtesy, etc.

Answering such loose accusations, we believe would not be good taste, however, we gladly stand on the record of our enforcement officers, although we all know apprehending a person cannot be considered an act of courtesy. Two of the 22 arrests have been criticized by the offending parties and published by the Republican. Our records are clear covering these cases. We do not feel that we have to publish the reason for our actions or delve into personalities. The records of charges and convictions are on file.

Some Confusing Points

Like most new laws there were some confusing points that arose so the Commission, at their semi-annual meeting, July 9, 1947, under discretionary powers in said act, passed what regulations were necessary to clear up these controversial points in the law. A public hearing was held on these regulations, August 6th, as having been advertised in the local press.

Wardens Work Hard

Perhaps the wardens have seemed rather severe in some instances in carrying out their assigned duties. They have worked hard and long to impress upon everyone concerned that in order to keep this area open to the public, it is mandatory that we do everything on our part to see that all concerned are fully aware of the necessity of complying with the existing statutes. We are vitally interested in this area due to the tremendous recreational advantages it offers to Garrett county as well as visitors to the lake and we will do all within our power to see that the area remains open. We fully realize that our wardens are human beings, they will err, from time to time, however, we do feel there are two sides to every case. Certainly these men are not out solely to make arrests but are there for the purpose of seeing that existing statutes are followed and they are also there to assist the public whenever possible.

The acceptance, by a warden, of fine and costs as collateral at the time of arrest is a troublesome problem. The warden making an arrest, may issue a summons to the person apprehended for his or her appearance before a certain magistrate at a given place and hour. Often persons apprehended must return home and naturally request the warden to accept the collateral on the spot and then turn same over to the magistrate, which is a convenience for the person apprehended. It is customary, we believe, for the office of the magistrate to send a receipt to the person apprehended with a notice of the disposition of the case. As a convenience to some persons our wardens accepted the minimum fine as collateral and turned same over to the magistrate.

Have Right To Appear

However, this does not close the case then and there because everyone receiving a summons certainly has the right to appear before the magistrate on the date and hour stipulated on the summons and stand trial. If they fail to appear, the case is marked closed and at the end of the month, if no appeal is taken, the magistrate then sends the fines to this office. We in turn, remitting it to the State Comptroller for deposit in accordance with the law. The collecting of collateral by the wardens was done as a convenience to the persons apprehended, however.

Mr. Vaughn, Director, has never reprimanded the wardens for doing their work but did instruct them not to accept any collateral in the future but rather have the persons whom they have apprehended taken before a magistrate immediately or if this is impossible they are to be taken before the sheriff where they may post their bond or be held at the sheriff's discretion. Last week several persons apprehended for violation of the existing statutes admitted their guilt and promised to stop in Friendsville on their way home and leave their bond for future appearance. They did not keep their word and returned to another state and of course the wardens were powerless to act.

The Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission was empowered by the legislature to enforce the boat laws on Deep Creek Lake. We are duty bound by law to enforce these regulations and so long as it is our duty we intend to do it fairly and efficiently. We know that the wardens have a difficult and unpopular task; we also know that they are doing a good job. It is natural for those arrested to have grievance—22 are possible to date, but for those 22 there are many, many more favorable comments coming to us on the policing of the Lake and the enforcement of the regulations.

Drowning Recalled

The residents of Garrett county will remember how vociferously The Republican has in the past decried the loss of life from drownings on Deep Creek Lake and demanded that something be done about it. These same residents will wonder today why the Republican is trying to embarrass the officers who are now trying to prevent re-occurences of these previous drownings.

We want to prevent loss of life; we want boats to be so operated that all visitors to the lake can enjoy its waters for bathing, boating, fishing or sailing undisturbed by the one who operates his boat without regard for others or who goes without life preservers, unprepared for drownings. To do this all boats must be numbered and policed to fix responsibility.

The Pennsylvania Electric company of Johnstown, Pa., owners of Deep Creek Lake, in fee-simple have always been most cooperative and generous in their attitude regarding the lake. It is the residents of Garrett county and the visitors at the lake who derive benefit from the use of its waters. The power company leases it for $1 per year to the State of Maryland.

Common courtesy or any fairness or reciprocity should dictate that since the Power Company has given this vacation area over to the State of Maryland that there is a definite responsibility on ou rpart to see that the activities on the Lake are regulated by us.

Garrett county sportsmen requested the commission to replenish their deer herds, to plant fish in Deep Creek Lake, to stock the streams with trout—this is being done far in excess of the revenue that comes from the county. In return it does seem that a broader attitude than that of the Republican should be taken than to enlarge upon minor complaints and endeavor to make the enforcement work more difficult. Why not mention some of the good things being accomplished—the size of the task undertaken and the earnest effort to correct a situation which has been a bad one in the county for years.

We do not desire to enter into an editorial controversy with your paper. We welcome constructive criticism and responsibility on our part to see this statement for the information of all concerned. We solicit your cooperation!

Reichert, shown above with his prize bass, caught the fish on a Hawaiian wiggler and took 25 to 30 minutes to land it.

Portland To Stage Ryder Cup Matches

U. S. And British Golf Teams Clash Nov. 1-2

NEW YORK, Aug. 12. (AP)—The U. S. Professional Golfers Association tonight announced the postwar renewal of the Ryder Cup matches with Great Britain would be staged at the Portland, Ore., Golf Club Nov. 1-2.

The British P.G.A. had announced earlier in London that the November dates would be acceptable, leaving the American organization to pick the site.

The P.G.A. offices here said arrangements were completed this afternoon by Ed Dudley, president of the ruling body of U. S. pros, and Robert A. Hudson, an official of the Portland Golf Club.

HARRY DAVIS, FORMER A's HOME RUN HITTER, DIES AT AGE OF 74

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12 (AP) — Harry H. (Jasper) Davis, one of baseball's greats just after the turn of the century, is dead.

Davis, 74-year-old ex-captain of three of Connie Mack's pennant winning Philadelphia Athletics, the American League's leading home run hitter for four straight years and then manager and scout, died last night of a stroke at his home here.

Mack, who learned of Davis' death in New York, said:

"He was a great player who always used great judgment. He was a great help to me when he captained the Athletics."

Jasper—a name that stuck with him from his school days at Girard College—was home run king of the junior circuit from 1904 through 1907. In those dead ball days, Davis won his first title with ten homers. He hit eight in 1905, 12 in 1906 and eight again in 1907.

Davis replaced Lave Cross as captain of the A's in 1905. The Athletics won the league title that year and Davis—although listed as a coach—still was field leader when Philadelphia won its first world series 1910 and repeated the following year.

Dukes Sign "Jeb" Stewart; Ironmen Seek League Berth

Cavanaugh Retained; Five Games Booked

"Jeb" Stewart of Chambersburg, Pa., classy 6-foot-8 center, who starred with Hagerstown the latter part of last season, has signed a contract to play with the Cumberland Dukes of the All-American Professional Basketball League, it was announced last night by Manager Bob Whip.

Whip said that John Harris, manager of the Pittsburgh Ironmen, who dropped out of the Basketball Association of America, has asked for Cumberland's vote in an effort to get his team into the All-American circuit. A vote on two additional teams will likely take place Saturday or Sunday when the team representatives meet at the Fort Pitt Hotel in Pittsburgh. Cleveland is the other club seeking a franchise. There are eight teams in the All-American loop now and fees have been posted by all clubs. A schedule may also be adopted this weekend.

Harris informed whip that if the Ironmen are admitted to the league Charles "Chick" Davis of Duquesne will coach his team. The Ironmen lost $20,000 on their BBA venture last season.

Cavanaugh Is Retained

Whip stated that John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh has been retained as coach of the local pros and that tryouts will get under way about October 15.

The local manager expressed encouragement over the advance sale of season tickets, reporting that 200 books for 24 home contests each had been sold to date. Tickets are for exhibition as well as league games.

Exhibitions already booked are with the Kansas City Stars, November 16; the Globetrotters, November 23; Duquesne University, November 30; the All-American Red Heads, December 7, and the New York Rens, December 14.

Bullets May "Farm" Cagers

The Baltimore Bullets may sponsor two "farmhands" here, according to information Whip has received from the Monumental City. Baltimore has 20 players signed up but plans to carry only 10, and two of those let loose may be sent here for further seasoning.

HARRY DAVIS, FORMER A'S HOME RUN HITTER, DIES AT AGE OF 74

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12 (AP) — Harry H. (Jasper) Davis, one of baseball's greats just after the turn of the century, is dead.

Davis, 74-year-old ex-captain of the ivee of Connie Mack's pennant winning Philadelphia Athletics, the American League's leading home run hitter for four straight years and then manager and scout, died last night of a stroke at his home here.

Mack, who learned of Davis' death in New York, said:

"He was a great player who always used great judgment. He was great help to me when he captained the Athletics."

Jasper—a name that stuck with him from his school days at Girard College—was home run king of the junior circuit from 1904 through 1907. In those dead ball days, Davis won his first title with ten homers, hit eight in 1905, 12 in 1906 and eight again in 1907.

Davis replaced Lave Cross as captain of the A's in 1905. The athletics won the league title that year and Davis—although listed as coach—still was field leader when Philadelphia won its first world series 1910 and repeated the following year.

Feller Can't Understand "Fuss" Over His Playing In Cuban Loop

Bob Believes Veeck Will Approve Trip

By LARRY SMITH

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12. (AP) — Bob Feller said today he couldn't understand why his acceptance of an offer to make a five-game appearance in the Cuban league this fall had "created such a fuss."

The Cleveland Indians' ace hurler made the comment after Walter Mulbry, secretary-treasurer of baseball and spokesman for Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler said he did not believe major leaguers would be permitted to play in the Cuban League during the 30-day barnstorming period beginning Oct. 8 if club owners objected.

"What's all the fuss about?" Feller asked. I certainly don't intend to play against any ineligible players or do anything to hurt organized baseball. The Cuban league has been recognized as a part of organized baseball so I see no reason why I can't go to Havana."

The Tribe pitcher said he had not obtained permission to make the trip from Indians' President Bill Veeck but anticipated no opposition.

Veeck currently is recuperating in a hospital from a second operation on his right leg which was removed last fall and Feller said he planned to discuss the tour with him as soon as it is convenient. "Right now he has other worries," Feller said.

"I accepted the Cuban offer without much delay because I knew that if I didn't they were going after someone else," Feller explained.

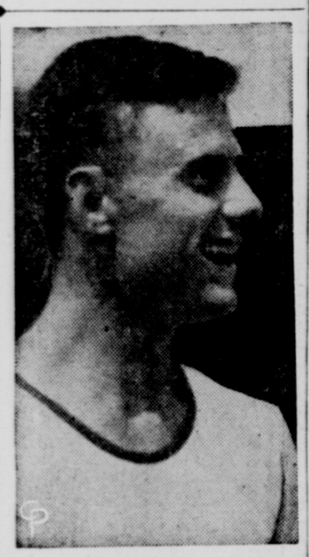

Veeck declared from his hospital bed "until I talk with Feller I have no idea what stand I will take."

At Chicago American League President William Harridge said approval of appearances by Feller and other American League players would be up to Commissioner Chandler.

At Cincinnati Mulbry declared:

"While there is nothing in the rules to prevent Feller or any other major league player from playing in the Cuban league during the 30-day barnstorming period, I do not believe the commissioner would give his permission if the club opposed it."

Chandler was away and could not be reached for comment.

Ab Jenkins Will Try For New Speed Record

WENDOVER, Utah, Aug. 12 (AP)—Ab Jenkins said today he believed the Bonneville Salt Flats would be ready for his attempt to boost land speed distance records on schedule beginning Aug. 18.

Jenkins, former Salt Lake City mayor who holds most of the world's speed marks for distances in excess of 150 miles, arrived yesterday with his new low-slung mobil racer.

Lightning Kills Two Ballplayers

PENNSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12. (AP)—Two semi-pro baseball players died tonight shortly after they were struck by a bolt of lightning which felled three other players during a game here.

More than 100 spectators at the Pennsburg-Red Hill game saw the bolt strike Norman Eschbach, 19, of Pennsburg, R. D., centerfielder for the Pennsburg team, and then fell Stanford Buck, 23, a leftfielder for the Pennsburg team, and Laverne Schwenk, 21, third base coach for the Red Hill nine.

Eschbach died a short time later in Grandview Hospital in nearby Sellersville while Buck succumbed at Allentown Hospital. Schwenk was taken to his home where the extent of his injuries have not yet been disclosed.

The two other players were felled momentarily by the bolt but quickly recovered.

National Amateur Golf Draws 1,060

Gov. Meadows Will Attempt To Qualify

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—(AP)—The U. S. Golf Association today closed the books on entries for the national amateur championship at Pebble Beach course, Del Monte, Calif., with a bumper list of 1,060 applicants—second highest in the history of the title tourney.

Last year 899 sought to win the crown eventually captured by Ted Bishop of Dedham, Mass. The high was set in 1936 when 1,118 entered.

Nine players are exempt from the qualifying play, eight U. S. champions and Robert J. Sweeny, Jr., of Westbury, L. I., and London, the 1937 British amateur king. Willie Turnesa, of White Plains, N. Y., present British titleholder, had earned exemption by winning the U. S. diadem in 1938.

The other exemptees are Chick Evans, Jr., of Chicago; Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston of Minneapolis, who won the U. S. crown on the same Pebble Beach course in 1929; Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash.; Johnny Goodman of Omaha; Richard (Dick) Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C.; John W. Fischer of Cincinnati; and Bishop. All winners of the U. S. and British amateur championships are exempt from qualifying if they enter.

Among notables who will attempt to qualify is Governor Clarence W. Meadows of West Virginia. He is slated to play at Huntington, W. Va.

Lightning Kills Two Ballplayers

PENNSBURG, Pa., Aug. 12. (AP)—Two semi-pro baseball players died tonight shortly after they were struck by a bolt of lightning which felled three other players during a game here.

More than 100 spectators at the Pennsburg-Red Hill game saw the bolt strike Norman Eschbach, 19, of Pennsburg, R. D., centerfielder for the Pennsburg team, and then fell Stanford Buck, 23, a leftfielder for the Pennsburg team, and Laverne Schwenk, 21, third base coach for the Red Hill nine.

Eschbach died a short time later in Grandview Hospital in nearby Sellersville while Buck succumbed at Allentown Hospital. Schwenk was taken to his home where the extent of his injuries have not yet been disclosed.

The two other players were felled momentarily by the bolt but quickly recovered.

National Amateur Golf Draws 1,060

Gov. Meadows Will Attempt To Qualify

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—(AP)—The U. S. Golf Association today closed the books on entries for the national amateur championship at Pebble Beach course, Del Monte, Calif., with a bumper list of 1,060 applicants—second highest in the history of the title tourney.

Last year 899 sought to win the crown eventually captured by Ted Bishop of Dedham, Mass. The high was set in 1936 when 1,118 entered.

Nine players are exempt from the qualifying play, eight U. S. champions and Robert J. Sweeny, Jr., of Westbury, L. I., and London, the 1937 British amateur king. Willie Turnesa, of White Plains, N. Y., present British titleholder, had earned exemption by winning the U. S. diadem in 1938.

The other exemptees are Chick Evans, Jr., of Chicago; Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston of Minneapolis, who won the U. S. crown on the same Pebble Beach course in 1929; Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash.; Johnny Goodman of Omaha; Richard (Dick) Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C.; John W. Fischer of Cincinnati; and Bishop. All winners of the U. S. and British amateur championships are exempt from qualifying if they enter.

Among notables who will attempt to qualify is Governor Clarence W. Meadows of West Virginia. He is slated to play at Huntington, W. Va.

Frostburg Moose Will Dedicate Home This Week

Ceremonies To End Saturday

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Aug. 12. — Daily band concerts and the presence of regional and supreme officials of the Loyal Order of Moose have been featuring the grand opening this week of the new Moose Home, now located in the former A. C. Stewart building, West Main Street.

The opening event of the week took place Sunday evening when the Moose Band of Cumberland gave a concert in front of the building, which was followed by the official dedication of the structure to the charitable and fraternal work of the Moose organization.

The dedication ceremony was conducted by Regional Director Robert Irwin, Baltimore, assisted by District Deputy Supreme Governor Killian Albert, also of Baltimore. A. Charles Stewart, a member of Frostburg Lodge, made an address in which he congratulated the membership for the work accomplished during recent years in placing the Loyal Order of Moose among Frostburg's leading fraternal groups.

Frank Schriver, past Governor of the lodge, submitted a report of the building committee, whose members were charged with the responsibility of purchasing and remodeling the new home. He made special mention of the valuable assistance given the committee by Wilbur D. Sills in securing materials and in various other ways. A buffet luncheon was served following the dedication program.

Yesterday the Lonaconing City Band entertained with a concert in front of the building. Tuesday evening the Arion Band contributed the musical program in the presence of a large audience. Following the concerts both musical organizations were entertained in the Moose Home. Wednesday evening, the program will be in the building and will be confined to social activities.

On Thursday evening the Meyersdale Band will furnish the music for "Firemen's Night." Volunteer firemen of the county have been invited to be guests at the new home. Friday evening, the Mt. Savage Band will play for the "Ladies Night" program and the opening ceremonies will close Saturday with open house to the general public. After Saturday the home will be open to members and visiting Moose only.

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Aug. 12—A public demonstration of the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company's new E and J resuscitator, inhalator and aspirator will be given to the public Thursday night at 8 p. m. at the Firemen's Hall. The new life saving equipment was given to the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company by the employes of the Thompson Mahogany Company.

The new portable rescuscitator has a wide range of use in the emergencies where natural respiration has failed for any cause. Respiratory failures as asphyxia of the new born, surgical and post operative shock, narcotic poisoning, carbon monoxide poisoning, electrical shock and drowning the equipment produces both inhalation and exhalation phases of breathing at normal rhythm and supplies oxygen to the patient.

At present only five members of the volunteer fire company are trained in the use of the new equipment but all members of the company will be trained in the operation and use of the rescuscitator.

In addition to the new piece of equipment, the firemen have purchased a Scott Air Pack. This is a self contained, portable oxygen mask for use in gas or smoke filled rooms. The air pack is waterproof and designed for use under water and may be used for underwater search.

The public is invited to attend the demonstration of the new life saving apparatuses.

Sportsmen's Group Reports

F. P. Baker, president of the Cacapon Valley Rod and Gun Club, and Chester Merriman, secretary of the group, have given a report on the activities and accomplishments of the sportsmen's group since it's organization late in January this year.

This report of activities will be made annually at the beginning of the yearly membership drive.

The officers report restocking of Trout Run with 2500 brook trout and Waite's Run with 2500 brook trout, also 1000 channel catfish in Cacapon River. Game restocked includes 152 cottontail rabbits, 100 pairs of quail and 12 coons.

During the winter months the club members put out 2000 pounds of feed in the fields and forests for game food when ice covered the natural food. The club received 500 Chinese chestnut trees which will be planted for game food. The sportsmen's group built a bass pond with the cooperation of the State Conservation Commission and will rear bass supplied from the federal hatchery at Leetown.

The club assisted the conservation officers in bringing game law violations to the lowest minimum in the past 10 years. The club vigorously opposed illegal spotlight hunting of deer or game and is organized to report license numbers or any other information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of game violators.

The club expressed appreciation to District Conservation Officer John Shanholtz and Conservation Officer S. A. Saville for their assistance during the year and to the farmers and land owners for their cooperation.

The club invites the cooperation of other sportsmen's groups in it's campaign for better hunting and fishing. President Baker announced that new members joining now will have their dues paid through 1948.

Frostburg Moose Will Dedicate Home This Week

Ceremonies To End Saturday

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Aug. 12. — Daily band concerts and the presence of regional and supreme officials of the Loyal Order of Moose have been featuring the grand opening this week of the new Moose Home, now located in the former A. C. Stewart building, West Main Street.

The opening event of the week took place Sunday evening when the Moose Band of Cumberland gave a concert in front of the building, which was followed by the official dedication of the structure to the charitable and fraternal work of the Moose organization.

The dedication ceremony was conducted by Regional Director Robert Irwin, Baltimore, assisted by District Deputy Supreme Governor Killian Albert, also of Baltimore. A. Charles Stewart, a member of Frostburg Lodge, made an address in which he congratulated the membership for the work accomplished during recent years in placing the Loyal Order of Moose among Frostburg's leading fraternal groups.

Frank Schriver, past Governor of the lodge, submitted a report of the building committee, whose members were charged with the responsibility of purchasing and remodeling the new home. He made special mention of the valuable assistance given the committee by Wilbur D. Sills in securing materials and in various other ways. A buffet luncheon was served following the dedication program.

Yesterday the Lonaconing City Band entertained with a concert in front of the building. Tuesday evening the Arion Band contributed the musical program in the presence of a large audience. Following the concerts both musical organizations were entertained in the Moose Home. Wednesday evening, the program will be in the building and will be confined to social activities.

On Thursday evening the Meyersdale Band will furnish the music for "Firemen's Night." Volunteer firemen of the county have been invited to be guests at the new home. Friday evening, the Mt. Savage Band will play for the "Ladies Night" program and the opening ceremonies will close Saturday with open house to the general public. After Saturday the home will be open to members and visiting Moose only.

Sportsmen's Group Reports

F. P. Baker, president of the Cacapon Valley Rod and Gun Club, and Chester Merriman, secretary of the group, have given a report on the activities and accomplishments of the sportsmen's group since it's organization late in January this year.

This report of activities will be made annually at the beginning of the yearly membership drive.

The officers report restocking of Trout Run with 2500 brook trout and Waite's Run with 2500 brook trout, also 1000 channel catfish in Cacapon River. Game restocked includes 152 cottontail rabbits, 100 pairs of quail and 12 coons.

During the winter months the club members put out 2000 pounds of feed in the fields and forests for game food when ice covered the natural food. The club received 500 Chinese chestnut trees which will be planted for game food. The sportsmen's group built a bass pond with the cooperation of the State Conservation Commission and will rear bass supplied from the federal hatchery at Leetown.

The club assisted the conservation officers in bringing game law violations to the lowest minimum in the past 10 years. The club vigorously opposed illegal spotlight hunting of deer or game and is organized to report license numbers or any other information which will lead to the arrest and conviction of game violators.

The club expressed appreciation to District Conservation Officer John Shanholtz and Conservation Officer S. A. Saville for their assistance during the year and to the farmers and land owners for their cooperation.

The club invites the cooperation of other sportsmen's groups in it's campaign for better hunting and fishing. President Baker announced that new members joining now will have their dues paid through 1948.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 12—Katharine Hepburn's outspoken political views may have startled the natives but if you think for one minute they startled MGM out of giving her top-off-the-cream assignments — think again. Remember, "I may not agree with what you say—but I will defend with my life your right to say it"?

Walter Winchell

I suppose the argument will always go on as to whether stars should take active part in politics—but there's no argument about Katie on the screen. She's a fine actress and when "Song Of Love" is released she may be a candidate for next year's Oscar.

Hepburn arrived in Hollywood Friday to go into huddles immediately with Pandro Berman about her next, "Before The Sun Goes Down". This is the novel, written by Elizabeth Metzger Howard, that won MGM's $150,000 prize contest in 1945.

John Payne and George Montgomery (Mr. Dinah Shore) played brothers in a very dramatic radio skit in the salute to the air forces show.

I'm not saying this gave Freddy Kohlmar the idea of keeping them brothers in a movie—but brothers they'll be in "The Ballad of Furnace Creek", at 20th.

It's an original western by Charles G. Booth who won an Academy Award for "House On 92nd Street" and is being touted as Montgomery's best break since he got out of the service. I must say he hasn't done very much to set the world on fire lately. However, he should be a natural for this for George hails from Montana where men are men, pardner.

Chatter in Hollywood: Don't think for a moment that the Dolly O'Brien-Clark Gable romance is on ice. Clark has more of a yen for the rich and chic Dolly than he has ever had for any woman since he came out of the army.

When I heard that they had left the hotel with Connie Bennett and Colonel Coulter with their car piled high with luggage, I thought maybe they were eloping. Dolly's divorce from Jose Dorelius has been quietly obtained in Florida, her official home.

Night club and hotel customers who have been gouged for years by the "tipping" racket will get a chance to have the last bitter laugh after all when Henry Morgan starts going to town in "So This Is New York."

The satirical Morgan wrote this part of the script himself and I hear he gives unholy you-know-what to big town taxicab drivers, waiters, doormen and hat check girls who have their palms turned upward all hours of the day and night.

Only a guy as funny as Morgan, who has kidded everything—including radio sponsors, could get away with this—and make the cabbies, waiters, etc.—like it.

Adolph Menjou, who is so wonderful in "The Hucksters", as the frightened radio executive, gets another big chance in "State Of The Union."

He will play the role of the political boss, a completely unscrupulous but always so charming gent, who will sacrifice anything for his political party. It's a great part for Adolphe, but on the other hand, MGM's mighty lucky to get him.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:—What a show our talented Hollywood folk gave to honor Walter Winchell at the Mocambo Friday night. The host, Charlie Morrison, turned over the show to Jimmy Durante, who as master of ceremonies was out of this world.

He brought Joe E. Lewis, Frank Sinatra, Bob Hope, Tony Martin, Irving Berlin, to the microphone and each one did a terrific job. I would like to hear Lauritz Melchoir sing every day as he sang "Because" for Walter, and Jose Iturbi playing the "Fire Dance".

At one table sat Melchior, Durante, and Iturbi. Tony was with Cyd Charisse. That's getting to be a thing.

I couldn't help feeling, as I listened to the wonderful show and saw star after star, how pleased Damon Runyon would have been at the tribute. I like to think, and I believe Damon knows, the fine job Walter is doing to raise money for the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund.

Bob Hope, who is so funny every time he opens his mouth, danced a rumba with his lovely Dolores, which Bob said they learned in South America.

Frank Sinatra and his attractive Nancy escorted me to the party. Nancy was one of the prettiest girls in a room full of ravishing women. Marie MacDonald and Pat Clark were two of the most beautiful girls.

Postmaster General Robert Hannegan and Mrs. Hannegan sat with the Ed Pauleys, and the Hannegan's attractive daughter, Pat had the time of her life taking a look at all the movie celebrities.

Here are a few who were at Walter's party: Errol Flynn without his Nora sat with the Reginald Gardiners, Sesar Romero, Irving Berlin, who sang "I'm Dreaming Of a White Christmas". Said Bob Hope, "would you ever think a guy who sings like that could have ever written such a beautiful song?"

Jack Dempsey with Felice Ingersoll, Dore Schary, the Henry Ginsbergs, Joan Caulfield, Bob Hutton and his pretty wife, Ann Miller, Lorena Danker with L. B. Mayer, and Bart Marshall and his bride in their first appearance since their marriage. Myrno Loy with Gene Markey, Dorothy Lamour and many many others.

Among the newspaper fraternity were Vincent Flaherty, the Earl Wilsons and Leonard Lyons. Yes, it was an evening to remember.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Education and Can Openers

One of the most drab tasks a man can tackle is the writing of a radio program devoted exclusively to uplift. Anyone who starts out frankly to improve our minds, our morals or our habits is greeted automatically with suspicion if not outright derision. Recognizing this fact and feeling properly uncomfortable about it, NBC's University Of the Air does its best to inject a spark of humor into its "Home Is What You Make It" series which is heard in New York on WNBC at 4:30 PM EDT Saturdays and on the rest of the network at 11:30 PM EDT same day.

John Crosby

The topics that are tackled on "Home Is What You Make It" are grimly educational, of a sort that radio's long-haired critics feel should make up all radio programs. Cooperating in this series is an impressive and weighty roll-call of organizations, all of them intent on bettering conditions here and there. The organizations include the American Home Economics Association, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the United Council of Church Women. Naturally, with groups like that in attendance, the programs are going to be very high-minded indeed.

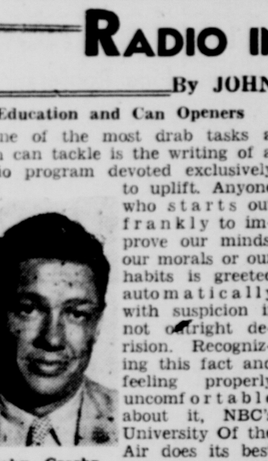

In spite of this, University Of The Air has succeeded in retaining a certain sense of humor which is particularly surprising when you consider the sort of topics they take on. Recently, for example, "Home Is What You Make It" dramatized the life of M. Nicholas Appert, and don't try to kid me into thinking you ever heard of him. M. Nicholas Appert is the father of canning; his career is one about which few people could become greatly aroused.

Lou Hazam, who writes all the Home scripts, offered a drama about a housewife who fell asleep over a book on canning and dreamed about a spirit who told her of the life of Appert. The spirit, I'm afraid, became intolerably cute at times, but he did manage to liven up a subject that must seem academic even to housewives. It may or may not interest you to know that Appert was spurred on in his efforts by Napoleon Bonaparte, who was getting very tired of losing more troops to scurvy than to bullets. It took Appert fourteen years to devise successful methods of canning, but he finally succeeded and was awarded a bonus of 12,000 francs by Napoleon. Considering the effort and discouragement involved, it hardly seems worth it. One thing that marked this script out as a milestone in American drama is the fact that no one at any time scoffed at Appert or called him a wild impractical dreamer.

On many accasions "Home Is What You Make It" ventures pretty far out of the home. Not long ago, Ben Grauer, the noted fashion expert, prize fight specialist and man-of-all-work around NBC, devoted a half hour to teaching tired business men how to relax. Here again the uplift was a little strenuous and the humor faintly spinsterish, but the moral value was unquestionable. Grauer taught a harassed and twitching mortal how to eat, sleep, work, exercise and amuse himself. They weren't exactly startling lessons in living but, in this ulcerous age, they could stand a little repeating.

At various other times, "Home Is What You Make It" has poked a sharp finger into public indifference about education, safety in the home, fashions, and rackets practiced on housewives. This summer the University of the Air is busily saluting the contributions of other nations to "the American way of life," a phrase that has been so battered by contradictory definitions that it doesn't mean much of anything any more. M. Appert, a Frenchman, contributed heavily to that way of life when he presented American housewives the can. The invention of the can-opener followed inevitably and swiftly, laying the foundation for the modern, neurotic American woman.

So He Thumbed His Way Out Of Bar

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Police Capt. Emile Tovani spotted a man standing suspiciously close to the locked door of a tavern, and found out why:

A departing patron, the man hadn't departed quite fast enough. When the door slammed for the night, his thumb was caught tightly. Badly smashed, too.

Tovani pounded until the surprised barkeep opened up—freeing the man—and explained "I thought there was some drunk trying to get in. . . ."

So He Thumbed His Way Out Of Bar

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — Police Capt. Emile Tovani spotted a man standing suspiciously close to the locked door of a tavern, and found out why:

A departing patron, the man hadn't departed quite fast enough. When the door slammed for the night, his thumb was caught tightly. Badly smashed, too.

Tovani pounded until the surprised barkeep opened up—freeing the man—and explained "I thought there was some drunk trying to get in. . . ."

Red Area Called Zone Of Silence

BERLIN—(AP)—The American-licensed Berlin newspaper Der Tagesspiegel has coined a new name for the Russian occupation zone of Germany, where no representative of the western press may enter except on an officiallyp-conducted tour. It is "the Zone of silence."

Under this heading the Tagesspiegel now prints news reports which seep out of the zone via other than officially-censored channels.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our sincere appreciation to Rev. Brake, our friends and neighbors, the Goodfellowship Club, and those who donated cars and floral tributes. We are grateful for everyone's kindness and thoughtful consideration during the recent loss of our dearly beloved husband, father, son, and brother, Arthur L. McCormick.
Mrs. Hazel McCormick and daughters, Karen and Roberta; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCormick; Mrs. Russell McCormick; Mr. Charles McCormick.

NO! NOT A TRAILER— When Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Cosner, Fairgo, decided to move yesterday from Pershing Street to Avenue W, they were faced with the housing problem, so Cosner got a couple of his friends and placed the four room, 24 by 24 feet, house on two trucks and took it along. "Actually," Cosner said, "there is very little to it. We just used a couple of railroad jacks and raised the house so the truck beds could be driven under." Glen Kimble, (in truck) 769 Madison Street, this city, and Harry Hoffman, (at corner of house) Fairgo, supplied the trucks. William Winnebrener, Fairgo, (standing along side house) and Leroy Van Meter, Fairgo (left in doorway) aided in the work. Cosner, (right in doorway) said the work started yesterday morning at 9 o'clock and added he and his wife were going to sleep in the house at the new address last night. The photographer noticed the table and chairs sitting at the window when he took the picture. Cosner said not a piece of furniture was moved out or tied down prior to moving.

Stocks Generally Move Into Plus Column But Dealings Are Slow

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 — (AP) — Stocks generally moved into the recovery bracket of today's market but dealings were among the slowest of the past two months and many pivotals held to a slim groove.

Transfers of 690,000 shares compared with 720,000 Monday.

Pleasing profits compilations lifted Western Union "A" two points at 22⅝ and Chrysler 1⅜ at 58½. General American Transportation was up 1½. Curtis-Wright "A" tacked on one at 15½.

Gains of one to two points were shown for Santa Fe at 84½, Reo Motors 3¾, Douglas Aircraft 57¼, International Harvester 87, Goodrich 51¾, United States Gypsum 99½, Shell Union Oil 32⅝, Twentieth Century-Fox 27¾, Southeastern Greyhound 20¼, Texas Pacific Coal and Oil 34 and Zenith Radio 22½.

Among forward Curb leaners were Atlas Plywood, Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share, Fansteel, Pepperell, Standard Oil of Kentucky and Textron. Consolidated mining slipped along with Lone Star Gas, Pantepec and Middle West Corporation. Turnover here was 140,000 shares versus 170,000 yesterday.

Union Official Reports Door Of Home Smashed

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP) — An officer of the CIO shipyard workers union whose 13,000 members are on strike at four local yards reported the inner vestibule door of his home had been smashed early today.

The officer, H. C. Lundy, recording secretary of Local 31, said he was awakened by the crash to see a dark car speed away from his house. Lundy is an electrician with the Maryland Drydock Company.

Earlier, a spokesman for the union — Regional Director Walter H. Oakes, of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America—said pickets at three Bethlehem Steel Company yards and at Drydock have "rigidly adhered to instructions" to refrain from any violence.

HEADS LIONS—Alvey V. Renn, Frederick automobile dealer and member of the City Board of Aldermen, is the new governor of the Western Maryland District of Lions Clubs.

Reserve Officers To Meet Friday

The Reseve Officers Association of Western Maryland will meet at 8 p. m. Friday at the State Armory, in an effort to reactivate the chapter and enroll as many of the 400 reserve officers in Garrett and Allegany counties as possible, according to Maj. Thomas B. Finan.

State Department officers, with headquarters at Baltimore, will be here to participate in the meeting, Finan said.

The visitors will include, Lt. Col. Robert B. Chapman, president of the Maryland Department; Maj. Ted Erbe, membership chairman of Maryland; Maj. Albert Winters, liaison officer; and Maj. Harry O. Sachs, state department secretary.

Finan said the meeting will be of interest to all reserve officers, and urged that as many as possible attend.

Two Wills Filed For Probate Here

Two wills were filed for probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

The will of Charles W. Cox, this city, bequeaths his estate to George Curtis Beckwith and Bertha May Beckwith. They were also named executors.

The will of Josephine Weimer, Westernport, leaves household furnishings to her daughter, Adella Weimer. She was also bequeathed $500 for the care she gave her mother in recent years. One-third interest in the balance of the estate were left to her three daughters, Adella Weimer, Almeda Brown and Pearl Doran.

Tax Exemptions

Some county officials believe, and Attorney Wilson mentioned the possibility to the Board yesterday, that "pressure will probably start now to have the commissioners pass a resolution under the General Law of 1916, granting all new industries exemptions on their tools and machinery, implements and engines actually used in manufacturing.

In its opinion, the Court commented that the commissioners have passed no such resolution, and when Wilson made his comment yesterday, Board members remained silent.

Estimate Is Made

An effort was made by the News yesterday to obtain the exact amount unpaid the county during the past 30 years exemptions have been the practice here, but Nicholson said this would be almost impossible. Records are required to be kept only for five years, since only the current year and three prior years of taxes are collectable under the law, he explained.

Nicholson said the State Tax Commission makes the assessment against corporations for personal property, and figure on the exempted property of the three firms for 1947 are not available here However, he explained, a close estimate would be between 12 and 13 millions of dollars in assessable tools and machinery, or about $225,000 in taxes for the current year.

It was brought out however, that during the past three years, tax exemptions granted the three industries by the County Commissioners total $628,349.36, or about one-third of the total amount needed to operate the county government for a single year. This would indicate that enough money has been lost through exemptions in nine years to operate the county for a full year.

During the past three years, available records disclose the Celanese has been granted total exemptions amounting to $443,565.41 in county taxes on tools and machinery.

During the same period, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company has been relieved of paying $163,964.59 to the county in taxes on machinery and tools, etc.

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company did not have an exemption in 1946, but was exempt a total personal property taxes of $20,818.36 in 1944 and 1945.

Based upon the county tax rate on real and personal property and the total county assessment of about $95,000,000, had these firms paid taxes, the rate would have been about 20 cents less per hundred dollars to each individual tax payer in the county, or a tax savings of about $10 per year on each $5,000 assessment.

Officials point out that had the Court ruled that back taxes for three years, as well as the current year were collectable, the three industries would face the problem of paying the county close to a million dollars additional this year.

Oldtown. He has 12 years experience in the subjects.

Young, who holds a Bachelor's degree from Mannsfield State Teachers College, Pa., and has been teaching mathematics for seven years, will continue teaching the subject at Bruce high, according to Kopp.

Meyers, a former coach of junior varsity baseball, basketball and soccer at Frostburg State Teachers College, Frostburg, has been assigned to teach physical education at Central High. He received his Bachelor of Science degree at the University of Maryland.

Miss Long, also a graduate of University of Maryland where she received her Bachelor of Science degree, will teach home economics and art at Cresaptown.

Kopp said that it is impossible to estimate what the average teacher's salary will be in Allegany County for the 1947-48 term but a national survey shows that Maryland's instructors will be the third highest paid in the country this year.

However, according to Kopp, the local salary scale will probably equal the state average which is expected to be $3,100 as compared to $2,400 last year.

Only New York with $3,400 and the State of Washington with $3,200 averages will exceed Maryland.

In the county at the end of the school year, vacancies existed in both elementary and high schools. In some cases there were no teachers for the departments of industrial arts, physical education and music.

While the county system will retain some "extremely capable" teachers with war qualification certificates, by and large, Kopp declared, Allegany County will have a professional staff.

The important thing, he declared, is that candidates "of very high caliber" have been attracted.

Stamps Are Not Acceptable For Paying Sales Tax

BALTIMORE—"Stamps are not acceptable in payment of the Maryland Retail Sales Tax due," warned James J. Lacy, State Comptroller and administrator of the act, today in discussing a few of the early July returns made at tax headquarters at 15 West Baltoimore Street. "The tax division," continued Mr. Lacy, "has no need for postage stamps because its mail is sent out under meter equipment."

As returns by check or money order are being received with the returns, the form are being reviewed and screened and the large volume of money deposited daily in the bank. "The office force," said Frank A. Shallenberger, financial executive, "is able to keep the current work up-to-date, but as the deadline of August 15 draws near extra hours may be required to keep abreast of the returns."

"Information requested on the returns is being complied with," said Mr. Shallenberger, "and the few unsatisfactory returns are being sent back for additional information. So far the public has been most co-operative and imperfect returns in some instances will be acceptable for the month of July only.

Forms for the month of August will be in the mails by August 25 and, with the exception of a few minor changes, the information requested will be identical in form and character as that requested in the returns that were sent out for July.

NO! NOT A TRAILER— When Mr. and Mrs. Norman B. Cosner, Fairgo, decided to move yesterday from Pershing Street to Avenue W, they were faced with the housing problem, so Cosner got a couple of his friends and placed the four room, 24 by 24 feet, house on two trucks and took it along. "Actually," Cosner said, "there is very little to it. We just used a couple of railroad jacks and raised the house so the truck beds could be driven under." Glen Kimble, (in truck) 769 Madison Street, this city, and Harry Hoffman, (at corner of house) Fairgo, supplied the trucks. William Winnebrener, Fairgo, (standing along side house) and Leroy Van Meter, Fairgo (left in doorway) aided in the work. Cosner, (right in doorway) said the work started yesterday morning at 9 o'clock and added he and his wife were going to sleep in the house at the new address last night. The photographer noticed the table and chairs sitting at the window when he took the picture. Cosner said not a piece of furniture was moved out or tied down prior to moving.

Stocks Generally Move Into Plus Column But Dealings Are Slow

NEW YORK, Aug. 12 — (AP) — Stocks generally moved into the recovery bracket of today's market but dealings were among the slowest of the past two months and many pivotals held to a slim groove.

Transfers of 690,000 shares compared with 720,000 Monday.

Pleasing profits compilations lifted Western Union "A" two points at 22⅝ and Chrysler 1⅜ at 58½. General American Transportation was up 1½. Curtis-Wright "A" tacked on one at 15½.

Gains of one to two points were shown for Santa Fe at 84½, Reo Motors 33½, Douglas Aircraft 57¼, International Harvester 87, Goodrich 51¾, United States Gypsum 99½, Shell Union Oil 32⅝, Twentieth Century-Fox 27¾, Southeastern Greyhound 20¼, Texas Pacific Coal and Oil 34 and Zenith Radio 22½.

The bond market floundered around uncertainly in the slimmest trade in nearly two months.

Most price changes were fractional, with a few more than a point in either direction.

Volume of $2,760,000 was the smallest since June 17 and compared with $2,952,000 Monday.

Union Official Reports Door Of Home Smashed

BALTIMORE, Aug. 12 (AP) — An officer of the CIO shipyard workers union whose 13,000 members are on strike at four local yards reported the inner vestibule door of his home had been smashed early today.

The officer, H. C. Lundy, recording secretary of Local 31, said he was awakened by the crash to see a dark car speed away from his house. Lundy is an electrician with the Maryland Drydock Company.

Earlier, a spokesman for the union — Regional Director Walter H. Oakes, of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America—said pickets at three Bethlehem Steel Company yards and at Drydock have "rigidly adhered to instructions" to refrain from any violence.

Reserve Officers To Meet Friday

The Reseve Officers Association of Western Maryland will meet at 8 p. m. Friday at the State Armory, in an effort to reactivate the chapter and enroll as many of the 400 reserve officers in Garrett and Allegany counties as possible, according to Maj. Thomas B. Finan.

State Department officers, with headquarters at Baltimore, will be here to participate in the meeting, Finan said.

The visitors will include, Lt. Col. Robert B. Chapman, president of the Maryland Department; Maj. Ted Erbe, membership chairman of Maryland; Maj. Albert Winters, liaison officer; and Maj. Harry O. Sachs, state department secretary.

Finan said the meeting will be of interest to all reserve officers, and urged that as many as possible attend.

Two Wills Filed For Probate Here

Two wills were filed for probate yesterday in Orphans Court.

The will of Charles W. Cox, this city, bequeaths his estate to George Curtis Beckwith and Bertha May Beckwith. They were also named executors.

The will of Josephine Weimer, Westernport, leaves household furnishings to her daughter, Adella Weimer. She was also bequeathed $500 for the care she gave her mother in recent years. One-third interest in the balance of the estate were left to her three daughters, Adella Weimer, Almeda Brown and Pearl Doran.

Some county officials believe, and Attorney Wilson mentioned the possibility to the Board yesterday, that "pressure will probably start now to have the commissioners pass a resolution under the General Law of 1916, granting all new industries exemptions on their tools and machinery, implements and engines actually used in manufacturing.

In its opinion, the Court commented that the commissioners have passed no such resolution, and when Wilson made his comment yesterday, Board members remained silent.

Estimate Is Made

An effort was made by the News yesterday to obtain the exact amount unpaid the county during the past 30 years exemptions have been the practice here, but Nicholson said this would be almost impossible. Records are required to be kept only for five years, since only the current year and three prior years of taxes are collectable under the law, he explained.

Nicholson said the State Tax Commission makes the assessment against corporations for personal property, and figure on the exempted property of the three firms for 1947 are not available here However, he explained, a close estimate would be between 12 and 13 millions of dollars in assessable tools and machinery, or about $225,000 in taxes for the current year.

It was brought out however, that during the past three years, tax exemptions granted the three industries by the County Commissioners total $628,349.36, or about one-third of the total amount needed to operate the county government for a single year. This would indicate that enough money has been lost through exemptions in nine years to operate the county for a full year.

During the past three years, available records disclose the Celanese has been granted total exemptions amounting to $443,565.41 in county taxes on tools and machinery.

During the same period, West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company has been relieved of paying $163,-964.59 to the county in taxes on machinery and tools, etc.

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company did not have an exemption in 1946, but was exempt a total personal property taxes of $20,818.36 in 1944 and 1945.

Based upon the county tax rate on real and personal property and the total county assessment of about $95,000,000, had these firms paid taxes, the rate would have been about 20 cents less per hundred dollars to each individual tax payer in the county, or a tax savings of about $10 per year on each $5,000 assessment.

Officials point out that had the Court ruled that back taxes for three years, as well as the current year were collectable, the three industries would face the problem of paying the county close to a million dollars additional this year.

Oldtown. He has 12 years experience in the subjects.

Young, who holds a Bachelor's degree from Mannsfield State Teachers College, Pa., and has been teaching mathematics for seven years, will continue teaching the subject at Bruce high, according to Kopp.

Meyers, a former coach of junior varsity baseball, basketball and soccer at Frostburg State Teachers College, Frostburg, has been assigned to teach physical education at Central High. He received his Bachelor of Science degree at the University of Maryland.

Miss Long, also a graduate of University of Maryland where she received her Bachelor of Science degree, will teach home economics and art at Cresaptown.

Kopp said that it is impossible to estimate what the average teacher's salary will be in Allegany County for the 1947-48 term but a national survey shows that Maryland's instructors will be the third highest paid in the country this year.

However, according to Kopp, the local salary scale will probably equal the state average which is expected to be $3,100 as compared to $2,400 last year.

Only New York with $3,409 and the State of Washington with $3,200 averages will exceed Maryland.

In the county at the end of the school year, vacancies existed in both elementary and high schools. In some cases there were no teachers for the departments of industrial arts, physical education and music.

While the county system will retain some "extremely capable" teachers with war qualification certificates, by and large, Kopp declared. Allegany County will have a professional staff.

The important thing, he declared, is that candidates "of very high caliber" have been attracted.

Stamps Are Not Acceptable For Paying Sales Tax

BALTIMORE—"Stamps are not acceptable in payment of the Maryland Retail Sales Tax due," warned James J. Lacy, State Comptroller and administrator of the act, today in discussing a few of the early July returns made at tax headquarters at 15 West Baltoimore Street. "The tax division," continued Mr. Lacy, "has no need for postage stamps because its mail is sent out under meter equipment."

As returns by check or money order are being received with the returns, the form are being reviewed and screened and the large volume of money deposited daily in the bank. "The office force," said Frank A. Shallenberger, financial executive, "is able to keep the current work up-to-date, but as the deadline of August 15 draws near extra hours may be required to keep abreast of the returns."

"Information requested on the returns is being complied with," said Mr. Shallenberger, "and the few unsatisfactory returns are being sent back for additional information. So far the public has been most co-operative and imperfect returns in some instances will be acceptable for the month of July only.

Forms for the month of August will be in the mails by August 25 and, with the exception of a few minor changes, the information requested will be identical in form and character as that requested in the returns that were sent out for July.

Exemptions In 30 Years Cost County Over $5,000,000

Industries To Pay $225,000 More Taxes

Tax exemptions granted to three major Allegany industries by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners over a period of 30 years since the practice was begun here, has resulted in a total tax loss of over $5,000,000 to the county, according to a county tax official yesterday.

Commenting upon the opinion of the Circuit Court here Monday holding all county tax exemptions invalid and the Allegany County tax exemption law of 1931 unconstitutial, this official declared, "it must also be remembered that during the same period, these three industries paid the county a like amount or more in taxes on real estate and property not exempt.

It was also conservatively estimated at the meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday, by Somerville Nicholson, state supervisor of assessments, that the court's ruling means the county will collect from the three industries in 1947, taxes totaling an additional $225,000 on previously exempted tools and machinery.

The three industries named in the legal action which was brought in Circuit Court here by James H. Reed, North Allegany Street, as plantiff, included the Kelly Springfield Tire Company which employes about 3,000 persons; the Celanese Corporation of America, employing upwards of 10,000 and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Mill Company at Luke, which employes more than 1,000.

Back Taxes Uncollectable

Reed who is said to be the nominal representative of a number of interested taxpayers, challenged the right of the Board of Commissioners to grant tax exemptions to the corporations on their tools and machinery and also challenged the constitutionality of the Act of 1931.

Following hearings a month ago, at which counsel for the firms and the County Commissioners claimed exemptions were necessary to attract new industry to the county, the three judges of Circuit Court held the law unconstitutional and invalid, although back taxes, unpaid under the exemptions were held as "uncollectable."

At the Commissioners meeting yesterday, none of the commissioners commented upon the Court's opinion, however, Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Board stated the opinion had been handed down by Chief Judge William A. Huster, Associate Judge George Henderson and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish of Hagerstown. He outlined briefly the situation, saying the law under which all exemptions had been granted by the Board, is held unconstitutional, and that the Court held taxes for 1947 are collectable from the three industries.

Nicholson, at this point, made a hurried calculation and stated "a close figure on the amount due is $225,000."

Wilson said the county and any of the three industries have 30 days in which to file an appeal with the Court of Appeals of Maryland. Commissioners made no indication as to whether they favor or disfavor the decision.

Attorneys for the three corporations were in agreement last night that it is too early to state whether appeals will be filed, and said they have not yet talked with their respective clients.

Need New Industries

William C. Walsh, who represented the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company in the litigation, said last night that he has given no thought to filing an appeal and does not know what any of the firms or their attorneys plan to do. He said any one of the three corporations involved, or the County Commissioners as such, could file an appeal. He also said the plantiff could appeal the question of collecting back taxes, if he so desires.

Walsh declared at the hearings before the Court a month ago that "the purpose of tax exemptions to industrial corporations is to encourage them to locate in a community." He attributed much of Baltimore's growth to the policy of granting exemptions. Last night, he said, "I believe this city and county must work out some attractions to new industries. I am interested in seeing the city grow, and unless new industries are attracted here, the town will stand still or go backward."

Clarence Lippel, who represented the plantiff in the tax suits, said last night he has not consulted with his client, and had given little thought to the question of an appeal so far as any move to collect back taxes is concerned. "It's too early yet to say anything, but we shall see what the other side does first."

Yesterday, in legal circles, the Court's opinion was widely discussed and there were many speculations as to what the next move will be. Generally, the average individual accepted the Court's opinion with little comment, except to wonder if his taxes will be reduced next year.

PRESENT CONCERT—The Soldiers Chorus, shown above, a group comprised of members of the Army Ground Forces band, will appear at Constitution Park tomorrow night at 8 o'clock with the band in the amphitheater of the grounds. At the microphone in the picture is T-3rd G. Norman E. Clayton, featured soloist of the chorus and narrator for the band. The 19-year-old vocalist, whose selections have drawn favorable comment from many critics, will present several numbers in connection with the two-hour AGF Band concert.

Soldiers' Chorus Will Highlight AGF Band Concert Tomorrow Night

Will Appear At Park At 8 P. M.

Capt. Thomas Stafford, inspector-instructor of the 208th Composite Group, Organized Army Reserve Corps, stated yesterday that the 25-voice Soldiers' Chorus will be a feature of the Army Ground Force Band to appear at the amphitheater at Constitution Park tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The band, which is ranked with the five best service musical organizations in the country, is being sponsored here by the Organized Reserve Corps.

Directed by Capt. Chester E. Whiting the band is comprised of 80 pieces and includes the Soldier's Chorus.

The chorus is under the direction of M-Sgt. Arthur V. Donofrio and will present such numbers as "The Lost Chord", songs of Stephen Foster; "The Two Americas" and an amusing novelty number, "Orchestra Without Instruments".

Sgt. Donofrio has an extensive and varied background in music. Prior to entering the service in 1940 he directed operettas for the Beacon Light Opera Company in Boston. He is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston and was a member of the Boston NYA Orchestra.

Another outstanding member of the band is Technical Sgt. Norman R. Clayton, who is the featured soloist and narrator. Clayton, who will leave the band in December when his enlistment is up, will study for opera.

The group will arrive in Cumberland today in a convoy of three buses, four two and one half ton trucks and two staff cars, and will be quartered here until Friday morning.

Cumberland will be the first stop on a tour from Fort Meade, the headquarters of the band, to Minneapolis with 10 concerts scheduled.

The 80 piece outfit will present a program ranging from martial music to popular, and symphonic band arrangements.

Capt. Chester E. Whiting, the director, selected musicians from the Infantry, Artillery, Coast Artillery and Armored Cavalry in March, 1946 and since that time they have played before 2,500,000 listeners in over 75 different cities.

The band also has made 50 special broadcasts on nationwide hookups.

Chief Warrant Officer Robert L. Beirly, a resident of Clearfield, Pa., and Warrant Officer Junior Grade Robert C. Lewis serve with the organization as assistant band-masters.

Board Members Clash Over Bills From Engineer

Celanese Gets Building Permit

County Commissioners clashed yesterday over the hiring of trucks and labor by Albert S. Paye, county engineer, without first consulting the Board.

Commissioner James Holmes voiced his criticism of hiring trucks to move stone and other material, and said he believes that under the policy the Board has adopted, Engineer Paye should request permission to spend the county's money before he does so. Holmes made clear that he did not question the amounts of the bills, believes they should be paid, but does object to the principal involved.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert and Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson went to Paye's defense immediately, saying the engineer has been most conscientious and has been working long hours. Wilkinson said, "Paye is working on the new infirmary project, on roads and all his other duties without a single complaint. He has never spent money unnecessarily and has been far more careful than some of his predecessors."

Commissioner Lemmert said in the cases in question he believed that Paye did the proper thing by hiring trucks and labor and moving the stone before the Board met, to prevent paying demurrage.

Holmes said he believes Paye or any other county departmental head should let the Board "know what is going on."

The Celanese Corporation requested and received a permit to construct a $49,049 addition to its Solvent Recovery unit in Block No. 3, at the Amcelle plant.

The building would be of two-story construction with four bays. Dimensions are listed as 76 feet, six inches wide, 81 feet long, and 35 feet high. Structural steel framing, concrete foundations, reinforced concrete floor on the first floor and steel plating on the second floor. A. F. Happe, chief accountant at the local plant, signed the permit request.

Other Requests

C. H. Smith, Pack Horse Road, asked that he be allowed to lay a water pipe line beneath the road to a house he is building. The request was referred to Albert S. Paye, county engineer.

Lloyd Shaw, Jr., Moscow, asked the board to grade an old county road leading from Klondike to the Garrett county line. He told the board that he is engaged in lumbering operations in the area and the condition of the road is such that his trucks suffer much damage. The matter was referred to Paye.

Work On Vocke Road To Start In Two Weeks

Construction Cost Is About $43,000

Work of widening and blacktopping Vocke Road for a distance of six-tenths of a mile between Braddock Road and Winchester Road will begin in about two weeks, according Earl C. Robertson, secretary-treasurer of the Cumberland Contracting Company which was awarded the contract for the job.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the State Roads Commission, and Albert S. Paye, county engineer, said the cost of the work will be about $43,000. Robertson said it will take about two months to complete the job.

The work will be paid for with county and federal money, the county paying about $23,000 and the government the balance. Upon completion the road will be taken into the state roads system.

Work of resurfacing Route 220, beginning a few miles south of Rawlings to the Western Maryland Railway crossing in McCoole has been underway for the past week and probably will be completed in four or five more weeks, according to Chaires.

The Cumberland Contracting Company which is doing the work will blacktop two brick sections of the Henderson Avenue bypass when resurfacing of Route 220 is completed, Chaires said.

Work began yesterday on the 2.6 miles of new road to be built on the Swanton-Bittinger Road by T. Edgie Russell, Frederick contractor.

The road will be of 16-foot penetration macadam, Chaires said, and will cost about $110,000. Equipment for the project was moved to the scene last week.

Widening of Route 50, the Northwestern Pike, in Garrett County for a distance of 9.1 miles probably will start Monday or Tuesday of next week with equipment expected to start arriving on the job today.

Concrete shoulders will be added to the road with curb and gutter to be built at some places on the mountains. The Hamill Construction Company of Baltimore will do the work.

3 Diphtheria Cases, Two Adults, Reported

Three cases of diphtheria, two in Cumberland and one in Lonaconing, have been reported to the Allegany County Health Department, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, health officer.

The unusual thing about the three cases, Dr. Frantz said, is that two of the patients are adults. Both reside in Cumberland.

Dr. Frantz pointed out that the Health Department carries on an immunization program in the schools and added that with antitoxins diphtheria usually is not serious.

Temperature Hits 93; More Hot Weather Due

Cumberlanders are in for another scorcher today with the weather man predicting fair, warm and humid weather for the third straight day.

The mercury got up to 93 degrees yesterday and the .21 of an inch of rain that fell in an early afternoon downpour did little to relieve the sticky heat.

Monday was only a little cooler—89 degrees—and just as humid. After dropping to 67 overnight, the mercury climbed slowly at first to 68 at 8 a. m. and then shot up rapidly to the 93 mark.

Bathing enthusiasts took advantage of the weather and 297 of them paid admissions to Constitution Park pool, a better than average number for Tuesday.

Legion Protests County Board's Action On Lots

Declares Price To Veterans Too High

Charging that the Board of Allegany County Commissioners are being unfair to veterans in the prices asked for county-owned lots on Holland Street, members of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, went on record last night, strongly protesting the appraisal and plan of sale.

A resolution was passed placing the post on record as being opposed to the prices veterans are asked to pay for the lots regardless of the lots locations. Members expressed the belief that there is too much difference between the cost of lots on the paved portion of the street and the prices placed on unpaved portions.

Members also expressed the view that the county should not attempt to charge the cost of paving the entire street against the lots in question pointing out that some of this paving fronts on the North End Playground.

Members who spoke on the question expressed the view that the Board is not cooperating with veterans who are making an effort to build homes here and the prices asked for the property are too high for the average veteran to pay.

This was the first meeting at which newly elected Post Commander Thomas R. "Pat" Farrell has presided and was well attended. Commander Farrell declared he will endeavor to make some progress with the post this year and said the organization must assume its civic responsibility and take an interest in post activities and community affairs.

Attention was also called to a program of the new House Committee to renovate the home on Harrison Street, and to repaint and decorate.

Luke Paper Mill Employes Reject Contract Offer

Ask Group To Press For Additional Gains

Members of Luke Local 676, United Paperworkers of America, CIO, unanimously rejected a contract offer of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company for workers of the Luke, Williamsburg, Pa., and Covington, Va., plants at two meetings held yesterday afternoon, Wayne Ritchie, president announced.

He said the 1,900 member local turned down the company offer and instructed the negotiating committee to go back into negotiations for a new contract. The action was taken at a meeting held in the Piedmont Opera House at 1:30 p. m. for second shift workers and at 4:30 p. m. for first and third trick employes. There was a good turnout at both meetings, he added.

Harry Scott, area director and one of the union's top negotiators in the contract talks for the three mills, spoke at the meetings.

Ritchie said the union told the negotiators to go back and get a good contract by August 20, when the present agreement expires, after adopting a "no contract no work" motto.

Turn Down Offer

Local 675, at Covington, Va., met Monday and flatly rejected the contract offer in one of the largest meetings in the history of the local, Ritchie said he was advised. Williamsburg Local 677 will meet today to take action upon the offer, he added.

The workers, he added, feel that they were offered a raise to make them forget some of the more important things in their contract demands. We want a wage increase but we also want to retain and add to the gains of the last three years and want a share in the company profits.

In reference to the dues deduction clause for the Covington, Va., contract, Ritchie said the union is "not asking the company to violate any law" but sees no point in writing the laws into the contract.

The first stage in the discussions on a new contract for the three mills to replace the agreement expiring August 20, began in Huntingdon, Pa., late in July and was recessed so union officials might report to locals and company officials confer with management.

The talks resumed in Frostburg last Thursday and were halted late Friday night. Company officials charged that union insistence on contract language which would obscure the rights of its Virginia members caused the breakdown. The union contends the talks were broken off when the wage issue was brought up since there was no need of resuming negotiations until the offer was reported back to the membership.

At Frostburg last Friday, the company offered a 13 per cent increase in wages based on hourly rates prior to March 17, 1947, which would amount to a total increase of from five to 12 cents for hourly rated employes, and offered to equalize the Covington rates with Luke.

The lowest labor rates would have been $1.02 for the Luke and Covington plant and $1.03½ at the Williamsburg plant. Increases since V-J day would have ranged from 35 to 42 cents per hour.

An official of the Luke plant said last night that he had not been officially advised of the action taken at the meeting but said "we will resume negotiations when the time and place are settled."

He said the normal procedure would be for locals to notify the Paperworkers international of action taken at the meetings and for the UPA-CIO to contact the company in regard to resuming contract talks.

Attorneys Settle LaVale Water Suit

Following a lengthy discussion yesterday at the Court House, the suit of the LaVale Water Company against Mary Laber, George L. Laber and his wife Kathleen Laber, involving a sewer line near the water company's Braddock Spring, was settled out of court.

A hearing had been scheduled in the equity case before the Court, but attorneys conferred in an effort to reach an agreement without a public hearing.

Charles Z. Heskett, attorney for the water firm, said a written stipulation was entered into between the parties under which the Labers agree to replace terra cotta pipe in the ditch with steel pipe.

The company will furnish the pipe and labor and have the work done with the Labers' filling in the ditch after the steel pipe is laid.

Heskett said that it was also agreed that the Labers would not tamper with the water firm's spring in the future or do anything which would contaminate the water, but that they will retain certain rights to a spring house near Braddock Springs under old agreements.

The LaVale company contended in its suit that the sewer line would cause pollution of the spring and that the Public Service Commission's engineer had told them that Braddock Spring, main source of water for more than 700 dwellings in LaVale, would be condemned by the State Health Department in the event the sewer line was not kept free of contamination.

Swift Workers Win Six Cent Wage Boost

Local 322, Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union, AFL, has negotiated a six cents hourly increase for employes of the Swift and Company branch here, William Krapf, president, reported yesterday.

The increase is in addition to a 7½ cents hourly wage increase which became effective May 15 in a new contract covering some 35 employes of the plant.

A similar increase was granted a few days ago to members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, employed in the Armour and Company branch here. Union officials said the second round of increases were requested in line with a national pattern set by the meat industry.

Requirements Lowered

The Naval Recruiting Station in Baltimore has announced that the Navy Department has lowered the height requirements for enlistments in the Regular Navy from 63 inches to 60 inches.

B. And O.'s New Retarder System Begins Operation

Automatic Switching Still To Be Completed

Use of a new half million dollar retarder to control humping of freight cars in the east yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here began last Friday and is proving very satisfactory thus far, according to H. F. Wyatt, Cumberland Division superintendent.

However, automatic control of switches, part of the retarder's operation, has not been put into use yet and switches still are being thrown manually. It is expected that switching will be automatically controlled within 10 days to two weeks.

Work on the retarder, first to be installed on the B. and O., began last March and has meant regrading the lead thacks into the classification yards to a three per cent grade, erecting a brick building housing air compressor units and an operation tower, raising the rear of the classification yards and installing a new signal system.

The retarder is expected to make it possible to hump from 2,400 to 3,000 cars daily, considerably more than the 1,600 to 1,800 cars that could be humped under the former operation

A master retarder has been installed on the main lead track into the classification yards and secondary retarders were installed on each of the three secondary leads to the 16 classification tracks. A snub retarder checks the speed of cars to be cut from a train just before they cross the apex of the hump.

The retarders check the speed of cars by squeezing against the wheels and the amount of pressure exerted controls the speed. A towerman who overlooks the operation operates the retarders by means of electrical controls.

The retarder system is expected to expedite switching of freight and to reduce damage.

Y. M. C. A. Movie Will Open Today

The motion picture "Give Us The Earth," sponsored jointly by the Maryland Theater and Central YMCA, opens here today, with tonight to be known as "Y" night. Members of the board of directors of the "Y" will meet in the lobby at 7 p. m. to attend the opening night showing.

The movie was filmed in the small community where Dr. Spencer Hatch, YMCA rehabilitation expert, has worked for many years to bring an understanding of scientific farming, public health, sanitation and education to the natives.

Dr. Hatch has been photographed as he goes about his work of turning one of the most backward areas into a modern productive farming community.

Some Progress Noted On Kelly Contract

Some progress was made on the severance pay issue in negotiations with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company yesterday, A. E. Johnson, president of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, announced. He said the union committee will resume contract talks this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Johnson listed the chief issues still unresolved as severance pay, reduction of hours and overtime, the responsibility clause for work stoppage and general rules in the contract. A report of the talks was presented to the union executive board last night. W. J. Lloyd, Akron, URCLPWA vice president, assisted in yesterday's session.

Marines To Man Iwo Jima Float

Five Marines, all of whom saw combat service in the Pacific Area, will appear in the float depicting the flag raising on Iwo Jima which Company D, Marine Corps Reserve, will enter in the V-J day parade in Keyser, W. Va., tomorrow night.

The Morine Corps will also have the honor of providing the color guard which will lead the parade. The guard will be in charge of Tech. Sgt. V. B. Debnam, Marine recruiter, who saw combat service with the First Marines on Guadalcanal and with the First Amphibious corps in the New Georgia compaign.

Other members of the guard will be Sgt. Gail P. Northcraft, Cpl. A. L. Welsh and Cpl. C. J. Menges, all members of Company D.

On the Iwo Jima float will be Cpl. Billy C. Menges and Sgt. Roger W. Lynch, both of whom served with the Fifth Marine Division; Cpl. Paul A. Divico, Fourth Marine Division; and Cpl. Charlie J. Norris and Pfc. Calvin A. Ruehl, both First Marine Division veterans.

The float will depict the raising of the American flag on Mt. Suribachi, February 23, 1945. The Third, Fourth and Fifth Marine Divisions crushed Japanese resistance on Iwo Jima after 26 days of relentless assault which began February 19, 1945.

Permits To Build 3 Houses Granted

Permits to build three houses were granted yesterday in the office of the city engineer.

Jesse E. Wolford, 308 South Street, plans to build a one-story concrete block house on Lot No. 9, Arundel Street, at an estimated cost of $3,000. The house will have a composition roof.

Ralph Valentine, 23 Arch Street, was granted a permit to build a one-story frame house on Lot 11, Warnick Avenue. The house will have a concrete block foundation and composition shingle roof. Cost is estimated at $3,500.

A permit to erect a one-story frame home at 1111 Kentucky Avenue was granted to Wilmer M. Brown, 226 North Lee Street. The structure will have a concrete block foundation, the walls will be covered with inselbrick and the roof will be of composition shingles. Cost is estimated at $4,000.

Bakery Workers Get New Contracts

Local 246, Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union of America, AFL, has completed contract negotiations with four Cumberland area baking firms, Charles W. Robinette, president, announced last night.

Agreements were reached with the Community and Ort Brothers Baking companies in July and with the Schmidt and McIntyre Bakeries last week, he added.

John DeConcini, Philadelphia, international representative, assisted in contract talks with all four firms.

The agreements, Robinette said, call for a 10 cent wage boost retroactive to May 1, and effective July 27, an overall increase of 12½ cents for all employes except helpers (lowest paid male workers) who receive a 15 cent increase.

An improved vacation clause, five hours reporting time and a union shop was also granted to members of the 125-member local in the agreements effective until May 1, 1948, the union said.

Two Men Hurt When Auto Hits Motorcycle On Mexico Farms Road

Route 4 Man Held; Caught After Chase

Two young men were injured, one seriously, when the motorcycle on which they were riding was struck by an automobile near the Western Maryland Railway crossing on the Mexico Farms Road about 7:20 p. m. yesterday.

The driver of the car, booked as George W. Collins, 25, Route 4, Cumberland, who, State Police said, left the scene of the accident, got two butcher knives and returned and then fled on foot from a pursuing officer, was held in City Jail on two charges of violating the state motor vehicle law.

Trial pends the outcome of the injuries of James Roger Shoemaker, 28, 308 Park Street, whose right leg was amputated below the knee at Memorial Hospital after being practically torn off in the accident, and Edward Thompson, 29, 22 Elder Street, who suffered a severe laceration of the left knee, officers said.

Shoemakers condition was described as fair and Thompson's as good by hospital attaches.

Hit Head-On

According to Trooper First Class William F. Baker, who investigated, Collins was headed east toward Oldtown Road on the wrong side of the road and struck the motorcycle, headed in the opposite direction, head-on.

The motorcycle was driven off

State Trooper Coddington Injured By Jack Falling From Moving Truck

Accident Happens Near Flintstone

A Maryland State Policeman was severely and painfully injured shortly before 10 o'clock last night when a large jack fell from a moving stake-body truck and hit the trooper's arm as his patrol car passed.

Trooper William F. Baker, who is investigating, said Trooper George E. Coddington, Jr., was headed east on Route 40 to Flintstone when the accident happened about a mile west of that community.

Baker explained that Floyd Whorton, 30, Flintstone, was driving west in the stake-body truck when the jack fell out as the two vehicles passed, striking Trooper Coddington's left arm.

Flesh was torn from the bone between the wrist and shoulder. Coddington's condition last night was said to be "pretty good" by attaches of Memorial Hospital where he was admitted for treatment.

Whorton, meanwhile, was held in the City Jail for investigation.

Police said the jack had been anchored in the truck by chains but that the chains became loose.

The accident occurred within view of Trooper Melvin Snyder who was a passenger on a Blue Ridge bus, according to officers; Coddington, seeking assistance, blew the siren of his patrol car to stop the bus. Trooper Snyder brought him to the hospital here.

Exemptions In 30 Years Cost County Over $5,000,000

Industries To Pay $225,000 More Taxes

Tax exemptions granted to three major Allegany industries by the Board of Allegany County Commissioners over a period of 30 years since the practice was begun here, has resulted in a total tax loss of over $5,000,000 to the county, according to a county tax official yesterday.

Commenting upon the opinion of the Circuit Court here Monday holding all county tax exemptions invalid and the Allegany County tax exemption law of 1931 unconstitutial, this official declared, "it must also be remembered that during the same period, these three industries paid the county a like amount or more in taxes on real estate and property not exempt.

It was also conservatively estimated at the meeting of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners yesterday, by Somerville Nicholson, state supervisor of assessments, that the court's ruling means the county will collect from the three industries in 1947, taxes totaling an additional $225,000 on previously exempted tools and machinery.

The three industries named in the legal action which was brought in Circuit Court here by James H. Reed, North Allegany Street, as plantiff, included the Kelly Springfield Tire Company which employes about 3,000 persons; the Celanese Corporation of America, employing upwards of 10,000 and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Mill Company at Luke, which employes more than 1,000.

Back Taxes Uncollectable

Reed who is said to be the nominal representative of a number of interested taxpayers, challenged the right ofthe Board of Commissioners to grant tax exemptions to the corporations on their tools and machinery and also challenged the constitutionality of the Act of 1931.

Following hearings a month ago, at which counsel for the firms and the County Commissioners claimed exemptions were necessary to attract new industry to the county, the three judges of Circuit Court held the law unconstitutional and invalid, although back taxes, unpaid under the exemptions were held as "uncollectable."

At the Commissioners meeting yesterday, none of the commissioners commented upon the Court's opinion, however, Lewis M. Wilson, attorney to the Board stated the opinion had been handed down by Chief Judge William A. Huster, Associate Judge George Henderson and Associate Judge Joseph D. Mish of Hagerstown. He outlined briefly the situation, saying the law under which all exemptions had been granted by the Board, is held unconstitutional, and that the Court held taxes for 1947 are collectable from the three industries.

Nicholson, at this point, made a hurried calculation and stated "a close figure on the amount due is $225,000."

Wilson said the county and any of the three industries have 30 days in which to file an appeal with the Court of Appeals of Maryland. Commissioners made no indication as to whether they favor or disfavor the decision.

Attorneys for the three corporations were in agreement last night that it is too early to state whether appeals will be filed, and said they have not yet talked with their respective clients.

Need New Industries

William C. Walsh, who represented the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company in the litigation, said last night that he has given no thought to filing an appeal and does not know what any of the firms or their attorneys plan to do. He said any one of the three corporations involved, or the County Commissioners as such, could file an appeal. He also said the plantiff could appeal the question of collecting back taxes, if he so desires.

Walsh declared at the hearings before the Court a month ago that "the purpose of tax exemptions to industrial corporations is to encourage them to locate in a community." He attributed much of Baltimore's growth to the policy of granting exemptions. Last night, he said, "I believe this city and county must work out some attractions to new industries. I am interested in seeing the city grow, and unless new industries are attracted here, the town will stand still or go backward."

Clarence Lippel, who represented the plantiff in the tax suits, said last night he has not consulted with his client, and had given little thought to the question of an appeal so far as any move to collect back taxes is concerned. "It's too early yet to say anything, but we shall see what the other side does first."

Yesterday, in legal circles, the Court's opinion was widely discussed and there were many speculations as to what the next move will be. Generally, the average individual accepted the Court's opinion with little comment, except to wonder if his taxes will be reduced next year.

Work On Vocke Road To Start In Two Weeks

Construction Cost Is About $43,000

Work of widening and blacktopping Vocke Road for a distance of six-tenths of a mile between Braddock Road and Winchester Road will begin in about two weeks, according Earl C. Robertson, secretary-treasurer of the Cumberland Contracting Company which was awarded the contract for the job.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the State Roads Commission, and Albert S. Paye, county engineer, said the cost of the work will be about $43,000. Robertson said it will take about two months to complete the job.

The work will be paid for with county and federal money, the county paying about $23,000 and the government the balance. Upon completion the road will be taken into the state roads system.

Work of resurfacing Route 220, beginning a few miles south of Rawlings to the Western Maryland Railway crossing in McCoole has been underway for the past week and probably will be completed in four or five more weeks, according to Chaires.

The Cumberland Contracting Company which is doing the work will blacktop two brick sections of the Henderson Avenue bypass when resurfacing of Route 220 is completed, Chaires said.

Work began yesterday on the 2.6 miles of new road to be built on the Swanton-Bittinger Road by T. Edgie Russell, Frederick contractor.

The road will be of 16-foot penetration macadam, Chaires said, and will cost about $110,000. Equipment for the project was moved to the scene last week.

Widening of Route 50, the Northwestern Pike, in Garrett County for a distance of 9.1 miles probably will start Monday or Tuesday of next week with equipment expected to start arriving on the job today.

Concrete shoulders will be added to the road with curb and gutter to be built at some places on the mountains. The Hamill Construction Company of Baltimore will do the work.

3 Diphtheria Cases, Two Adults, Reported

Three cases of diphtheria, two in Cumberland and one in Lonaconing, have been reported to the Allegany County Health Department, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, health officer.

The unusual thing about the three cases, Dr. Frantz said, is that two of the patients are adults. Both reside in Cumberland.

Dr. Frantz pointed out that the Health Department carries on an immunization program in the schools and added that with antitoxins diphtheria usually is not serious.

Temperature Hits 93; More Hot Weather Due

Cumberlanders are in for another scorcher today with the weather man predicting fair, warm and humid weather for the third straight day.

The mercury got up to 93 degrees yesterday and the .21 of an inch of rain that fell in an early afternoon downpour did little to relieve the sticky heat.

Monday was only a little cooler—89 degrees—and just as humid. After dropping to 67 overnight, the mercury climbed slowly at first to 68 at 8 a. m. and then shot up rapidly to the 93 mark.

Bathing enthusiasts took advantage of the weather and 297 of them paid admissions to Constitution Park pool, a better than average number for Tuesday.

Legion Protests County Board's Action On Lots

Declares Price To Veterans Too High

Charging that the Board of Allegany County Commissioners are being unfair to veterans in the prices asked for county-owned lots on Holland Street, members of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, went on record last night, strongly protesting the appraisal and plan of sale.

A resolution was passed placing the post on record as being opposed to the prices veterans are asked to pay for the lots regardless of the lots locations. Members expressed the belief that there is too much difference between the cost of lots on the paved portion of the street and the prices placed on unpaved portions.

Members also expressed the view that the county should not attempt to charge the cost of paving the entire street against the lots in question pointing out that some of this paving fronts on the North End Playground.

Members who spoke on the question expressed the view that the Board is not cooperating with veterans who are making an effort to build homes here and the prices asked for the property are too high for the average veteran to pay.

This was the first meeting at which newly elected Post Commander Thomas R. "Pat" Farrell has presided and was well attended. Commander Farrell declared he will endeavor to make some progress with the post this year and said the organization must assume its civic responsibility and take an interest in post activities and community affairs.

Attention was also called to a program of the new House Committee to renovate the home on Harrison Street, and to repaint and decorate.

Luke Paper Mill Employes Reject Contract Offer

Ask Group To Press For Additional Gains

Members of Luke Local 676, United Paperworkers of America, CIO, unanimously rejected a contract offer of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company for workers of the Luke, Williamsburg, Pa., and Covington, Va., plants at two meetings held yesterday afternoon, Wayne Ritchie, president announced.

He said the 1,900 member local turned down the company offer and instructed the negotiating committee to go back into negotiations for a new contract. The action was taken at a meeting held in the Piedmont Opera House at 1:30 p. m. for second shift workers and at 4:30 p. m. for first and third trick employes. There was a good turnout at both meetings, he added.

Harry Scott, area director and one of the union's top negotiators in the contract talks for the three mills, spoke at the meetings.

Ritchie said the union told the negotiators to go back and get a good contract by August 20, when the present agreement expires, after adopting a "no contract no work" motto.

Turn Down Offer

Local 675, at Covington, Va., met Monday and flatly rejected the contract offer in one of the largest meetings in the history of the local, Ritchie said he was advised. Williamsburg Local 677 will meet today to take action upon the offer, he added.

The workers, he added, feel that they were offered a raise to make them forget some of the more important things in their contract demands. We want a wage increase but we also want to retain and add to the gains of the last three years and want a share in the company profits.

In reference to the dues deduction clause for the Covington, Va., contract, Ritchie said the union is "not asking the company to violate any law" but sees no point in writing the laws into the contract.

The first stage in the discussions on a new contract for the three mills to replace the agreement expiring August 20, began in Huntingdon, Pa., late in July and was recessed so union officials might report to locals and company officials confer with management.

The talks resumed in Frostburg last Thursday and were halted late Friday night. Company officials charged that union insistence on contract language which would obscure the rights of its Virginia members caused the breakdown. The union contends the talks were broken off when the wage issue was brought up since there was no need of resuming negotiations until the offer was reported back to the membership.

At Frostburg last Friday, the company offered a 13 per cent increase in wages based on hourly rates prior to March 17, 1947, which would amount to a total increase of from five to 12 cents for hourly rated employes, and offered to equalize the Covington rates with Luke.

The lowest labor rates would have been $1.02 for the Luke and Covington plant and $1.03½ at the Williamsburg plant. Increases since V-J day would have ranged from 35 to 42 cents per hour.

An official of the Luke plant said last night that he had not been officially advised of the action taken at the meeting but said "we will resume negotiations when the time and place are settled."

He said the normal procedure would be for locals to notify the Paperworkers international of action taken at the meetings and for the UPA-CIO to contact the company in regard to resuming contract talks.

Requirements Lowered

The Naval Recruiting Station in Baltimore has announced that the Navy Department has lowered the height requirements for enlistments in the Regular Navy from 63 inches to 60 inches.

The driver of the car, booked as George W. Collins, 25, Route 4, Cumberland, who, State Police said, left the scene of the accident, got two butcher knives and returned and then fled on foot from a pursuing officer, was held in City Jail on two charges of violating the state motor vehicle law.

Trial pends the outcome of the injuries of James Roger Shoemaker, 28, 308 Park Street, whose right leg was amputated below the knee at Memorial Hospital after being practically torn off in the accident, and Edward Thompson, 29,° 22 Elder Street, who suffered a severe laceration of the left knee, officers said.

Shoemakers condition was described as fair and Thompson's as good by hospital attaches.

Hit Head-On

According to Trooper First Class William F. Baker, who investigated, Collins was headed east toward Oldtown Road on the wrong side of the road and struck the motorcycle, headed in the opposite direction, head-on.

The motorcycle was driven off

Attorneys Settle LaVale Water Suit

Following a lengthy discussion yesterday at the Court House, the suit of the LaVale Water Company against Mary Laber, George L. Laber and his wife Kathleen Laber, involving a sewer line near the water company's Braddock Spring, was settled out of court.

A hearing had been scheduled in the equity case before the Court, but attorneys conferred in an effort to reach an agreement without a public hearing.

Charles Z. Heskett, attorney for the water firm, said a written stipulation was entered into between the parties under which the Labers agree to replace terra cotta pipe in the ditch with steel pipe.

The company will furnish the pipe and labor and have the work done with the Labers' filling in the ditch after the steel pipe is laid.

Heskett said that it was also agreed that the Labers would not tamper with the water firm's spring in the future or do anything which would contaminate the water, but that they will retain certain rights to a spring house near Braddock Springs under old agreements.

The LaVale company contended in its suit that the sewer line would cause pollution of the spring and that the Public Service Commission's engineer had told them that Braddock Spring, main source of water for more than 700 dwellings in LaVale, would be condemned by the State Health Department in the event the sewer line was not kept free of contamination.

Swift Workers Win Six Cent Wage Boost

Local 322, Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union, AFL, has negotiated a six cents hourly increase for employes of the Swift and Company branch here, William Krapf, president, reported yesterday.

The increase is in addition to a 7½ cents hourly wage increase which became effective May 15 in a new contract covering some 35 employes of the plant.

A similar increase was granted a few days ago to members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, AFL, employed in the Armour and Company branch here. Union officials said the second round of increases were requested in line with a national pattern set by the meat industry.

Soldiers' Chorus Will Highlight AGF Band Concert Tomorrow Night

Will Appear At Park At 8 P. M.

Capt. Thomas Stafford, inspector-instructor of the 208th Composite Group, Organized Army Reserve Corps, stated yesterday that the 25-voice Soldiers' Chorus will be a feature of the Army Ground Force Band to appear at the amphitheater at Constitution Park tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The band, which is ranked with the five best service musical organizations in the country, is being sponsored here by the Organized Reserve Corps.

The chorus is under the direction of M-Sgt. Arthur V. Donofrio and will present such numbers as "The Lost Chord", songs of Stephen Foster; "The Two Americas" and an amusing novelty number, "Orchestra Without Instruments".

Sgt. Donofrio has an extensive and varied background in music. Prior to entering the service in 1940 he directed operettas for the Beacon Light Opera Company in Boston. He is a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston and was a member of the Boston NYA Orchestra.

B. And O.'s New Retarder System Begins Operation

Automatic Switching Still To Be Completed

Use of a new half million dollar retarder to control humping of freight cars in the east yards of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here began last Friday and is proving very satisfactory thus far, according to H. F. Wyatt, Cumberland Division superintendent.

However, automatic control of switches, part of the retarder's operation, has not been put into use yet and switches still are being thrown manually. It is expected that switching will be automatically controlled within 10 days to two weeks.

Work on the retarder, first to be installed on the B. and O., began last March and has meant regrading the lead thacks into the classification yards to a three per cent grade, erecting a brick building housing air compressor units and an operation tower, raising the rear of the classification yards and installing a new signal system.

The retarder is expected to make it possible to hump from 2,400 to 3,000 cars daily, considerably more than the 1,600 to 1,800 cars that could be humped under the former operation

A master retarder has been installed on the main lead track into the classification yards and secondary retarders were installed on each of the three secondary leads to the 16 classification tracks. A snub retarder checks the speed of cars to be cut from a train just before they cross the apex of the hump.

The retarders check the speed of cars by squeezing against the wheels and the amount of pressure exerted controls the speed. A towerman who overlooks the operation operates the retarders by means of electrical controls.

The retarder system is expected to expedite switching of freight and to reduce damage.

Dr. Hatch has been photographed as he goes about his work of turning one of the most backward areas into a modern productive farming community.

Some Progress Noted On Kelly Contract

Some progress was made on the severance pay issue in negotiations with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company yesterday, A. E. Johnson, president of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, announced. He said the union committee will resume contract talks this morning at 9:30 o'clock.

Johnson listed the chief issues still unresolved as severance pay, reduction of hours and overtime, the responsibility clause for work stoppage and general rules in the contract. A report of the talks was presented to the union executive board last night. W. J. Lloyd, Akron, URCLPWA vice president, assisted in yesterday's session.

State Trooper Coddington Injured By Jack Falling From Moving Truck

Accident Happens Near Flintstone

A Maryland State Policeman was severely and painfully injured shortly before 10 o'clock last night when a large jack fell from a moving stake-body truck and hit the trooper's arm as his patrol car passed.

Trooper William F. Baker, who is investigating, said Trooper George E. Coddington, Jr., was headed east on Route 40 to Flintstone when the accident happened about a mile west of that community.

Baker explained that Floyd Whorton, 30, Flintstone, was driving west in the stake-body truck when the jack fell out as the two vehicles passed, striking Trooper Coddington's left arm.

Flesh was torn from the bone between the wrist and shoulder. Coddington's condition last night was said to be "pretty good" by attaches of Memorial Hospital where he was admitted for treatment.

Whorton, meanwhile, was held in the City Jail for investigation.

Police said the jack had been anchored in the truck by chains but that the chains became loose.

The accident occurred within view of Trooper Melvin Snyder who was a passenger on a Blue Ridge bus, according to officers; Coddington, seeking assistance, blew the siren of his patrol car to stop the bus. Trooper Snyder brought him to the hospital here.

Board Members Clash Over Bills From Engineer

Celanese Gets Building Permit

County Commissioners clashed yesterday over the hiring of trucks and labor by Albert S. Paye, county engineer, without first consulting the Board.

Commissioner James Holmes voiced his criticism of hiring trucks to move stone and other material, and said he believes that under the policy the Board has adopted, Engineer Paye should request permission to spend the county's money before he does so. Holmes made clear that he did not question the amounts of the bills, believes they should be paid, but does object to the principal involved.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert and Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson went to Paye's defense immediately, saying the engineer has been most conscientious and has been working long hours. Wilkinson said, "Paye is working on the new infirmary project, on roads and all his other duties without a single complaint. He has never spent money unnecessarily and has been far more careful than some of his predecessors."

Commissioner Lemmert said in the cases in question he believed that Paye did the proper thing by hiring trucks and labor and moving the stone before the Board met, to prevent paying demurrage.

Holmes said he believes Paye or any other county departmental head should let the Board "know what is going on."

The Celanese Corporation requested and received a permit to construct a $49,049 addition to its Solvent Recovery unit in Block No. 3, at the Amcelle plant.

The building would be of two-story construction with four bays. Dimensions are listed as 76 feet, six inches wide, 81 feet long, and 35 feet high. Structural steel framing, concrete foundations, reinforced concrete floor on the first floor and steel plating on the second floor. A. F. Happe, chief accountant at the local plant, signed the permit request.

Other Requests

C. H. Smith, Pack Horse Road, asked that he be allowed to lay a water pipe line beneath the road to a house he is building. The request was referred to Albert S. Paye, county engineer.

Lloyd Shaw, Jr., Moscow, asked the board to grade an old county road leading from Klondike to the Garrett county line. He told the board that he is engaged in lumbering operations in the area and the condition of the road is such that his trucks suffer much damage. The matter was referred to Paye.

The float will depict the raising of the American flag on Mt. Suribachi, February 23, 1945. The Third, Fourth and Fifth Marine Divisions crushed Japanese resistance on Iwo Jima after 26 days of relentless assault which began February 19, 1945.

Bakery Workers Get New Contracts

Local 246, Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union of America, AFL, has completed contract negotiations with four Cumberland area baking firms, Charles W. Robinette, president, announced last night.

Agreements were reached with the Community and Ort Brothers Baking companies in July and with the Schmidt and McIntyre Bakeries last week, he added.

John DeConcini, Philadelphia, international representative, assisted in contract talks with all four firms.

The agreements, Robinette said, call for a 10 cent wage boost retroactive to May 1, and effective July 27, an overall increase of 12½ cents for all employes except helpers (lowest paid male workers) who receive a 15 cent increase.

An improved vacation clause, five hours reporting time and a union shop was also granted to members of the 125-member local in the agreements effective until May 1, 1948, the union said.
